GRAHAM, SCHLICKMAN WIN

GOP Winner - - Schlickman

Eugene Schlickman defeated Thomas Novotny Tuesday in the election race for Republican committeeman of Wheeling Township — but not without a fight.

James Stavros, unopposed incumbent Democratic committeeman, was re-elected with 1,685 votes.

Final tally of ballots showed Schlickman received 3,809 votes and Novotny 3,601 votes. The margin was only 208 votes.

Novotny, conceding defeat at 9:15 p.m., said a poor voter turnout largely contributed to his losing the election.

"The support I received was underwhelming," remarked Novotny. Asked if he would assume an active role in the GOP ranks, he replied that the possibility was "strictly up to the leader of the party" in the township.

THOUGH Schlickman led throughout most of the tally, Novotny was never far behind. At one point during the tabulation, Novotny led by three votes.

The contest was considered a hot race despite the fact that Schlickman received the endorsements of the influential Wheeling Township Republican Organization.

Novotny appeared briefly at Republican headquarters for speech-making led by Richard Cowen, acting committeeman for Thomas Houser who is serving as Charles Percy's campaign manager in the U. S. senatorial race. Houser is retiring from his committeeman post to devote full time to Percy's campaign.

After learning of his victory, Schlickman stated, "I assure you the Wheeling Township organization will be the best organization and the strongest in suburban Cook County." He assured fellow-Republicans that "reorganization will take place" within the township GOP.

SCHLICKMAN was also successful in his primary election drive for state representative of the Third District.

During their campaign, both Novotny and Schlickman stressed that the most important post-primary task would be to form a united front against the Democrats in November. The hot and sometimes bitter race between the two men indicated there was a split among township ranks.

On the Democratic side of township committeeman race, Stavros pledged an all-out effort in heading the drive against the Republicans in November.

Only in two of the township's 66 precincts were more Democratic ballots cast than Republican.

See Fight On Zoning In County

Proposed rezoning by the Cook County Zoning Board of 48 acres at Seeger and Goebbert Roads for construction of an elaborate $15 million cluster-housing project is expected to meet opposition from the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Kenroy Inc. and 3-H Building and Development Corp. went before the county zoning board Monday with plans to build 900 units of apartments and single family homes on the unincorporated land. The property, adjacent to the southwest corner of Goebbert and Seeger Roads, is bounded by Arlington Heights on the north and west.

The village board May 31 approved a resolution opposing developers' request to have the land rezoned from single family.

R. Marlin Smith, acting village attorney, requested the county zoning board to delay its decision until July 20 so that Arlington Heights could have time to consider the proposal.

THE VILLAGE board at the May 31 meeting decided to fight what it considered excessive multiple family rezoning by the county within 1.5 miles of village limits. The board argues that the village would be faced with meeting all the utility and protection problems growing out of multiple family developments in unincorporated areas.

This position also is backed by the Northwest Municipal Conference, which went on record opposing such rezoning.

Roy Gottlieb, real estate broker for Kenroy Inc., told the county zoning board developers wanted to build 450 one-bedroom units, 200 two-bedroom units and 250 three-bedroom units. Most of the three-bedroom structures would be single-family homes, now planned for construction on the north and east perimeter of the property, according to Gottlieb.

Rental for the units would range from $160 to $325. Density would be under 19 units an acre.

WILLARD PEDRICK, chairman of the county zoning board, assured Smith that Arlington Heights would be allowed participation in the negotiation on specific controls or changes that might be suggested.

Smith, acting for Village Atty. Jack Siegel, who is out of town, said Tuesday he was not aware of the village board's resolution against the rezoning.

Village Pres. John G. Woods said the village board would probably continue its opposition to rezoning of the land, but added that forthcoming action would be based on Smith's report. Smith sent his report to the village board Tuesday afternoon.

Gottlieb told the zoning board he had met with Village Manager L. A. Hanson and some village board members regarding the proposed project, but without reaching any agreement.

ASKED TO describe the tax advantage the development would bring, Gottlieb estimated annual revenue at $384,000, based on 16 per cent of the gross income of the project.

Plan Junior High Rites

Two Arlington Heights junior high schools will hold joint graduation rites at 8:15 o'clock tonight in the Arlington High School gymnasium.

Graduating from Thomas Junior High will be a class of 228 students. South Junior High will graduate a class of 258 students.

Student speakers at the graduation ceremonies are: Diane Gardner, William Ross, David Ullrich, and Elizabeth Zilen. Alternate speakers are William Heffernan, Emery Peek, Nancy Vrechek and David Zick.

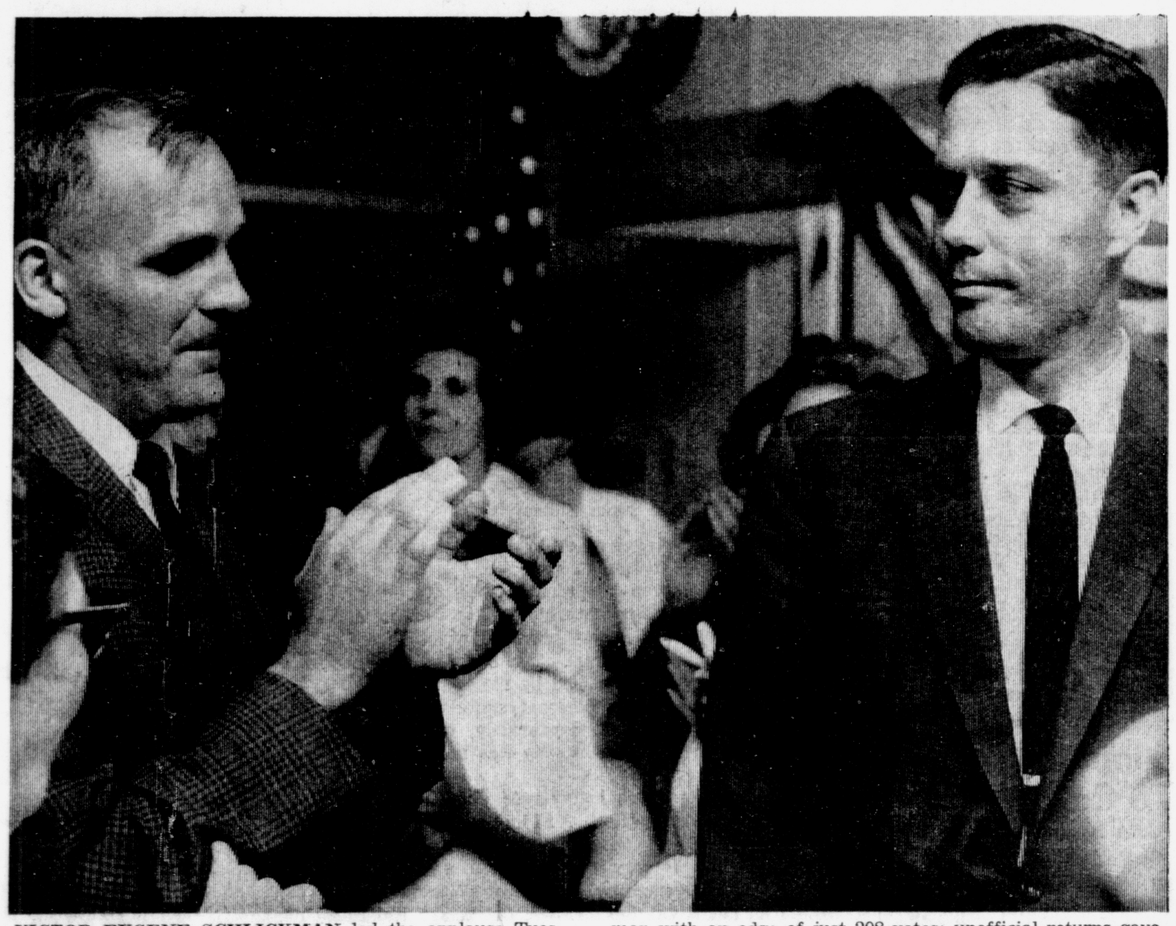
THE TWO 1966 graduating classes will be presented by Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent; A. Todd Fouty, principal of South Junior High, and Robert E. Spinks, principal of Thomas Junior High.

School Board President Harold E. Sortor will award the diplomas.

Tires, Rims Stolen Off Car

Two tires and rims were reported stolen from an automobile parked in the lot in back of the Arlington Heights Village Hall over the weekend.

The theft was reported by James Ladd, a mechanic. The car was being held in custody by Arlington Heights police at the time of the theft.



VICTOR EUGENE SCHLICKMAN led the applause Tuesday night as his opponent, Thomas Novotny, entered Wheeling Township GOP headquarters to offer his congratulations. Schlickman came out of the race for township committeeman with an edge of just 208 votes; unofficial returns gave him 3,809 votes to Novotny's 3,601. Schlickman also was top man of the five candidates for Republican nomination to the State House. (Staff photo by Tom Grieger)

Policy Reaffirmed

At Loggerheads on School District Boundary Change

by NANCY BENCO
Staff Writer

The Arlington Heights Elementary School Board Monday reaffirmed its school boundary changes despite vocal protest from parents living in Wedgewood Terrace and Prospect Meadows subdivisions.

The board voted unanimously to stick to its decision after hearing noisy opposition from an estimated 80 disenchanted parents who are against transfer of their children from Kensington School to North School next fall.

In more quiet action, the board agreed to provide bus service to St. James Catholic School children.

Reading from a carefully prepared statement, Thomas Heinz, 400 Oriole Lane, spokesman for the Wedgewood Terrace-Prospect Meadows parents, told the board, "To us it (the boundary change) will mean that Kensington School no longer exists as our children's local school. To us it will mean we have been overlooked as residents, unable to allow our children to attend the neighborhood school."

"WE ARE IN effect 'school orphans,'" he added. The parents' group argued that the board should re-establish the old school boundaries. The board countered with the fact that this alternative would not solve overcrowding.

The District 25 administration is attempting to maintain an average class size of 30 students.

The apparent consensus of the parents was that if schools were overcrowded, plans should be made to expand the building program. Board Pres. Harold Sortor said that alternative was unfeasible at this time.

When questioned as to the permanency of such an arrangement, Supt. Ralph Clabaugh said there are no plans for a building program which would allow students to move back to Kensington school. In this regard, the arrangements are permanent, he noted.

Clabaugh revealed two optional plans which had been considered: to leave the attendance areas as they had stood, and to move boundaries so Windsor students would attend North School rather than Kensington students.

CLABAUGH said the first option would result in an inbalance in classroom sizes, some with 25 and others with 35 students. In a recent survey of citizens, he pointed out, parents desired smaller classroom sizes for their children.

The second possibility meant that some students regularly attending Windsor would have to walk past this school on their way to North and, said Clabaugh, this was unfeasible.

The shift will involve a cost of $6,000 for the school year to provide busing children to North School.

Policy of providing buses for these transferred students was determined by the fact that some parts of Wedgewood Terrace are 1.5 miles from North School; the walking area is hazardous; present policy provides transportation through most areas one mile distant for the cost of a ticket.

Board Pres. Harold Sortor said that "it is in the best judgment that shifting children from district to district will come closest to making all class sizes equal in all areas." This is a primary objective of the board in providing the best education for students.

BREAKDOWN of the number of children involved in the shifts is: 120 children from Kensington school to North; 32 from North to Ridge; about 40 North students to Olive, and 16 North students to Windsor.

Parent protesters and committee members convened after their meeting with the school board to determine further action. According to Mrs. Richard Mateja, committee chairman, a lawyer will be contacted sometime this week. She declined to comment further on the committee's future plans to attempt a reversal in the boundary lines.

The second school bus question was settled quickly and quietly. The school board agreed to work with St. James School in providing bus transportation for parochial students. At a meeting last Friday night, Clabaugh and Sortor met with St. James representative Raymond O'Brien and agreed to study the feasibility of applying the free bus transportation law to St. James.

No parishioners appeared at the Monday board meeting.

THE STATE LAW requires that a school board provide free bus service to private school students living 1.5 miles or more from their school; however, the public school system does not need to change its routes to pick up the parochial students.

Hospitalize Boy After Mishap on Bicycle Tuesday

An 11-year-old Arlington Heights boy was hospitalized at Northwest Community Hospital with a broken leg Tuesday night after being involved in a bike-car accident along north Arlington Heights Road.

He is Thomas Cooney of 901 E. Olive St.

According to police, Cooney was riding his bike north in the outer lane of Arlington Heights Road near the intersection of Palatine Road. Going in the same direction in the inner lane was a car driven by John Boland, 45, of 904 W. George St., Arlington Heights.

Boland told police that as he was passing Cooney the boy made a sudden left turn into the side of his car and he slammed on his brakes.

Hesse Not Conceding

by NANCY ANDERSON
Associate Editor

Party allegiance paid off Tuesday for incumbent Republican State Sen. John A. Graham of Barrington in a primary election that saw just 24 per cent of the eligible voters casting ballots in the Third State District.

Backed by party leaders and endorsed by party regulars, he won an early concession from his closest rival for the nomination, Robert O. Atcher of Schaumburg.

With just about half the results in, Atcher called Graham at 8:42 p.m. to congratulate him on his victory, less than three hours after the polls closed.

It's a much longer wait for the five Republican candidates seeking the two State House nominations, each of the top three keeping a wary eye on cumulative voting in the others' home townships. (For the House nominations, if a voter selected two candidates, each got 1½ votes; if he picked just one, that person got credit for three votes.)

With just two precincts missing from a total of 203 in the eight townships of the Third District, incumbent Eugene Schlickman was way at the top of the unofficial returns. His vote was 24,148.5, with 14,583.5 collected in his home township of Wheeling.

THE OTHER apparent winner was David J. Regner of Mount Prospect. His unofficial total was 13,855 — nearly half of those, 6,196, came in his home township of Elk Grove.

However, third-running Robert Hesse of Palatine was not ready to concede until formal canvassing is completed, starting today and tomorrow.

"As I see it, there's not enough in the missing precinets to close the gap," he said. "However, we have found errors because of the cumulative voting — and how much there will be is hard to know until the tallies are turned in."

He gained almost half his vote through cumulative voting in his township, Palatine, where he scored 5,683. His total was 12,740.5.

Schlickman, disclaiming organized "bulleting" in his township, was "very pleased about the natural response" there, where he also won the post of committeeman.

REGNER, AS HIS lead over Hesse became apparent, issued just a brief statement, indicating he was "looking forward to working in a united effort with all Republicans for a resounding victory in November."

Hesse expressed deep disappointment in the results from Schaumburg Township, where Regner outdistanced him by more than 500 votes, 2,206-1694. "We had hoped to break even there — it made all the difference." Regner also topped him in Wheeling Township, 2,317-1,796.5.

In the Senate race, also with just three of 203 precincts missing, unofficial returns showed Graham with 9,854 votes; Atcher with 8,492; and William Davies of Streamwood a poor third at 1,161.

"This was a tough fight, perhaps the toughest of my career," Graham beamed as the tallies bore out his continued lead. "The endorsements I received from Sen. Everett Dirksen, State Sen. Russell Arrington and Sheriff Richard Ogilvie turned the tide in my favor. If a voter didn't know the name John Graham, he certainly knew of these three gentlemen."

"I THINK I did the best I could," said Atcher. "Having come from zero to this point, we actually made a good showing." What next? "I suppose I'll go ahead being village president in Schaumburg, building the best we can for the whole northwest area."

He pledged to "work for the whole slate," and "I consider Graham a part of the slate." During his campaign, Atcher concentrated on Graham's record and alleged failure to respond to the needs of the northwest suburban area.

Each of the two won his home township. Graham won in Barrington, 879-118; Wheeling, 3,-327-3,204; Maine, 302-258; Hanover, 394-174; Palatine, 2,367-672. Atcher won in Schaumburg, 1,397-842; Elk Grove, 1,935-1,-182; and Northfield, 733-561.

Davies also offered his congratulations to Graham, promising support in November.

ON THE tally for the House, William Means of Buffalo Grove was low man, 809.5 cumulative votes. Second to the bottom was William Moore of Mount Prospect; he collected 3,836 votes, 2,458 of those in his own Wheeling Township, where he rated second.

With reference to the township, where his candidacy served to divide Schlickman's support, Moore said, "I think the local GOP organization is in excellent hands. I will support Schlickman. I honestly hope that he will let everyone who worked against him support him —and by the way, I did not work against him."

Tuesday's turnout for Republicans in the Third District totaled about 20,150, 72 per cent of the 28,000-plus vote for both parties. Total number of eligible voters was 117,160.

Complete returns will not be available until after canvassing scheduled to begin today.

Top Spot On Ballot To Peskin

Officially there were no contests, as the Democratic Party formally endorsed its full slate.

But there was joy in the camp of Bernard M. Peskin of Northbrook, dismay at the headquarters of Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights.

One of these two incumbents is bound to be eliminated in November, when voters will pick three state representatives from this GOP-dominated Third District, choosing from a list of two Republicans and two Democrats.

THE EDGE will go to the Democratic candidate listed first on the ballot, a spot won by Peskin in Tuesday's primary as he collected more than 9,000 cumulative votes. Mrs. Chapman registered some 7,800-plus.

With the 18 precincts of Schaumburg Township, one precinct in Maine Township, and eight in Palatine Township still missing, the unofficial score was Peskin 8,955, Mrs. Chapman 7,788.

Peskin came out ahead primarily on the results from his own 19 precincts in Northfield Township, where he swamped Mrs. Chapman 2,041-232. This figure more than compensated for the edge she gained in the 66 precincts of Wheeling Township, 3,497-1,787.

Unofficial results in other townships: Barrington — Peskin 402, Chapman 225; Palatine — Peskin 2,531, Chapman 2,170; Hanover — Peskin 1,032, Chapman 641; Elk Grove — Peskin 971, Chapman 885; Maine — Peskin 191 — Chapman 137.

The three men, all employees of the corps, are George B. Wesler, 332 S. Derbyshire Lane, Herbert C. Mittag, 302 N. Gibbons St., and Henry J. Rebman, 414 S. White Oak St.

Wesler, chief of the projects and basin planning branch of the district's engineering division, will receive a merit salary increase for outstanding performance of his duties during the last year. A native of Buffalo, N. Y., he attended the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology and holds a B.S. degree in mining engineering from the University of New Mexico.

A CASH AWARD of $75 and a citation for a suggestion submitted under the Army's incentive awards program will be received by Mittag, a civil engineer in the district's construction division. During his period of active duty from 1941 to 1957, he served two tours of duty in Europe and one in Okinawa, as well as many posts in the United States.

Mittag's suggestion resulted in revision of military construction procedures.

Rebman, chief of the Office Engineering Branch of the Construction Division, will receive a lapel emblem denoting completion of 20 years' Federal Service. He holds a B. S. degree in electrical engineering from the Illinois Institute of Technology and served in the Navy from 1944 to 1946.

All awards will be presented by Col. John C. Mattina, Chicago Army district engineer. (A Community Shows Mettle in Storm

News Editor

Arlington Heights staggered under the blow of disaster last week—but it managed to stay on its feet.

For this residents can be proud of their community. The tornadoes and destructive winds came without warning and in a few moments spread damage estimated at over $1 million throughout the village. The tangible property damage was accompanied by the more intangible—and more tragic—personal suffering of the injured and homeless. Fortunately, the personal tragedy in Arlington Heights was minimal.

CRIPPEN

There is at least one happy note amid the ugliness of this disaster. Arlington Heights showed it had the stuff that makes it a community. It showed it deserved a better name than commuter or "bedroom" town.

Within an hour after the disaster, the village had rolled up its sleeves and began digging out. Village Manager L. A. Hanson reported that it took only minutes before police and fire crews swung into action. Cleanup crews were removing debris before the village even had a chance to be stunned.

But the effort was not confined to official levels. Many residents grabbed their saws and began clearing fallen trees from public streets. Especially noteworthy were high school youths who pitched in without being asked to clear debris and direct traffic. Praise for these un-named heroes of the hour came from Village Police Chief L. W. Calderwood.

"Everytime I turned around I saw a kid directing traffic, clearing debris or aiding in any way he could," he said. A number of youth marched down to the village hall and offered their services, Calderwood noted.

Offers of help came from outside sources. Military police from the Nike base were sent to aid local police. Off-duty policemen from neighboring communities also volunteered to help. The county forest preserve district dispatched trucks to remove debris.

Aid was even extended by the Mississippi River town of Savanah, Ill., which offered men and equipment for cleanup. This and other offers were, for the most part, turned down by village officials who were confident Arlington Heights could "dig out" by itself.

The speed and efficiency with which much of the debris already has been cleared shows that the village can do what needs to be done by itself. But this self-reliance is not without expense. Village Manager L. A. Hanson said last week clearance restoration was costing about $600 an hour.

It is too early to fully determine the long-range impact this disaster will have on Arlington Heights. The tremendous task of restoring the 400 trees, for instance, lays before the community.

But one thing is sure. The village will emerge from the crisis a better and stronger community because it effectively met and defeated hardship.

He was on the way to the depot to take the local to Chicago and was walking too near the tracks. He was thrown to the ground near the crossing gates.

A long-standing argument between local and county governing bodies broke out anew this week when on June 5 the county board approved the Hatlen Heights plat located on the southwest corner of Audrey Lane and Central Road in Elk Grove Township.

The plat falls within the 1½ mile jurisdiction of the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect planning commissions. Both had disapproved the plat.

The county board's action stirred up complaints that county commissioners are ignoring the work of local planning groups.

Plan Board Okays High Rise Zoning

High-rise apartment zoning (R-6) for a lot at 209 W. Miner St. was given the okay by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last Wednesday.

To its recommendation of R-6 rezoning for the lot the plan commission attached the provision that the village board also be willing to rezone the adjacent lot at 205 W. Miner (southwest corner of Miner and Highland) to R-6 classification.

Both lots are presently zoned R-5 multiple family, which allows three-story apartment buildings. The R-6 classification would allow six-story apartments.

THE PETITIONER was Barrie G. Fischer, Chicago, who owns the corner lot. He does not presently own the lot at 209 but has an option to buy pending approval of the zoning he seeks.

Fischer requested R-6 rezoning for his corner lot last March. The rezoning was recommended by the plan commission but later tabled by the village board. Trustees then indicated an unwillingness to give high-rise apartment zoning for a single lot and urged Fischer to try to combine his corner lot with adjacent lots. (A

New School Insurance Plan Voted

The Arlington Heights School Board adopted a new medical and hospital contract for school personnel at a lengthy meeting Monday night. The plan will replace the current Blue Cross insurance contract for the 1966-67 school year.

The new plan known as the Fireman's Fund yearly rates are $5.58 for individuals and $11.90 additional for families. Comparative rates for Blue Cross-Blue Shield proposed were $5.50 for individuals and $11.58 additional for family. Though rates for Fireman's Fund were 40 cents higher, board members accepted the plan because it offers more liberal benefits, such as covering cost of blood plasma and ambulance transportation, which Blue Cross-Blue Shield did not offer.

IN OTHER ACTION the board approved the hiring of 39 new teachers for the 1966-67 school year; seven new clerical employes; and one building service employe. Resignations of 11 employed teachers and three leave of absences were approved.

The board accepted a resolution for acquisition of property owned by the Library Directors of Arlington Heights' village for $50,000. to be used for school purposes. (A

County Rezoning Request Dropped

A petition for the rezoning of a one-acre tract north of Palatine Road and west of Arlington Heights Road in an unincorporated area of Wheeling Township has been withdrawn.

Hearings on the rezoning request were to have been held by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals last Friday.

Arlington Girl Germany-Bound

An Arlington Heights 4-H Club member has been chosen as one of 38 United States teenagers to participate in the 1966 4-H member international exchange.

Faith Pukszta, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Pukszta, 107 S. Firest, will spend the major part of her vacation in Germany, living with several German families. In addition to travel in Germany, she will visit cities in France and Switzerland.

A student of German for three years at Prospect High School as well as a member of the Snappy 4-H'ers, Miss Pukszta first became interested in the 4-H exchange after hearing about the internation farm youth exchange (IFYE) program which was set up for older students. The program in which she is taking part was initiated only last year after IFYE was a success.

FAITH QUALIFIED on the basis of her written application and interviews at the University of Illinois.

The agenda of the program, which was set up to promote better world understanding, includes a briefing period in Washington, D.C., a flight from New York to Madrid, travel to Paris and finally Bonn, over a month of one to two week stays in German homes, and travel back to Washington, D.C., where the students will meet to evaluate the experience.

Faith's sister, Pat, is also a 4-H enthusiast. Majoring in home economics, Pat is living in the 4-H House at the University of Illinois, Urbana. (A

Evergreen Hearings To Resume

Hearings on plans to extend Evergreen Avenue from Willow Street through the south boundary of the St. James school playground will be resumed at 8 p.m. today by the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI).

The hearings were to have begun last Thursday but were called off because BOLI lacked a quorum of its five members. One was on vacation and two others were out of town on business.

Present last Thursday to voice opposition to the street paving project were Evergreen Avenue residents along the proposed improvement and representatives of the St. James parish.

BOLI MEMBER Harold Klingner called off the hearings but told the audience they could stay for informal discussion of the project.

The St. James parish is opposing the extension of Evergreen Avenue because if it goes through as planned, it would run through the existing St. James school playground.

The playground was built over the dedicated street right-of-way with the persmission of the village, granted several years ago. (A

School Bus Company Asks Boost in Rates

An across-the-board raise of $2 per day per bus is being asked of High School District 214 by Cook County School Bus Co.

The request was made Monday at a meeting at which Charles Alft, executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, appeared to question the board's reasons for choosing Davidsmeyer Bus Service, Elk Grove, as a second student hauler next year at a higher rate.

IRONICALLY, approval of the across-the-board raises would bring Cook County and Davidsmeyers' daily charges for use of new buses to within 70-some cents of each other, though Davidsmeyer's original bid price was much higher.

Davidsmeyer's bid to haul Elk Grove High School students involved nine 84-passenger buses at $40 per day. Since then the bus company has agreed to supply two more buses without charge in return for getting permission for after-hours use of the buses to haul District 59 special education students. This brings the Davidsmeyer per-bus daily cost down to $32.70, not much over the $32 asked for new buses in Cook County's new proposal.

Cameron Wren, general manager of Cook County School Bus Co.'s parent firm, and his on-site local manager, Mrs. Grace Sazma, were in the audience to hear the raise proposed — and then tabled until July 11.

Mrs. Cummins asked for the postponement so that Francis J. Coleman, director of business services, can give the board a complete report on what the raises will mean in light of plans to retire Cook County's 21 six-year-old buses in the next few years.

RETIREMENT OF the older buses, beginning this fall, was also asked by Cook County. Other proposed changes in the bus company's contract, some suggested by them and some by the school system, were also postponed until July 11.

Wren told Paddock Publications after the meeting that he is asking for the rate increase after receiving the firm's annual audit. He said the company didn't lose money last year but "came closer to it" than he "would like to talk about."

Alft asked that action on the Davidsmeyer contract also be delayed until July 11.

He was told, however, by Pres. Hal Armstrong that the board had already committed itself regarding the contract. Armstrong noted that the matter of the school bus bids had been discussed by District 214 many meetings earlier.

ALFT THEN asked that copies of the board's agenda, not customarily mailed to organizations, be made available to the chamber board. Action on this, with the board hearing Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer's recommendations on other organizations that should be on an agenda mailing list, will take place at the next meeting. (ACME

Chamber Director Rides Bus

Before appearing at High School District 214's board meeting Monday to ask about bus service diversification, Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce executive director Charles Alft did some school bus riding himself.

He spent two days riding bus routes after applying for a job as a bus company driver in order to get permission to do the riding.

Alft said the students he saw were orderly and the drivers were responsible, safe drivers concerned about their riders' welfare.

NONE OF THE buses he rode were more than half-full, he said.

Alft did not tell the District 214 board about his investigation, which made it necessary for him to rise at 5 a.m. at least one day.

He said afterward he did not because "it was clear" that there would be no change in the decision he was concerned about — District 214's hiring of Davidsmeyer Bus Service next year in addition to the Cook County School Bus Co. whose service Alft observed.

IT LOOKS BAD — Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg village president and an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination to the state senate from the third district, looks on as the latest election returns are posted in his headquarters election night. Atcher fought an uphill battle against organization support and endorsements by state and national GOP leaders for his chief opponent, Sen. John Graham of Barrington. Graham won the nomination by a vote of 9,854 to 8,492 for Atcher. William T. Davies, Streamwood attorney, polled 1,161 votes in the contest. (Staff photo)

Village to Share Cost Of Walk Replacement

This year's sidewalk replacement program in Arlington Heights is getting under way; according to Charles Tower, village engineer.

Village practice has been to replace broken sidewalks at the request of a property owner and split the costs with him on a 50-50 basis.

Interested homeowners may indicate their desire for sidewalk replacement by making their request in writing.

THIS YEAR, the procedure has been made much simpler than in the past: homeowners need simply fill in the adjacent request form from today's Herald and mail it to George B. Anderson, assistant director of engineering, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Ill.

Anderson will then contact them to figure out the breakdown of costs and have them sign an agreement for splitting the costs.

At that time, homeowners will have to submit a check covering their share.

Tower said the sidewalk replacement requests will then be put on a list and the work scheduled for summer or fall construction on a first come, first served basis.

REPLACEMENT COSTS are based on a recent contract with Concrete Engineering Construction, Inc. The firm's bid for removal and replacement of sidewalks was 72 cents per square foot and was the lowest of four submitted.

The village and homeowners will each pay 36 cents per square foot, with the following exceptions:

The home owner will pay the entire cost of removal and replacement of the sidewalk across driveways;

The village will pay the entire cost of replacement of walks at street corners and across dedicated alleys.

THESE COSTS will include reasonable clean-up but not seeding or replacement of sod, said Tower.

The village public works department budget this year allocates $5,000 for sidewalk maintainence. (AF

Hearing on Development Set July 6

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission will take its first close look at a proposed massive development on the village's far north side when it holds a public hearing on a preannexation request for rezoning the tract July 6.

The hearing will be at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road. It had earlier been scheduled for June 29.

The tract consists of 345.7 acres, the bulk of which are located north of Hintz Road and between Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove Roads.

THE PETITIONER is Chesterfield Builders who is seeking a combination of single family, two family, apartment and commercial zoning upon annexation.

Approximate totals of the breakdown they are asking are: 210 acres single family, 78 acres apartment; 50 acres of duplexes and 7½ acres general retail business zoning.

This differs statistically from the picture Arlington Heights trustees got when Chesterfield Builders took the wraps off their plans for the land at a special board meeting May 23.

It was then proposed as a 333-acre planned development which would add 8,000 people to Arlington Heights. Chesterfield spokesmen then said they were asking for 173.9 acres of single family, 70.6 acres apartment, 46.5 acres of duplex and 6.3 acres of apartment zoning.

Included were 25.7 acres of green space for school and park use.

THE PLANS WERE presented as a preview, and an attorney for the developers said they wanted to get a general reaction from village trustees before the plan commission studied the proposed development.

The absence of an acreage allotment for parks and schools in the preannexation rezoning request does not indicate that it has been dropped. The village has no zoning categories for public use lands, and they might be included in any zoning district.

Dedications for public use lands would be provided for in subdivision plats for the tract. Zoning for districts would be subject to approval of a development plan which would specify building locations, street layouts, parking lots, green spaces and the like.

16 Per Cent Hike In Schools Budget

Due to a lengthy agenda Monday, action on the 1966-67 preliminary educational budget was postponed by Arlington Heights' Elementary School Board until its July meeting.

The preliminary budget shows an increase of 16 per cent over last year's appropriations, from $3,342,297 to $4,015,412. Greatest step up in the appropriations breakdown is in the instruction category, which is used primarily for salaries.

Appropriations for instruction are up $487,692 from last year for a total of $3,150,017.

PRELIMINARY educational fund appropriations breakdown is as follows: administration, $254,950; instruction, $3,150,017; health, $36,350; operation of plant, $175,600; plant maintenance, $27,600; fixed charges, $52,000; student and community services, $221,700; capital outlay, $72,195; creation of imprest fund, $5,000; provision for contingencies, $20,000.

Pending acceptance of the 1966-67 education fund budget at the July meeting, the next step will be adoption of a tentative budget. A public hearing will then be held, prior to formal passage of the appropriation and establishment of a tax levy. (AF

Splash-in Saturday at Swim Pool

Last minute work on the Wheeling Community Pool is being completed so that the pool may open at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Park Supt. Gene Sackett and Pool Mgr. Robert White are in charge of the project.

A new wire fence is being erected to replace the wooden fence damaged in last week's windstorm, and the pool is being repainted.

Employees for this summer include Kathy McCall, head guard and swim instructor, guards Chris Hodges, Penny Scanlon, John McKelvey, Wendy Morantz, Dick Bordwell, cashier Mrs. N. Chapman, bath house attendants Dick Ranier, Jeri Arnold, concessions operators Gail Liskauskus and Art Liemetter. Swim team coach is Robert Zilkowski.

Supt. Sackett reminds residents of the Wheeling Park District that pool family memberships may be secured at the pool next week from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Those who have already purchased season passes may pick up their tokens the first time they go swimming. A special booth will be placed in front of the pool to facilitate ease of securing these passes, he said.

Swimming lessons are still available and may be reserved at the pool during the day.

Hanson Sees Major Storm Cleanup Done by Saturday

by GENE NOSEK
Staff Writer

Major cleanup work in Arlington Heights after last Thursday's tornado-force winds should be about finished this Saturday, according to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

Crews are expected next week to be removing trees too damaged to save and beginning surgery on those which are salvageable.

Total private and public property damage from the winds was estimated by Hanson to be around $1 million. The breakdown of that is $200,000 to public property and more than $500,000 to private property.

Public property damage was mostly to parkway trees, and the major village effort in recovering from Thursday's tornadic blast has been in clearing up debris.

HANSON estimated that the cleanup has been costing the village $600 an hour—more than $7,000 a day. The village has men from the public work department and seven private tree contractors on the job 12 hours a day, six days a week.

A total of 350 trees in the village were completely lost. Hanson said another 500 have extensive damage requiring major tree surgery and many of these may have to go. An additional 600 trees will require minor tree surgery, like trimming broken limbs.

The village has not yet mapped out a program for tree replacement but it is certain that downed trees will not be replaced by elms. Even without storms, the elm tree population in the village is being steadily decimated by the Dutch elm disease. Hanson said that instead of elms, hardwood varieties like Norway maple and green ash will be planted.

VILLAGE TRUCKS and crews are picking up all burnable debris piled at curbside and hauling it to the old sewage plant south of the tracks near the east limits of the village where it is being burned. Hanson sympathizes with residents downwind of the debris fires. He said village employes are trying to control the burning so it doesn't inconvenience residents, but can't always do something about sudden wind shifts.

The village manager cautioned residents against trying to stockpile elm tree wood for firewood. He stressed that all elm tree wood must be removed and burned to avoid providing a breeding place for the beetles which spread Dutch elm disease.

Hanson noted that the village has an ordinance against storing elm tree wood and said that the village will make a survey after the cleanup. Then if any elm tree wood is found on private property, residents will have to dispose of it at their own expense.

THERE ARE two areas where the village is not picking up debris: the parkways along Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway. Those roads are under state, not village, jurisdiction. The state highway department has a garage along south Arlington Heights Road between Golf Road and Central.

Over-all recovery from wind damage by the village and utility and power companies was termed by Hanson as "outstanding."

Hanson praised the spontaneous response of village employes who reported to their jobs immediately after the storm without being called. After the extent of injuries and damage was determined, top priority went to getting all streets open so emergency equipment could get through. This was completed by around 3 p.m. Thursday. Next step was removing limbs leaning on buildings and blocking driveways.

Charles Harnach, northwest area manager for Commonwealth Edison Co., said the power restoration was "probably the best organized and most efficient in any storms we've had in the area."

Harnach said power had been cut off from over 27,000 customers in the Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Prospect Heights and Palatine area. By 10 p.m. Thursday, power was restored to over 98 per cent of them, and to the remainder by Friday morning.

HARNACH REPORTED that a total of over 200 four-man repair crews were operating in the area. Some were from as far away as Joliet on the south and Elgin on the west.

Arlington Heights was hardest hit and at one time there were as many as 170 crews in this village alone. Total cost of power restoration in the area was estimated by Harnach to be over $250,000.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. reported service interruptions to approximately 1,000 telephones in Arlington Heights. According to Robert Luedtke, community relations manager for Illinois Bell, 67 repairmen and two splicers working all night Thursday were able to get service restored to all customers by Friday morining.

ODDLY, THE January, 1965, ice storm was credited with an assist in the organized and efficient recovery from Thursday's storm.

"There were many things we learned in the ice storm that helped in making power restoration more efficient this time," said Harnach. He named arrangements worked out ahead of time with public works departments of villages in the area for using their garages for auxiliary headquarters and a new method of intelligence patroling which enables them to get quick estimates of total damage.

Arlington Heights officials cited the village's radio communications system between village offices and vehicles on the streets was a major factor in getting streets cleared of debris quickly.

The system was installed as a result of the ice storm experience.

Two Injured In Two-Car Collision

An Elk Grove Village woman and her three-year-old daughter received minor injuries in a three-car accident at Arlington Heights and Algonquin Roads Tuesday afternoon.

Carol Leber, 516 Shadywood Lane, and her daughter Kathryn were treated at Northwest Community Hospital and released.

According to police, Mrs. Leber was southbound on Arlington Heights Road. As her auto entered the intersection at Algonquin Road it struck a car driven by Carlos Sanchez, 305 N. Arlington Heights Road, Elk Grove Village, police said. The Sanchez car then struck another auto stopped for the light.

Sanchez told police he was trying to turn left onto westbound Algonquin Road and could not see the Leber auto because of traffic waiting to turn east onto Algonquin.

Six Vocational Teachers Here

The A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. of Arlington Heights hosted a group of six vocational agriculture teachers from throughout the United States Monday morning. A.D. Hyde, President of A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., recognized the teachers for their valuable contributions to the improvement of farming in the United States. "The role education will play in the years ahead will become increasingly important as the farmers of tomorrow put to work scientific developments to meet the challenges of producing food for rapidly growing populations in the United States and the world," said Hyde.

The travel scholarship program is designed to provide recognition to vocational agriculture teachers who have made outstanding contributions to agriculture and have furthered the education of youths interested in agricultural careers. (A

Tornado Caves in Apartment

News Editor

It looked like any other stormy morning last Thursday when Helen Fink, awakened at 6 a.m. by a noisy gust of wind, drowsily peered out the window of her third-floor apartment at 318 N. Salem Ave., Arlington Heights.

Her two roommates, Julienne Herrmann and Barbara Kavanski, still snoozed soundly. Miss Fink returned to bed.

Suddenly the bedroom began to tremble violently. The three teachers were at once very wide awake.

"I DON'T know what it was, but I just had a feeling that I'd better get out of bed and lie on the floor," said Miss Kavanski. Miss Fink and Miss Herrmann pulled the sheets over their heads.

In an instant their three-room apartment was without a roof, and a hail of shattered glass and debris surged in every direction.

As suddenly as it had come, it was over. The tornado-force winds had left the apartment in shambles.

Miss Kavanski cautiously got up from the floor. The sight she saw struck her with a mixture of despair and gratitude.

THE BED ON which she had been sleeping moments before was blanketed with a pile of bricks. The wall of the bedroom was partly collapsed.

Miss Fink and Miss Herrman, though covered with debris and broken glass were unharmed.

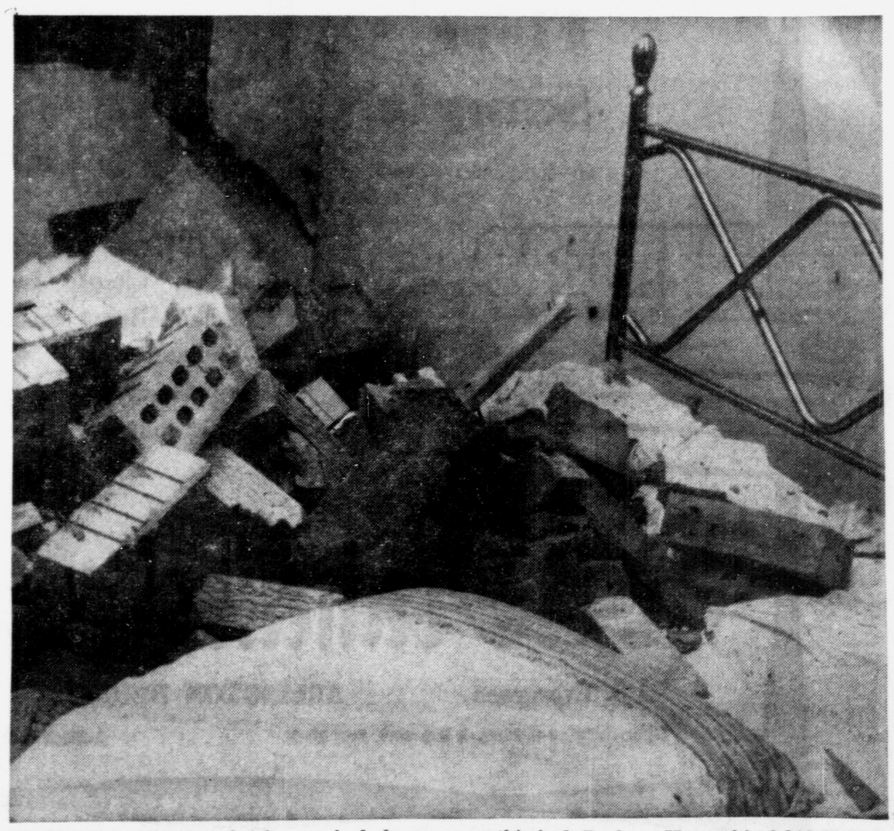
The three women investigated the condition of the other rooms. It was the same story — just one big mess. How they escaped uninjured was a miracle to them.

"I just started praying," sighed Miss Fink. "When I went over to the window and saw the apartments across the way, I began to pray for the others living there — they were much worse off."

ALL OF THE apartments were part of the Salem Lane complex which suffered severe damage when the tornado and winds struck last week.

The three teachers began the difficult task of cleaning up. Most of their belongings could not be salvaged.

A few hours after the disaster they were able to smile about their experience. If for no other reason, they were delighted to be safe and sound.



MOMENTS BEFORE bricks crashed down on this bed, Barbara Kavanski of 318 N. Salem Ave. "had a feeling" she should lie on the floor.

High Schools to Use Police --- If They Are Available

Policemen will be assigned to District 214 high schools next year if it can be arranged with area forces.

Approval of the security force, to be a part of each village's police staff though paid (in whole or part) by the high school system, was given by the District 214 board Monday.

Only one of six board members present, Richard Bachhuber of Mount Prospect, voted against the proposal.

POLICE CHIEF L. A. Calderwood and Lt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights force were present at the meeting. Calderwood encouraged the step, saying he had seen such an arrangement in operation in Evanston.

There, he said, it had not only helped the schools handle behavior problems but had improved communication between the schools and the municipal government.

Calderwood said Evanston had hired retired policemen as its school security officers, a suggestion that seemed to interest the school board members.

Other school districts which already have policemen on duty in high schools daily include Leyden, Maine and New Trier.

HOW SOON policemen will actually be on duty to the schools will depend upon the availability of suitable men and upon the willingness of local communities to cooperate. Mount Prospect Police Chief Newell Esmond has told Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer he does not favor having a member of his force assigned to the schools — to Prospect High, in this case — but would prefer instead to have District 214 establish its own force, as Randhurst Shopping Center has done.

But Chief Calderwood argued at Monday's meeting against a similar suggestion by Bachhuber. The police chief said it has been found more economical to operate a single law enforcement agency, rather than several; he cited general merging of park and municipal police forces as an example.

Though originally the use of plainclothesmen was proposed by the District 214 Administrative Council in which the security force recommendation originated, it is now expected the policemen will be uniformed. Police chiefs who met with District 214 administrators two weeks ago to discuss the proposal favored the use of a uniformed force.

The school-assigned policemen probably also will be armed. Bachhuber, at Monday's meeting, expressed himself as being "unalterably opposed" to use of policemen armed with sidearms.

But Calderwood stated flatly that any Arlington Heights policemen used in the schools would carry guns. To do so would be no departure from routine, he asserted. Arlington Heights policemen — "always armed" — assist at school affairs "many times during the year," he pointed out.

POLICEMEN assigned to the schools would be expected to stress preventive supervision, the board was told. Their responsibilities would range from supervising parking lots to checking truants — duties now assigned to the otherwise busy assistant principals for administrative services.

Board members have been assured that a need for such a security force exists.

At one recent board meeting daily incidents of parking lot rowdiness and school invasions by dropouts were cited by members of the school staff. One principal told of the necessity to oust two teenage drunks and said that visits by unwelcome persons occur in the schools daily. (ACME

Stage Joint Birthday Party for Two Arlington Doctors

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Mary O'Leary — CL 9-3827

Dear Sidelighters:

Greetings! Last week my predecessor, Dorothy Meyer, said farewell and "thanks" for the nine years you and she have spent together making and writing the news in the Sidelights column. This week I find myself saying "hello" hoping that you will enjoy filling out this column about you as much as I will. Until you and I get better acquainted, I hope you will call me whenever you have anything you'd like to see in Sidelights. I'll be talking to you! Sincerely, Mary O'Leary.

Dr. John Brouhard and his wife, 47 S. Windsor, are just recuperating now from Saturday night. They and the Treanors joined forces in throwing a birthday party for Dr. Brouhard and Dr. Richard Treanor who not only share the same birthday, but also call the same medical center, the Northwest Suburban Medical Building, home base for their practices.

Mrs. Brouhard confesses to having done things on a grand scale — 75 guests arrived to spend an evening in the Brouhard's backyard and patio area. The affair was catered and, according to Mrs. Brouhard, extended long into the wee hours. Among the guests were Dr. Brouhard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Brouhard who came in from Ames, Iowa, to help their son celebrate his birthday.

MARGARET WHITE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd White, 515 Pine, was given a small party following her graduation from Arlington High School. Among the guests who arrived to congratulate Margaret were out-of-town relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Furbee of West Allis, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Gardner invited nine couples over to their home at 408 S. Bristol Saturday night for an evening of fun and games.

Sunday marked the return of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Starbuck to their home at 506 S. Evergreen from a very enjoyable jaunt through Europe. After visiting Rome and Venice, they spent 10 days on Lake Garda Riva with their son, Bob and his family, who currently reside in West Berlin. Next on the itinerary was Denmark, where Mrs. Starbuck's father was born and to which they were paying their second visit.

BACK IN THE U.S.A. once again, they stopped in Huntington Valley, Penn. to visit their daughter, Mrs. George Nofer and her family. While there the Starbucks attended a Hawaiian party which was a very gay affair enjoyed by a hundred people. Reading about Thursday's tornado, they phoned a neighbor to make sure they still had a home to return to—which, they were relieved to learn, they did.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Everhart, 537 Pine, have welcomed Larry and Ellen, their two "college kids" home for the summer. Larry, who will be a sophomore next year at Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa, is working for the sports section at Paddock Publications this summer. Ellen, a French major, spent her first three years of college at the College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio, and will soon be off for a tour of Europe — including France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Monaco and Spain. She has been warned by mother not to speak a word of English all summer. After three weeks of travel pleasure, Ellen will register at the University of Geneva in Switzerland, where she will study during her senior year.

KARYL McKOWN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKown, and Kim Krekel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Krekel, together celebrated their June 15 graduation from Miner Junior High School at the Krekel home, 214 S. Gibbons. At the same time, they "mourned" the Krekels' moving to San Francisco.

When the Krekels leave on the 17th of this month, they will put a 2,000 mile gap between the two graduates, Karyl and Kim, who grew up together.

Here for graduation and the party afterwards were Karyl's grandmother, Mrs. Edith McKown of New York, and Kim's grandmother, Mrs. Irene Compton of Rolling Meadows. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Eleven Terrace young people were in the class of nearly 500 that graduated from Arlington High School on Friday, June 10. Terrace graduates were James Arnold, John Blomquist, Steven Everhart, Rick Kasprzak, Karen Linsey, Bradley Nielsen, Donna O'Brien, Susan Rollefson, Albert Schmitt, Patricia Van De Merkt and Robert Weber.

Some of the graduates were feted at parties given by their parents; others attended parties in the homes of friends and relatives.

A family party was given in honor of John Blomquist last Sunday by his parents, the John Blomquists, 1248 N. Illinois. Present were John's aunts, Mrs. John Spalding and Miss Thyra Blomquist, both of Chicago, Mrs. George Von Oepen of Arlington Heights, John's sister and her husband, the James Bishops of Arlington, and his younger brother, Bobby.

A LARGE NUMBER of relatives gathered in the home of Mrs. Florence O'Brien, 1405 N. Race, Sunday to celebrate the graduation of her daughter, Donna. Donna's grandmother, Mrs. Marie O'Brien, and her aunt and cousins, Mrs. Rosemary Hall and children, came from Mount Prospect. An uncle, Robert Smith and family, came from Prospect Heights. Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grudzien, are from Palatine. An uncle, Donald Smith. and an aunt, Miss Delores Senora, attended from Chicago. Miss Sylvia King, a friend from Arlington Heights, was also present.

Forty-one relatives and friends gathered in the Albert Schmitt home, 1321 N. Illinois, last Sunday to celebrate the graduation of the Schmitt's son, Bert.

Also giving a party for the graduate in their family were the Eugene Van de Merkts, 1231 N. Wilke. A large number of relatives and friends gathered in honor of Pat Van de Merkts. Attending the Sunday party were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson of Evanston and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Van de Merkt of Chicago; a great aunt, Mrs. S. C. Cole, who came from Pamona, Calif. for the occasion; aunts, Mrs. George Saxton of Grayslake and Mrs. Darwin Lowry of Mundelein; an aunt and uncle, the Raymond Van de Merkts of Mundelein; great-aunt and uncle, the Lawrence Van de Merkts of Valpariso, Ind.; and friends, the James Reackokas of Chicago, the Richard Lewises of Highland Park, and the William Cotsakises of Palatine.

The Robert Webers, 1508 Oakton, honored their son, Robert. Twenty-eight relatives and friends feted Robert at his graduation party Saturday.

Recently traveling to Washington, D. C., to attend the White House Conference on Equal Rights was Colleen Boland, 1426 N. Race. Mrs. Boland attended the conference by special invitation.

JOE AND BETTY Hanrahan, 1404 N. Race, went to Chicago Saturday to attend the eighth grade graduation of their niece, Ellen Marie Breton. They attended a family party in the home of Betty's sister and the graduate's parents, the Charles Bretons, after the ceremonies.

Terry Vogt, daughter of the Edward Vogts, 1340 N. Yale, and Mary Anne Wiley, daughter of the Bob Wileys, 1329 N. Race, were among the 147 juniors from Sacred Heart of Mary High School to go on the junior class trip to New York and the surrounding areas. The girls left by bus June 9 and will be gone 10 days. Some of the highlights of their trip will include a trip to Gettysburg, visiting Washington, D. C., seeing John F. Kennedy's grave, and spending three days in New York City.

June 9 will be a date long remembered by Terry Vogt. It was her 17th birthday; she left for New York; and she almost got caught in the midst of a tornado. Terry arrived at Sacred Heart of Mary School just minutes before the tornado struck. She took cover in the school, but her parents spent some anxious moments until they were able to learn that she was safe and the bus trip only delayed an hour or so.

Jim Arnold, son of the Dean Arnolds, 1410 N. Race, spent Sunday and Monday vacationing in Lake Geneva. He joined a group of Arlington graduates there for the two-day trip.

Kathy Martin, 1107 N. Wilke, and neighbors, Bob and Johnnie Franke, 1614 Oakton, attended the play, "Papa is All," at Old Orchard Theatre on Tuesday night.

JUNE 8 marked the graduation of the first class of St. Thomas of Villanova Grammar School in Palatine. Three Terrace young people were in the first class of sixty. They were Patrick Bluhm, son of the Walter Bluhms, 1235 N. Wilke; Michael Hartig, son of the Grover Hartigs, 1444 N. Race; and Susan Wiley, daughter of the Bob Wileys, 1329 N. Race.

A family party was given in honor of Susan Wiley on Sunday, June 5. About 30 attended. Among those present were Susan's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Wiley of Elmhurst, and her grandfather, Antonio Paris of Oak Park.

The past two weekends have been busy ones for Jim and Janice Murphy, 1326 N. Chicago. On Friday, June 3, the Murphys saw the play, "Bye Bye Birdie," at McCormick Place. The following day they attended the wedding of friends of Jim's family. Mary Diane Brown and Raymond Ruble were married at St. Aloysius Church in Chicago. A reception was given at Sylvia's Tropical Room. Sunday found the Murphys traveling to Tinley Park where they were godparents for Michael Thomas Fisher at his baptism in St. George Church. Michael's father was a high school friend of Jim.

The graduation of Jan's sister kept the Murphys busy last weekend. Arlene Zanetto graduated from Northwestern University Saturday. Jim and Jan attended and also saw Bob Hope receive an honorary degree. Willard Wirtz was the commencement speaker.

Sunday Jan's parents, the Larry Mutherses of Melrose Park, held an open house in honor of Mrs. Muthers' graduate daughter, Arlene.

Nancy Pollard, 1400 N. Yale, returned home Monday after a three-day stay at Northwest Community Hospital where she underwent surgery. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

Arlington Acres is extending a welcome to new neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Krueger, 433 S. Gibbons with their sons, Paul, 6, and Jeff, 3. Mr. Krueger is with Bell & Howell in Chicago, and the family moved here from Mount Prospect.

Paul Brady, 5-year-old son of the James Bradys, 508 S. Forrest, was persuaded to postpone the observance of his June 10 birthday until Sunday, when it was celebrated at dinner at the Rustic Manor in Gurnee with his parents and brothers, David and Jimmy. Paul even consented to wait until the family returned home after dinner to open his birthday gifts.

For David Brady, the day was just one in a month of happy events, starting with a three-day retreat at Long Lake with fellow members of his confirmation class the weekend preceding the confirmation ceremony May 29. The Bradys had hoped to have Jim's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Wilson of Pittsburgh, at the ceremony, but they had to leave early in the day after staying only overnight, and the celebration was confined to the immediate family. The wind-up of a busy few weeks for David came with his graduation from Miner Junior High School Wednesday evening.

THE JAMES Dwyer family, 516 S. Forrest, have especially looked forward for a long time to the week's visit of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Dwyer of Phoenix, not only because Cliff is Jim's brother, but because his wife, Jean, is Jan's sister. They arrived in time for Decoration Day and the time from then on was spent in visiting and entertaining old friends, and was marked by the arrival of the boys' father from his home in Florida, and highlighted by a family reunion given by a sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rodzon at their home in Chicago, for the Dwyer clan.

Keith Moller, 7 June 8, was wished a happy birthday at a luncheon that day by his immediate family and his grandparents, the Frank Mollers of Mount Prospect. On Friday, his friends were invited to the Moller home, 416 S. Prindle, after school, for a Batman party, then for supper. Guests were Michael Earl, KJ Scharf, Mark Schneider, Bobby Pionke, David and Jeff Juhre, Don Carda and Paul Gondek.

Keith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moller.

A special dinner party at the Ron Brown home, 432 S. Phelps, a week ago Sunday was in honor of the first birthday of Terese Lynn. Guests were the George Browns of Itasca, and an aunt, Ruth Brown of Chicago.

SINCE MONDAY was Terese's actual birthday, her parents and brother, David, set the day aside for their own celebration and presented her with her first ice cream cone, which she quickly and deftly consumed to their delighted amazement.

Dinner guests at the Brown home Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Richard, Leoni and their three children who wanted to be counted in on the observance of the first birthday of their niece and cousin.

Best wishes for many more happy anniversaries are extended to Arlington Acres couples who marked the happy events during the past week, including:

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Travosek, 533 S. Phelps, who were married 19 years June 6 and observed the day by having dinner at Seven Countries in Wheeling.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henning, 408 S. Waterman, whose ninth anniversary June 6 was celebrated Saturday at dinner with two other couples at Biasetti's in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fran Conway, 513 S. Prindle, who marked their 19th anniversary June 7 quietly at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Thompson, 508 S. Phelps, followed a custom established when they were first married 14 years ago and had dinner with friends who share their June 7 day and year. The two couples chose the Embers in Arlington Heights as their dining spot this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leistikow, 512 S. Forrest, who chose to celebrate their 12st anniversary June 9 by dining with close friends at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton Saturday evening.

ONE COLLEGE and five high school graduations were observed over the weekend by area families.

The college graduate is Margaret Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marshall, who received a bachelor of arts degree from Northwestern in a ceremony at McGaw Hall Saturday morning. A brunch for the graduating seniors and their Alpha Gamma Delta alums at the sorority house immediately following. A champagne party in Margaret's honor was held Saturday evening at the Marshall home, 432 S. Forrest.

Margaret, who is interested in social work and hopes to earn a master's in that field, has been accepted by the University of Wisconsin for the fall quarter.

ARLINGTON Acres was well represented in the Prospect High School class of '66 by:

Penny Scharf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Scharf, 528 S. Prindle, who will enter Illinois State at Normal in September. Joining the Scharf family at a celebratory dinner Sunday were many family members from Milwaukee and Waterford, Wis., and from Chicago, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Jess Barnes and daughter of Adams, Wis., who were weekend guests.

Jack Christiansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Christiansen, 428 S. Waterman, who is enrolled at Northern Illinois at De Kalb for the fall term. Plans are in the making for a party next week to celebrate Jack's graduation.

Martin De Stephanis, son of Mrs. Victorine De Stephanis, 532 S. Waterman. Martin, who was a guest at a friend's party after the ceremony, hopes to enlist in the navy.

Raymond Kleinhuizen, son of Mrs. Barney Kleinhuizen and the late Mr. Kleinhuizen, 512 S. Phelps. Raymond's plans include going on to college.

Doug Soderberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Soderberg, 436 S. Phelps. Following the awarding of diplomas, several of the graduates and their parents met at the Soderberg home for light refreshments before the young people moved on to the open house parties which were so much a part of this class's celebrations. Doug's future plans include attending Southern Illinois at Carbondale, although he will not enter until the winter quarter.

SUSAN THORSTAD who graduated from St. James School last week and was congratulated at a small party at home, was at the receiving end again Sunday at a dinner party given at the home of an aunt and uncle for Susan and three cousins who were also graduating. Co-hosts were the graduates' parents. Guests of honor with Susan were Russell Leist of Chicago and Claudia and Carol Connery of Arlington Heights. (A

DIABETICS MUST BE CAREFUL WITH THEIR TEETH

Any focus of infection is harmful, but especially so for a diabetic. Higher blood sugar levels lessen resistance to infection. Still a diabetic can, like anyone else, develop deep root abcesses, or pyorrhea, both of which are infections. You don't have to have a toothache to have a root infection, or loose teeth before your physician can diagnose infection.

Have dental checkups at regular intervals and be sure and tell your dentist, if you are a diabetic, so he can take extra precautions if an extraction is needed. He can't tell by looking at you. We carry complete stocks of diabetic and dental medications and supplies.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Churchill's Down Again For School

Winston Churchill — as a high school name — went down for the third time at Monday's High School District 214 board meeting.

Board member Richard Bachhuber proposed Churchill again, noting that the name had received the second highest number of votes in a student poll of suggested names for the sixth high school.

FIRST IN THE student poll was the name of John F. Kennedy, but this was passed over.

When Bachhuber's motion to name the District 214 school that will open in 1968, Winston Churchill High failed to pass, he read a letter proposing the school be named for former U.S. President Herbert Hoover.

The writer — Mrs. Bachhuber —added that "as a former cheerleader" she could even suggest a yell, which wound up, "Yea, team move 'er!"

But it failed to move the board. They split, 3-3, on a motion to name the new school for Hoover.

And Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer marked down "Naming the Sixth High School" on the board's agenda for June 27.

State Group Headed by Erie Jones

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS THURS., JUNE 16, 1966

by MARY SCHLOTT
Staff Writer

Revolutionary changes in state scholarship awards have been proposed to the Illinois Board of Higher Education by an advisory committee headed by E. Erie Jones of Palatine.

The report, presented by Jones Friday before the board of higher education's citizens advisory committee, whose chairman is Ben Heinemann, recommends:

—That all state scholarship aid be given solely on the basis of financial need.

—That grants run as high as $1,250, if that much is needed by the student.

—That the student be free to use the state aid at either public or private institutions of higher learning, and at junior colleges and technical institutes as well as four-year schools.

—And that the state money cover no more than 50 per cent of the cost of undergraduate schooling, with the student expected to give self-help in the form of either work or loans.

Jones' committee, which included former High School District 214 staff member E. E. Oliver, now associate dean of admissions and records at the University of Illinois, also recommended single-agency handling of all state scholarship funds.

E. ERIE JONES

Grants are now available through 14 programs administered by nine state agencies, some awarded by the General Assembly members themselves, and there is little or no coordination between the agencies regarding the aid they provide.

Just how revolutionary the recommendations are can only be understood, Jones stressed, by studying the way Illinois' undergraduate scholarship funds are handled now — a picture available for the first time as a result of his committee's study.

At the present the State of Illinis provides scholarships only to students attending public institutions and usually the grants cover only tuition, a minor part of the total cost of a college education.

Four-fifths of the 26,000 grants given in 1964-65 by the state went to students without any indication of need required at all. And in 20 per cent of the cases, neither need nor scholastic standing was asked for.

Jones said his committee's recommendation that need alone be the deciding factor in determining which college students should get state aid was based on two points:

—That, today, scholastic ability is already determined by a college's acceptance of a student's application. Most state schools now require that entering students be in the upper half of their high school class. Standards in most private colleges in the state are even higher.

—That despite their academic talent, better than 10,000 youngsters in Illinois fail to attend college each year because they can't afford it. Full use of their abilities may be lost to society as a result.

Before making its recommendations, Jones' committee surveyed college and high school officials throughout the state. College officials strongly supported need as a requirement for aid. High school counselors and principals were about evenly divided, with some stressing the advantage of giving public recognition to top scholars who did not need financial aid.

As a result, Jones' committee has also recommended to the board of higher education that there be such public recognition of perhaps the top five to ten per cent, who might be designated Illinois Scholars, for example. Such an award would be given without regard to need.

Advisers Determined On Follow Through

E. Erie Jones, chairman of an ad hoc scholarship committee whose report has just gone to the State Board of Higher Education, says he and his committee members are determined to see their advisory suggestions carried out.

He says all members of the committee are agreed that they will fight, if necessary, to have their sweeping recommendations of changes in state scholarship aid approved.

To do so will mean General Assembly action, for to change the state's many scholarship programs will require amendment of the Illinois School Code.

Jones said he and the other committee members, public and private school leaders up and down the state, made their recommendations not on the basis of what was politic but what should be done.

OPPOSITION to some of the changes, which include provisions for the scholarships to be used at public and private colleges, junior colleges and technical institutes, is certain, Jones agreed.

He likened the recommendations — which would make higher education available to the more than 10,000 Illinois high school graduates who each year forego further schooling because they can't afford it — to the post-World War I move to make 12 years of education available to all.

The sweeping scholarship aid revisions would, in a practical sense, make college available to anyone who wished to attend and had the initiative to try it, the Palatine man stated.

HE SAID if the recommendations were adopted they will probably mean a raise in state expenditures for college aid.

Woman Hurt In Accident On U.S. 14

An Arlington Heights woman was taken to Northwest Medical Center Monday afternoon and treated for neck and arm injuries suffered in a two-car accident at U. S. 14 and Vail Avenue.

A westbound car on U. S. 14, driven by Mrs. Esther E. Moehling, of 316 N. Douglas, was struck in the rear by a car driven by George E. Lees, 63, 136 Morrison St., Mount Prospect. According to police, the Moehling auto was stopped for a traffic light at the intersection.

Lees was ticketed for negligent driving and Mrs. Moehling charged with driving with no seat belts. (A(M

Beef and Eggs

Don't overlook beef flank if you like plenty of variety in your menus. Braise flank steak, that is brown it in hot fat, add a small amount of liquid, then cover and cook until meat is tender. The cooking liquid may be of your own choosing.

Try serving poached or chopped hard cooked eggs on turnip greens, spinach and other leafy greens. Stuffed, pickled and hard cooked eggs are also often found among the hors d'oeuvres served as a first course.

If your wooden salad bowls are dry and rough from continual washing, here's a simple remedy. Rub a little salad oil into the grain of the wood, repeating until bowls regain some of their glossy finish.

Frozen Chichen a la King can be dressed up by adding grated Cheddar or Parmesan cheese before heating.

Helen's Favorite; Country Salad

½head lettuce
Equal amount of leaf lettuce, coarsely shredded
1 medium cucumber
1 small mild onion
6 radishes
2 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
½cup light cream
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash, dry and chill lettuce, tearing head lettuce into pieces. Slice cucumber, onion and radishes thin. Shred eggs coarsely and add to greens and other vegetables. Combine vinegar, sugar, cream and seasonings, to taste. Pour over salad and toss lightly to blend. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

27 District Pupils Study, Tour France

How do you say "bathing suit" in French? Or "plastic bags?"

This weekend 27 District 214 high school students will be looking up these terms as part of a pre-departure assignment for their summer French Abroad course.

Making the assignments are their chaperones for the summer trip, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy S. Wood of 1450 S. Busse Road, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Wood, Wheeling High School language teacher, and her husband, also a teacher, will be directors of the French Abroad program, being sponsored jointly by high schools in District 214, Maine Township and Crown Point, Ind.

A KEY TO the French Abroad trip will be the two-week orientation classes which will begin Monday at Prospect High.

Following that session the District 214 party will leave for Europe, spending four days in London and five days in Paris before settling in Quimper, France, for six weeks.

From Quimper, a coastal town in southwestern Brittany, the students will be able to see country life as well as be within traveling distance of the chateau country.

Emphasis of the French Abroad program, the Woods' said, will be on an intensive study of French life rather than a summer's barnstorming tour of Europe. (ACME

Police Cite Rising Bicycle Theft Rate

The total number of bicycle thefts in Arlington Heights has more than tripled in the first five months of this year, compared with the same period last year, according to the monthly report of Police Chief L. W. Calderwood to the village manager. Thirty-three cases of bicycle larceny in May increased this year's total to 93, compared with 29 cases at the same time last year.

ourteen burglaries, 11 residential and three commercial, in May brings this year's total to 47. At this time last year 31 burglaries had been reported.

FORTY-SEVEN cases of criminal damage to property were reported, bring the 1966 total to 160 cases. This figure is 59 over those reported at this time last year.

Park District Gets U. S. Aid for Sites

The Arlington Heights Park District will receive a federal grant totaling more than $206,450 for purchase of six sites designated for park development.

The grant, approved last week by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Agency, will pay 50 per cent of the cost for land purchase. The office of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) announced approval of the grant Friday.

The park district application, filed last January, requested $233,587 for acquisition of eight sites totaling 66.7 acres. However, two of the sites, both owned by High School District 214, were ineligible for federal financing because they were public-owned land. The six sites for which the grant was approved will be developed as community and neighborhood parks.

Approval of the application has been long-awaited. The park district originally filed for the funds last year when the Federal Government offered 30 per cent subsidy. Later, after the law was expanded to allow a 50 per cent subsidy for land acquisition, the park district had to refile the application.

The sites to be financed by the grant are in the following locations: Greenbrier, at Kennicott Avenue north of Palatine Road (26 acres); Surrey Ridge, at Ridge Avenue and Victoria Drive (15 acres); Arlington Park Manor, at Fairview Street and McKinley Avenue (1.7 acres); Pine Gate, at White Oak Street and Douglas Avenue; Prospect Heights School (6 acres); and Council Trail, near Foster and Belmont (10 acres — owned by District 214).

Most of the six sites are already owned by the park district. The Surrey Ridge land actually covers almost 30 acres. However, 12 acres was already owned by the district, and 2.6 acres were donated.

Commenting on the grant, Park Supt. Thomas Thornton said, "It is going to help a great deal because we are going to have to pay more than we originally anticipated." The sites are being purchased with money received from a $465,000 bond issue passed in January of 1965. (A

Amusement Park Trip by Youth

Young people of the St. Peter Lutheran Church congregation took their annual junket to Riverview amusement park in Chicago Tuesday evening.

Two busloads made the trip, which annually attracts between 75 and 110 youngsters.

FALLEN LINES had to be grounded by power company workers before restoration of power lost in the tornado last Thursday could begin. Here a worker manipulates a "hot stick" to ground the wires' deadly voltage. Slichenmyer Bids Farewell to Staff

Harold L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of High School District 214, bid farewell to his teaching staff after 12 years as superintendent and more than 21 years in the district at the annual end-of-the-year Teachers Workshop Tuesday.

Addressing the assembled teachers, Slichenmyer praised District 214 as "a marvelous district" and said "it will treat you well," as he recalled that 14 out of the 16 bond issues proposed during his administration were passed.

He left his staff with the challenge, "Remember, do not accept a 'no' as a 'no,' for it you do you will easily become discouraged." Slichenmyer's duties will terminate officially August 1.

Praising Slichenmyer for his his accomplishments, Superintendent-Elect Edward H. Gilbert said that "District 214 is truly the lengthened shadow of one man" and listed what he considered to be the 10 most significant events of the past year.

INCLUDED IN Gilbert's list were: introduction of the reading program; expansion of work study opportunities; increased federal assistance to education; teacher exchanges with elementary districts; advent of data processing on a full scale; introduction of a program for the perceptually handicapped; approval of the Mount Prospect foyer; completion of the 5th high school; successful passage of the referendum for the 6th high school; and the retirement of Slichenmyer.

Also addressing the group was Roderick C. McLennan, assistant superintendent-elect. McLennan pointed out the need for the school district to think more of the diversity found in its student population and emphasized there is a real need to work with all kinds of students.

Board Pres. Harold W. Armstrong delivered a "board presentation to the staff" in which he stressed the need for communication between the two groups. (ACME

Red China Study Set By League

To launch a study of China's history, Red China and Taiwan, the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters is planning an open meeting next week to hear a couple discuss a 1960 tour of Taiwan and Hong Kong.

Dr. and Mrs. William Earl Brehm, Des Plaines, were members of the World Study Tour Council for Christian Social Action of the United Church of Christ. They went to 16 countries and met with heads of government to discuss political and social issues. They were also guests in one of the homes of Madame Chang Kai-Shek.

At the time of the tour, the National Council of Churches was considering recommending recognition of Red China.

Husbands and guests are invited by the League to the meeting at 8 p.m. June 23 in Hasbrook Civic Center, 333 W. Maude, Arlington Heights.

Commission Supports Crossing at Arthur

In hearings on the village thoroughfare plan last Wednesday the Arlington Heights Plan Commission voted to recommend a railroad grade crossing at Arthur Avenue and a "collector" designation for the street between Northwest Highway and Central Road.

Before its vote on the proposal, the plan commission weathered heavy opposition from the Stonegate Association led by its president, John Gillen.

The association's position was that a crossing at Arthur Avenue would cause traffic to filter through its subdivision via Wilshire Lane toward the north part of the village.

THE ASSOCIATION backed up its protests with a petition bearing 400 names.

As stated in the petition, the filtering of traffic from an Arthur Avenue crossing would "destroy" the residential nature of Stonegate and "cause a deterioration of home and property values."

The plan commission countered this opposition by including in its recommendation the suggestion that some kind of protection be provided to keep traffic from going through Stonegate. This could be by mechanical traffic control, ordinance, blocking Wilshire Lane at Northwest Highway, or other means.

THE PLAN commission's basic considerations in recommending the Arthur Avenue crossing and a collector designation for the street are listed below.

—Arthur Avenue is the most direct connection from the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect industrial districts to Northwest Highway;

—A crossing there would be about midway between the existing crossing at Arlington Heights Road and Central Road;

—An Arthur Avenue crossing would permit the flow of noncommercial traffic from the south of the tracks to the north part of the village without routing it to Arlington Heights Road.

—The grade at Arthur Avenue permits a crossing to be constructed there easier than at other locations;

—It isn't known whether the present underpass near the old village sewage treatment plant will remain.

THE STONEGATE Association contended that Dryden Avenue would be a more natural spot for a crossing because it would allow traffic from the south part of the village to go straight through to the north part without having to jog over. Dryden is currently designated a "secondary thoroughfare" from Northwest Highway to Palatine Road.

Several factors ruling against Dryden as a crossing site at Dryden in plan commission thinking are:

—There are two schools along Dryden (Dryden School to the south, Miner Junior High to the north) and the commission would rather not see heavy traffic going past schools;

—Dryden south of the tracks is currently an all-residential street with a width of 28 feet, back-of-curb to back-of-curb. Arthur, on the other hand, is in a temporary state. Along about two-thirds of its length on the east is an industrial area including the Bruning plant.

Another alternative spot for a crossing proposed by the Stonegate Association was Cleveland Avenue. (A

New Junior College Hopes Snag District 4 Request

Plans to annex the Barrington High School District 4 to William Rainey Harper Junior College District 512 hit a snag when a public hearing for a Lake County Junior College District was approved.

Part of the Barrington High School District which laps into Lake County is included in the Lake County Junior College District.

A GROUP OF citizens in the high school district do not want to send pupils to different junior colleges, however. They want to annex the entire high school area to the Harper College district.

The Illinois Junior College Board granted permission for a public hearing on the Lake County Junior College District Friday. The public hearing must also receive approval from the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Mrs. H. W. Bruins of Barrington, head of the Barrington area junior college committee, said she will file annexation petitions to the Harper Junior College District next week.

SHE SAID THEY contain a minimum of 20 per cent of registered voters in the high school district. The large number of signers expresses how persons feel about splitting up the high school district, she added.

She said ner group will testify against the approval of the Lake County Junior College District at the hearing, which is expected to be in August.

This hearing will have to be out of the way before the Barrington annexation petition will be considered, Mrs. Bruins said.

If the Lake County district is approved as proposed, the Barrington group will go through procedures of withdrawing from it, she said. (B10

SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

Are You A Potential Heart Patient?

by Dr. P. Carbone and Jane Sherrod Singer

One of the greatest killers in the world today is heart disease of one kind or another. For years the medical profession has probed into the causes, developed extensive tools for diagnosing and expended fortunes on machinery to predict and alleviate the injuries which attack the "heart of the matter."

Dr. R. J. Kositchek of St. Joseph's Hospital in Burbank, California, says his findings indicate that the amount of fat eaten is the major cause of heart problems. He bases this opinion on studies of the Navajo Indians who, although their diet is based largely on fat and grains, eat only 1100 calories a day. When, however, they leave the reservation and join the life of the white men they tend to eat more and become victims of heart problems which are relatively rare within their tribal lives. The same findings by other heart specialists hold true for the Japanese who eat sparingly of both rice and fish as their staple diet, and have a low rate of cardiac deaths until they adopt a diet of foods high in cholesterols.

Dr. Kositchek, however, has gone one step further by developing four simple questions which have proven 90% correct in predicting heart disease:

1. Do you dislike helping your wife with the dishes, chafing under the idea that you could be doing something more important? (It can be assumed that any other trivial chore which irritates either a man or woman would be equally valid in this question.)
2. Do slow drivers bother you?
3. Do you try to win when playing games with your children?
4. Do you feel time is getting away from you?

According to Dr. Kositchek, who is also President of the American Cardiac Foundation, if the answers to these four questions are YES, you are probably on your way to becoming a victim of some form of heart disease.

Comfort Engineering Concept in Housing

Comfort Engineering 2-30 ital. "Comfort" engineering" is something you will be hearing about a lot in the next few years. It refers to the indoor climate in which you live, work and spend your leisure time. But no longer does it mean simply keeping a building warm in winter and cool in summer. According to the Illinois Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors, it describes indoor air that has been electronically cleaned, purified, deodorized, dehumidified and, in some cases humidified to attain just the right balance of temperature and humidity for optimum comfort.

To provide such ideal comfort conditions, manufacturers are spending thousands of manhours and millions of dollars to research, test and perfect products. They are looking for ways to mass-produce "package equipment" within reach of the average citizen's pocketbook. It is not going to happen overnight, the Illinois Association says, but it's coming. Right now, such equipment is being installed chiefly in new industrial and commercial complexes and in a few hospitals and schools.

Comfort engineering is already having a profound effect upon the men responsible for installing the "mechanical cores" in commercial, industrial and institutional buildings: the complex piping, plumbing, heating, etc. needed. Journeymen who comprise most of the labor force have always had to put in at least five years of intensive classroom and on-the-job training in hydraulics, mathematics and other sciences. Now they often take specialized courses to qualify for particular types of work. At one time, men who acquired licenses and went into business as plumbing and heating contractors generally came up through the ranks. Now the new breed is likely as not to own one or more engineering degrees, and he is more apt to be called a "mechanical" contractor. (O

How Built-In Vacuum Operates

Would you like to have a vacuum cleaner that makes little noise, has no heavy tank to drag around, occupies virtually no space in your closet or utility room and is emptied only a couple of times a year?

This is not a homemaker's dream. There is a built-in vacuum cleaning system available that answers this description, the Illinois Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors says.

The motor and a multi-gallon disposable bag are installed in a convenient location outside the living area such as the basement, utility room, attic or garage. Piping leads from there to unobtrusive room outlets that resemble conventional electrical outlets. The homemaker merely inserts a lightweight flexible hose into the outlet, presses a button located there and proceeds to vacuum.

Since the motor is more powerful than that of the conventional portable cleaner, the built-in system is said to be several times more efficient. It is also cleaner, since dust is not recirculated. Because of its size, the bag needs to be replaced only a couple of times a year.

About half a dozen manufacturers now make such systems. The installation is similar to a plumbing system, since piping leads from all the room outlets to the disposable bag, and the job should be done by a qualified plumbing contractor and his trained journeymen. (O

GARDENING TIPS

FROM THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS GARDEN CLUB

Your Garden . . . Day by Day

by MARY B. GOOD

As June signals the start of the tourist season, we thought we'd devote a line a day this week to traveling flower lovers who might be going to the mountains, seashore and points north or south.

June 16

Those of you visiting California have a visual feast in store for you! But a trip to the coast would be incomplete without a visit to Descanso Gardens in La Canada (Los Angeles County). Roses, begonias, fuchsias and summer annuals are featured during the next few months.

June 17

Fishermen among you hie to Wisconsin for musky and northern pike, but for the casual, relaxed vacationeer, hasn't the "lure" of the water lilies some appeal, too? Wildflowers abound, particularly wild columbine, adder's tongue and "Indian paintbrushes," in the virgin white birch and fine forests of the North Woods. P.S. Take one of the famous "nature trail hikes"!

June 18

More on Wisconsin: Milwaukee area visitors will enjoy a jaunt to Whitnal Park in Hales Corners.

June 19

Sing along with old Cape Cod: "If you spend an evening, you'll want to stay." If it's good enough for the Kennedy clan, it's good enough for you. A side trip to Martha's Vineyard will leave you breathless.

June 20

In my book, Missouri is one of the most underrated states and perhaps the loveliest in this area of the country, particularly around the Table Rock-Bull Shoals area. My love affair with "old Mo." began with a springtime visit to Branson. At that time the redbud and true dogwood trees, which grow wild in great number there, were in bloom.

June 21

Traveling to Pennsylvania? The Pocono Mountains are lovely any time of year but especially so when the wild rhododendron are blooming on the mountainsides. But beware! The local gendarmes keep on their toes pinching "rhododendron nabbers."

June 22

Stay-at-homers need not feel depressed. If you're not taking your "two weeks with pay" at this time, perhaps you can swing a weekend or even a day of traveling enjoyment. There are many esthetic attraction within a day's ride. One booklet created by the American Petroleum Institute contains a guide to a number of close-to-home car trips. Happy Holiday!

Looking for Color? Try These Species

Many people enjoy growing something that's new, different or unusual. That's why the new rose and annual introductions prove so popular. However, new plant introductions are not limited to annuals and roses. New tree varieties and selections also are available for unusual landscapes.

Red maple has always been popular because of its fast growth and excellent fall color. Unfortunately, this color could not always be depended upon unless selection was made at the nursery when the fall color was displayed. The red maple October Glory, eliminated this uncertainty. October Glory will consistently produce a brilliant crimson red fall foliage.

Another tree with an improved leaf color is Purple Splendor, an improved form of weeping birch. As the name implies, this is an improved leaf form and color.

Redbud is a tree that continues to fool people by its name. Not only are white flowered varieties available, but now a new pink bud. Pink Charm Redbud produces pink flowers without a trace of purple. This is an excellent small tree for a shaded location. However, because this particular variety is new its northern limit of hardiness is still to be determined.

Another small tree that is included in recent introductions is Autumn Glory, a hawthorn. It's significant for the large brilliant red fruit that persists from fall to winter.

Sunburst is a honeylocust that's been available for about 12 years. It was selected for the ability of the new growth to maintain a golden color through early summer. A companion tree is now available. Rubylace is a honeylocust with new growth that changes from bright ruby red in spring to a dark bronze-green in August.

Pin oaks have recently staged a comeback in popularity. This may be attributed almost completely to their fast growth. However, in certain locations its sagging branches have not been desirable. Now we have a pin oak that reverses itself. Branches of the new Sovereign all diverge upward at angles of 45 to 90 degrees.

Mountain ashes currently have at least five new varieties. Brilliant Yellow, one of the new introductions, displays clear yellow fruit while Chamois Charming has pink fruit. Red Cooper Glow has glittering red fruit that's smaller than usual. Red Tip and White Wax produce white fruit. (O

Hints for Buyers Of New Appliances

The Water Conditioning Foundation offers three suggestions to families purchasing major appliances this year:

Read the manufacturer's instruction manual carefully. It's better to read first than to do wrong later.

Follow all operating instructions to the letter. Manufacturers performance test their products to insure a maximum useful life. They know best what can be expected of their products. When you follow their advice, you take the word of a pro.

At the earliest opportunity get an anlysis of your household water supply. You cannot expect appliances to perform at their best for long if the water coming into your house is hard, corrosive, or high in iron content.

According to studies made by the Water Conditioning Foundation, appliance failure can often be traced to a problem water. Appliance manufacturers themselves recognize this when they recommend the use of soft water with their products. Hard water causes build up of scale and sludge that can clog pipes and drains. Corrosive water leads to failure of metal parts. Iron leaves unsightly stains on porcelain and painted surfaces. These are but a few of water problems which lead to malfunctioning of appliances. These problems can be eliminated by having the proper type of water conditioning equipment installed in the home.

As protective insurance for any new water-using appliances, the foundation recommends that you contact your local water conditioning dealer or plumber. They will be glad to have your water tested for you and make suggestions on proper type of equipment to install in the home. Water analysis may also be made through state universities, local or state health departments or independent water test laboratories. (O

Funds Are Sought For Indian Center

The American Indian Center this week launched its fund raising appeal for support of the 1966 Summer Children's Program. A campaign goal of $6,000 was announced by William Red Cloud, Chairman of the Board.

"Vacation time is here," said Red Cloud, "but for many of our American Indian children, 'vacation' means spending the entire summer in an overcrowded, stifling apartment and on the hot sidewalks and streets of the inner city.

"With the help of friends and members of the American Indian Center, we can change all this, at least for school age children," stated Red Cloud.

"Through the Summer Children's Program, we can give these kids an exciting summer. They will make new friends and share new experiences, exploring the beaches, parks, forest preserves, zoos and museums in and around Chicago."

The six week A.I.C. Children's Explorer program will begin June 27, and meet Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Persons wishing to make contributions to support the Summer Children's activities, and parents wishing to enroll their children, may call The American Indian Center, 738 W. Sheridan Road, Chicago, phone 935-9061, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. (B10

IRON IN YOUR WATER?

TWO WAYS TO GET RID OF IT

1. Get a water conditioner
2. Keep the conditioner at peak iron-removing efficiency with

U. S. Pat. No. 3216932

If you have a modern water conditioner, it collects and removes large quantities of iron from water. But in this high-iron area, your conditioner needs help for the complete removal of iron. Iron causes red staining of your sinks, tubs, toilet bowls, and clothing. Iron certainly does not help your complexion, and it ruins the taste of coffee and tea.

Diamond Crystal developed REDOUT nuggets to help your water conditioner completely remove iron from your home water softener. If you use REDOUT regularly, your softener will always be iron-free and your water conditioner will last longer. Get REDOUT nuggets now and enjoy Diamond Crystal Clear Water.

Fringe Benefits To Be Established

A committee to set fringe benefits for employes of William Rainey Harper Junior College has been appointed by board President John Haas.

Richard Johnson was appointed chairman at the Thursday board meeting. Committee members are Paul O'Dea and Mrs. Jessalyn Nicklas. The committee was instructed to report recommendations of benefits at the September meeting.

College President Robert E. Lahti said fringe items can mean as much as $350 to staff members leaving other institutions. He said benefits would have to be competitive because they are considered a "clincher" for junior colleges.

THE BUDGET committee was also instructed to meet to have a proposed budget ready for the July 14 meeting.

Lahti told the board he would have information on some ideas for college facilities at the next meeting.

The board canvassed votes on the June 4 referendum in which a $7,375,000 bond issue was passed. Out of 8,106 votes cast, there were 6,030 yes votes, 2,038 no votes and 38 defective or spoiled ballots.

Haas asked board attorney Frank M. Hines to see if some precincts could be combined before next elections. Haas said he could not justify opening a voting place for 18 people.

The precincts for the referendum generally followed elementary precincts. (A15

Vacation Time Gripes Plumbed

Millions of Americans soon will be starting their annual vacations. Some folks like to "go back to nature" and rough it. Others would rather live in the lap of luxury for a couple of weeks.

But they all have one thing in common according to a survey by the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. They demand clean restrooms with all the equipment in good working order. This is equally true of service stations, roadside hamburger stands, restaurants, campsite washrooms and hotel and motel accommodations.

While sanitation in public washrooms and away-from-home bathrooms has improved about a thousand per cent in the last 20 years, there is still room for plenty of improvement. Here is a list of pet gripes:

1. Noisy plumbing that penetrates the walls of adjoining rooms.
2. Leaky faucets or water closets.
3. Water closets that do not flush properly.
4. Hot water faucets that dispense only cold water.
5. Lack of soap in dispensers, lack of paper towels in places calling for them and lack of tissue.
6. Stopped-up lavatory sinks.
7. Faucets that automatically turn off after a few seconds, before you've had a chance to wash your hands.
8. Bathrooms lacking showers or with showers that trickle or suddenly turn icy cold or scalding hot.
9. An obvious lack of frequent cleaning.

The bureau's survey also revealed that satisfied patrons do recommend places which they have enjoyed to their friends and warn them against those that spoiled their vacations. Public washrooms and away-from-home bathrooms are number 1 on the list of features which can influence travelers.

Think all wagons are too big or too small?

Meet the Mind-Changer.
(Rambler Classic)

Betty and Phil Mason knew what they wanted: a station wagon with size and style and sass. They hadn't considered a Rambler until Betty met the Mind-Changer, a Rambler Classic 770 Wagon. It's bigger, bolder —with plenty of room for people and paraphernalia. (More total head room —leg room—hip room than the average intermediate wagon!) Betty thought the interior was surprisingly good-looking. She tried out the coil-spring reclining bucket seats* ("Very comfortable.") and poked around in the lockable hidden compartment. Phil took a test drive, went for the Mind-Changing difference our big 327-cubic-inch V-8* makes. He was surprised that many extra features like Double-Safety brakes and that gleaming roof rack are standard, at no extra cost. Betty and Phil had decided on the ideal-size Classic Wagon even before they heard that prices are now at their model-year lowest. Why don't you test-drive a Mind-Changer today? Building Referendum On Board's Agenda

A referendum for classrooms and offices for Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary School District 15 will be discussed at a special board meeting Tuesday, June 21.

The referendum, expected to be set for August, would be used to complete Winston Churchill School and Plum Grove School.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the superintendent's offices in Paddock School.

BUSINESS MGR. Stanley Roe said contracts for Winston Churchill School have been let by the state.

The contracts call only for classrooms. Offices and a multipurpose room were excluded from the state contracts so that the district could meet the state maximum of $13 per square foot for a building. The district is getting the money from the state in an interest-free loan.

The planned Plum Grove School addition was canceled by the state because it was above the $13 maximum.

Winston Churchill School is planned for the Winston Park School site, Palatine, and will have 20 classrooms.

THE DISTRICT had had plans for a 14-room addition at Plum Grove School.

The Winston Churchill School completion date has not been set.

District officials have commented they will push completion as fast as possible. The school is particularly needed to relieve crowding of classrooms in northeast Palatine.

The district also is toying with the idea of mobile classrooms as a stopgap measure for relieving the crowded conditions.

Discussion of mobile classrooms also is expected at the special meeting.

Yeats Equates Spending Rates

"Will we have any cash left?" quipped Palatine Pres. David Yeats.

The village board Monday had just approved the third list of bills for the 1966 fiscal year. The total was $106,863. It will probably be one of the greatest totals for the entire year.

A major section was $71,750 for the water department. (P

SNIFFING SALT WATER MAY BE DANGEROUS

Sniffing salt water into and through the nose is an old fashioned home treatment which most medical authorities say can be harmful. The benefits, they state, are small or nonexistant. The pressure caused by sniffing tends to spread germs to new locations faster than it suppresses them.

Sinus trouble is primarily the obstructed flow in or out of the sinuses, which are like caves that connect into the nasal passages. A severe cold and its associated germs may swell the tissues so the entrances to the sinuses are clogged. But, a physician must look for other causes of chronic cases. He must correct the basic trouble. If medication is needed, we can fill any prescription.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Three Arrested Outside Cellar

Three out-of-town youths were arrested by Arlington Heights police Saturday night in a disturbance outside of the Cellar at Salem Avenue and Davis Street.

Arrested were Richard Schock, 17, 1013 Park Boulevard, Streamwood; Kenneth Menne, 18, 330 Onedia, Bartlett; and Matt Zuilek, 17, 2080 Popular Street, Hanover Park.

According to police, the incident occurred after the youths had several times ben asked to leave the Cellar by Officer Eugene Korn.

POLICE SAID they later appeared at Salem and Davis Street in an intoxicated condition and Schock began fighting with officers.

In the police blow-by-blow account, Schock allegedly struck Lt. Maurice English in the face, hit Sgt. George Ekblad and bit Officer Korn on the hand. Police said after they subdued Schock and got him into a patrol car, he kicked Sgt. Ekblad in the back of the head.

SCHOCK WAS charged with aggravated battery, criminal trespass and intoxication. He was released Sunday on $2,000 bond. He appeared in the Arlington Heights branch of the Circuit Court and his case was continued to July 11.

Menne was charged with intoxication and Zuilek with disorderly conduct. They were freed on $25 bond each and are to appear in court on July 13.

VETERAN WHEELING TOWNSHIP Democratic Committeeman James Stavros (center) was in his element Tuesday night as primary returns were gathered at Democratic headquarters in Wheeling. But the results — being recorded by James McCabe of Arlington Heights, candidate for 13th District congressman, and Stavros' secretary, Lee Koeneman — fell below expectations. Stavros' candidate, State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, will be listed second on the November ballot after State Rep. Bernard M. Peskin of Northbrook. Unopposed, Stavros collected 1,685 votes for re-election.

Three Hurt In Accident

Two Palatine women and a Rolling Meadows man were injured in a three-car accident at U. S. 14 and Yale in Arlington Heights Friday afternoon.

All three were passengers in a car driven by Burneal W. Fick, 27, 2308 Algonquin Road, Rolling Meadows. They were: Dorothy C. Rutz, 38, 111 W. Hellen, Palatine, who suffered head cuts; Mary A. Gerth, 36, 262 N. Schubert, Palatine, who sustained cuts on her left leg; and Wyman L. Pape, 34, 1401 Algonquin Road, Rolling Meadows, who suffered rib injuries.

They were taken to Northwest Community Hospital where they were treated and released.

ACCORDING TO police, an eastbound car on U. S. 14 driven by Linda J. Lee, 18, 260 N. Rohlwing Road, Palatine, struck the rear of another eastbound car driven by Harold Marcus, Box 552, Arlington Heights. The impact caused the Marcus car to go into the path of the Fick car, traveling west on U. S. 14 as Fick was turning left on Yale.

Arlington Greens

More than a hundred young people gathered at the Beverly-Hickory corner by 7 p.m. last Saturday evening to begin their portion of the annual Street Dance sponsored by the Arlington Greens Community Assoc. At 9 p.m. the adults took over beneath the lights and colored banners which decorated the area. Square dances were called by Tib Tibbetts and Nina and midnight brought on a cleanup crew and an end to the festivity.

Sunday afternoon the Kids Day Flag Parade proceeded as scheduled, despite the sprinkling which failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the youngsters. They rode, walked or pulled their somewhat limp and slightly mottled red, white and blue vehicles to the Olive School parking lot.

Waiting for them at the judging area were Jack Walsh, village trustee, Mrs. Doris Austin, representing the Camp Fire Girls; and John Southard, represented the Boy Scouts. They began the activity with a flag raising ceremony.

Best entry for wagon was earned by Charles Brunke of North Beverly; tricycle, by Barbie Andrews of North Hickory; and bicycle, by Pamela Boyd of N. Dryden Avenue.

President of the association, Don McNamara, thanked the youngsters for their participation and the many parents who came along to watch. Cartons of milk, juice, candy bars, flag buttons and pamphlets about the flag, which were donated by merchants for the occasion, were distributed to the crowd which grew larger as the rain stopped.

Next activity planned by the Greens will be a family picnic July 4.

HOUSEGUEST in the Ed Farnan home on N. Hickory Avenue is Miss Coral Harris of Vassalboro, Maine, who arrived just after the Memorial Day weekend to begin an extended visit with her sister and family. Three days before, 5-year-old Eddie Farnan celebrated his birthday with a backyard hobo party, complete with "soup kitchen," for appropriately attired guests and neighborhood friends.

During the first weekend in June, Mrs. Norma Wilkiewicz of N. Dryden Avenue was joined by her sister, Mrs. Doris Stanis, and their mother, Mrs. Romeo Hereau, both of Chicago, for a motor trip to Escanaba, Mich., where they attended the 25th wedding anniversary of aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Herioux. The mass on Saturday morning and reception later in the day was attended by more than 100 relatives, neighbors, and friends, who gathered to fete the couple. Mrs. Wilkiewicz was one of the bridesmaids at their wedding.

Birthday cake and refreshments in her E. Clarendon Avenue home last Monday evening celebrated the 19th birthday of Mary Lou Traina. Joining her for the occasion were Sue Ann Hill and Phyllis Bauman. Sunday the family held a dinner for brother Terry's graduation from St. James School. Guests at the affair were the George Hall family of E. Oakton Streets and the George Bruck family of Chicago.

A backyard buffet observed the occasion for another St. James graduate, Glenn Shannon, in his N. Hickory Avenue home. On hand for the occasion were the Gail Shannon family of McHenry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowe of Prospect Heights, the Ned Whites of Lake Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowe of Prospect Heights, the Mark Shannons of Rolling Meadows and grandmother, Mrs. Marie Wentzel of Chicago. His sister, Kathy, was home for her summer vacation from classes at Western Illinois University.

A dinner party marked the occasion for St. James graduate, Jim Tackes, June 5, attended by several friends and relatives in his N. Douglas Avenue home. Last Sunday the family joined numerous other relatives for the grade school graduation party of cousin Edward Harbecke and then on to the home of cousin Marilyn Norek, who graduated from Loyola University.

TWENTY guests gathered in the Len Brune home on N. Dryden Avenue, following the 8 p.m. ceremony at Sacred Heart of Mary High School on June 1, for the party given for graduate, Sue Brune, who was among the class of 136 girls in white and blue robes.

A party in the Pete Johnson home on E. Olive Street June 5 observed two graduations in the family; Richard from St. James and sister Susan from Arlington High School, last Friday evening. Guests at the buffet party were their grandmother, Valborg Johnson of Gurnee, the Charles Gohs of Fox Lake, the Norman Press family of LaGrange Park, Tom Saffords of Chicago, Miss Virginia Whalen of DeKalb and cousin Bob Weiland, who had graduated from Northern Illinois University, June 4.

A family party observed the occasion for graduate Cathey Marshman in her E. Clarendon Avenue home after the evening graduating ceremony in St. Peter Lutheran School, June 9. Baccalaureate in the church on Monday evening and a dinner in the school cafeteria afterward was given for the graduates and their parents. Cathey received science and history awards, one for her participation in choir and a girls athletic badge.

Activities for the Saflarski family of E. Clarendon Avenue, were a birthday for St. James graduate, Janet, on June 5; her brother Jim graduated from Arlington High School last Friday; and her brother, Robby, had a birthday. A dinner party last Sunday observed all three occasions.

THE GEORGE Rateike household celebrated two graduations in their N. Pine Court home. Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Schalk of Des Plaines and Mrs. Paul Rateike, and sponsors and their families were guests at the ceremony in St. Peter's when Donna graduated on Thursday. Saturday a buffet dinner for 30 relatives from the area observed the occasion for both Donna and her sister, Ginger, who was among the 479, red-robed seniors to graduate from Arlington High School last Friday evening.

Another Arlington High graduate was Bill Compton of N. Douglas Avenue. On hand for the occasion was his grandfather, Harry Compton Sr. of LaPorte, Ind., who spent the weekend with the family and joined 30 relatives invited to the dinner party on Sunday.

Diane Ravas of N. Beverly Lane, observed her graduation with a family party.

Graduate, Karl Buttstadt of East Olive Street, is a member of the National Honor Society and recipient of the German Award. Karl received a letter from Vice President Hubert Humphrey. Saturday evening a dinner party observed the occasion and was attended by the E. Stein family of Niles, the J. McGowan family and Mrs. A. Grunau of Prospect Heights and the J. Hanziks of North Riverside.

HICKORY MEADOWS

Two graduations kept the Aylward home on E. Marion Street busy the first week in June. On June 1 Bill was among the 182 seniors in blue-gray caps and gowns to graduate from St. Viator High School. Bill was awarded a National Honor Society Award at the baccalaureate and breakfast the Sunday before. June 5 the family attended the graduation of Steve from St. James School after which the dinner party for both boys was attended by their grandmother, Mrs. G. Harrigan of Cincinnati, and cousin, Rev. Valentine Schirer from St. Peter's Catholic Church in Chicago.

Another St. James graduate was Dolores Kreusch of E. Jules Street. Her Sunday buffet supper was atended by 30 relatives including grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. DeMarco of Mayfield, Ky., the R. J. Beinlick family of Greendale, Wis., together with aunts, uncles and cousins from Palatine and Wilmette.

Alice Nagorny of East Marion was also a St. James graduate. A buffet supper followed the graduation ceremony and was attended by forty relatives and friends from Chicago and suburbs. (A

PTA Shifts With New Boundaries

A switch in Oive and Wilson school attendance boundaries has led to a shift in PTA's as well.

Nine Olive PTA officers and chairmen ended up with children in Wilson School, instead, when boundary changes were approved last month by the District 25 school board.

Wilson PTA president Donald Norman has reaped the gain. Of his new board, seven had originally agreed to work for Olive PTA next year — before the boundary shift.

THE NEWLY reconstituted Olive PTA board includes Mrs. Albert J. Bayer, president; Miss Margaret McDowell, Mrs. James DeLuca, Mrs. Donald E. Helbing and Mrs. Edwin T. Hendricks, vice presidents; Mrs. Ronald Fairhead, recording secretary; Mrs. H. M. Weidinger, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Kenneth Jahnke, treasurer.

Wilson PTA officers in addition to Norman — only male PTA president in the Arlington Heights Council next year, will be: Mrs. J. R. Jolly and Mrs. E. S. Jackson vice presidents; Mrs. W. D. Brennan, recording secretary; Mrs. E. W. Heiser, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. T. E. Fennell Jr., treasurer.

Wilson PTA chairmen will be Mrs. Fennell, finance; Mrs. Jolly, bylaws and legislation; Mrs. Lawrence Papach, exceptional child; Mrs. Jackson, faculty representative; Mrs. V. A. Beuder, hospitality; Mrs. J. J. Hartley, library volunteers, and Mrs. W. F. Wratten, publications.

OTHER CHAIRMEN will include Mrs. E. S. Garman, membership; Clifford Bebber, posters; Mrs. Jackson, program; Mrs. E. K. Huff, publicity; Mrs. K. A. North and Mrs. M. S. Pool, room chairmen; Anthony J. Tomaso, safety and welfare, and Mrs. W. E. Shafer, stamps.

Also on the Wilson PTA list will be Mrs. J. W. Brophy, scholarship; Mrs. Tomaso, school education; Mrs. A. H. Zrimsek and Mrs. M. F. Bartkowiak, summer round-up; Eugene W. Rabe Jr. and Leonard J. Riccio, ways and means; Mrs. Bebber, yearbook, and Mrs. H. C. Cushing, refreshments. (A SMILES FROM THE SENATOR — And with good reason. At 8:42 p.m. Tuesday, State Sen. John A. Graham (left) received a call from his closest competition, Robert O. Atcher, conceding the race for GOP nomination. But for Robert Hesse (right), one of five contenders for the two nominations for the State House, things weren't going so well. (B10 CLOSE TALLY — Keeping a careful eye on the running account of Robert Hesse's returns was his campaign manager, Ellsworth B. Frankson of Rolling Meadows, but by midnight the difference was enough to matter. (B10

BUT NOT CLOSE ENOUGH — By unofficial totals, Robert Hesse came in third on the list of five running for the two State House nominations. He fell several hundred votes behind the second man, David J. Regner of Mount Prospect; top vote-getter was incumbent Eugene Schlickman. (B10

At Palatine Headquarters

Short Wait by Graham; Harrowing for Hesse

by RICHARD LEONARD
Staff Writer

The time was 8:41. For nearly two hours some 150 Palatine GOP workers had been waiting. Some sat quietly balancing paper plates of ham and potato salad against iced martinis. Others grouped before the make-shift tally board.

The results from Palatine had long been in—all but three precincts where the votes were being counted by hand.

Now there were but two questions in the air: How was Graham doing? What's the latest on Hesse?

In front of the tally board Ted Meyer had just crayoned in the partial returns from Barrington. At a nearby table Ellsworth B. Frankson, campaign manager for Robert Hesse, banged furiously on an adding machine. Hesse stood quietly in a doorway talking with his wife Pat, seemingly oblivious to the noise and excitement around him.

IN A CORNER by a window, white-haired John Graham was talking on the telephone. Beside him Township Committeeman Alex MacArthur strained to catch the conversation.

Almost as one the room quieted. This was it—everyone knew it. "Atcher has conceded," whispered a pert young gal, nearly lost behind a huge Graham button.

From halfway across the room you could hear the soft tones of Graham's voice. "Thank you, Bob," he said. "Now after both of us have rested up a bit we'll get together to talk things over. Just the two of us. Yes, yes. Thank you, Bob." It was over. And for a moment Graham's hair shone like silver.

Then came the cheers, the handshakes. The spotlight was on Sen. John Graham. He beamed. He took strength from it. A red, white and blue corsage was presented to Mrs. Graham. She smiled. More handshakes.

BUT ELLSWORTH Frankson hardly looked up from his adding machine. Things were not going as well as he liked. Hesse was 100 votes behind in the race for nomination to the State House. "Northfield is the key," he murmured. "We must hold our own in Northfield."

"My husband deserves this," Mrs. Graham was saying. "He has made politics his whole life. He is as tough a fighter as ever lived."

"In many ways this was a real sweet victory," said John Bickley, campaign manager for Graham.

FLASHBULBS popped at Graham 17 times. He reached out to shake 175 hands, kissed 62 lips; he answered 14 phone calls.

"What have you heard from Schaumburg?" Frankson asked a matronly-looking lady. "Schaumburg is the key. We must hold our own in Schaumburg."

Supported by a heavy metal cane, main sign of a stroke suffered last winter, Graham started to leave, his wife on the left and youthful Tom Corchoran, campaign coordinator, on his right. "I'm going down to Wheeling then it will be home to bed," Graham was telling Bickley.

"What is the latest from Wheeling?" Frankson anxiously asked no one in particular. Victory was all around him, but he still had a fight on his hands.

MIDNIGHT: THE beer coolers were empty. The martinis were gone. Several women were busy packing the scant remains of the buffet — several jars of olives and a coffee cake. The crowd had dwindled to 17 tired-looking spectators—each seemed to be waiting for someone to close up shop.

Frankson had left his adding machine. The phones had stopped ringing. "We won't concede, but it looks like we've lost it."

Hesse, looking more a victor than a loser, shook his hand. Frankson disappeared through the door. It was over. Within 15 minutes the lights were out, the door locked. Three blocks away the Democratic headquarters was deserted and dark. It was over. (B10

THE WAIT WAS DOUBLY tense for State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, taking returns by phone, at the Wheeling Township GOP headquarters Tuesday night. In the unofficial returns, he won the Wheeling Township committeeman's post, and top total among the five candidates for nomination to the State House. (Staff photo)

Youth Summer Job Program Receives Federal Approval

The federal government has okayed a $26,500 grant for operation of High School District 214's Neighborhood Youth Corps this summer.

Approval of the anti-poverty grant was announced Saturday by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.).

It will make it possible for 50-some disadvantaged teenagers to benefit from school-supervised summer employment and on-job counseling.

APPROVAL OF the NYC summer program was given by the District 214 board in April after it received Director George Theodore's report on the current Neighborhood Youth Corps operation.

Started despite fire from conservative activists, who charged there was no need for such an employment program and, if there were a need, it should be met locally. The NYC program in April drew favorable comments from even early critic William Griffith of the school board.

By school's end, 151 high schoolers had been identified by Theodore as meeting the NYC programs criteria of low family income and need for the supervised employment.

Of these, 116 had been placed on the payroll.

THE SUMMER program will, however, still draw on funds initially approved for the school-year operation. Late start of the present Neighborhood Youth Corps operation plus slow identification of eligible students made expenditure of funds lower than expected when the project was originally submitted to the Office of Economic Opportunity by District 214.

Re-approval of the funds for the summer program was a formality, but a necesary one. While Theodore had been assured earlier this year that the okay would come, no students could be employed for the summer NYC work until approval was received.

Now, he said, he will be able to complete assigning of students to jobs throughout the five high schools, as teacher aides, laboratory assistants, landscape workers, typists and clerks. (ACME

Arlington Youths Earn Eagle Badges

District 214 Hires Purchasing Agent

High School District 214 will have a professional purchasing agent as part of its business staff beginning July 11.

Hiring of J. R. Brooks, currently senior buyer for Warner Electric Brake Co. of South Beloit, Wis., was approved by the school board Monday evening.

At a salary of $11,500 he will be the highest paid noncertificated employe in the school system.

Brooks will work under Director of Business Services Francis J. Coleman, who was a District 214 teacher before he was appointed business manager.

NELSON LOWREY, director of personnel, says the school system, before selecting Brooks, screened 94 applicants living as far away as New York and California. A number were District 214 employes.

The final field of three included one local man.

Brooks, was chosen, Lowrey said, because of his "wide range of experience." He has worked with scientists and engineers — experience that will be a help in doing buying for the District 214 laboratories — has supervised purchasing for building programs, and has handled both negotiated and competitive bid buying.

NOW 38, BROOKS has been with Warner Electric since 1963. Before that he was employed in the Chicago area, first with Allied Chemical and Dye and then for nine years with Morton Salt Co.

A graduate of Wilson Junior College, he attended Northwestern University evening courses in business and management for six years. He is a member of the Rock River Valley Purchasing Agents Association and is a former Jaycee. He and his wife have no children.

As District 214 purchasing agent — a newly-created position with the school system — Brooks will be responsible for buying, maintaining inventories, and developing procedures for centralized purchasing.

Supervision of landscaping the sixth high school grounds and purchase of art, music and library equipment at the new school will also be part of Brooks' duties. A decision to take responsibility for those items away from the architect and general contractor, a move that will save the school district 15 per cent of the cost, was made by the school board Monday.

THE BOARD MAY also decide to have Brooks handle homemaking and science equipment purchases for the new school, if the new man indicates he can do it.

The selection of cafeteria equipment for the new school will, however, be left to the architects. That decision was also okayed by the school board Monday. (ACME

Forest View Students Win Drama Stipends

Two Forest View High School students, Terrie Hysell and Robert Farber, have been awarded scholarships to Northwestern University's National High School Institute in Speech this summer.

They will attend the six-week summer program along with about 100 other high school students from across the United States.

SHERIE EDMUNDS, Forest View drama teacher, called the award a "double honor.'

It is the first time, she said, that any Forest View students have been accepted for the summer institute as enrollees, much less as scholarship winners.

Both Farber and Miss Hysell have been active in theater productions at the District 214 high school.

Miss Hysell. the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hysell of 800 S. William, Mount Prospect, directed Forest View's variety show this year. She also had the lead in "Blithe Spirit" and played Aunt Ev in the high school production of "The Miracle Worker."

Farber appeared last year in "Annie Get Your Gun" and this year had parts as Cachone in "The Lark" and Melamed in "A Tale of Chelm." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Farber, 64 W. Roxbury Lane, Des Plaines.

THE DRAMA institute which they will attend will have instruction in acting, directing, stage craft, costuming and makup. The high schoolers will take part in radio and television shows, give a variety show and wind up their work by staging several dramatic productions.

In addition to the Northwestern scholarships, the two Forest View juniors received assistance from local organizations. Providing grants to help pay costs of tuition for the summer workshop are Masque and Staff, Elk Grove Village amateur theater group; the Forest View High School Teacher-Parent Council, the Arlington Heights Rotary Club and Village Theater, Inc.

New Lawyer For Library

Their action spurred by need for legal advice during Jack Siegel's month-long vacation in Europe, the Arlington Heights library board last week hired a new attorney.

He is Marlin Smith, a partner in Siegel's law firm of Ross, Hardies, O'Keefe, Babcock, McDugald, Ensign, Parsons of Chicago.

Smith's assignment was recommended by Siegel, who has been handling library board legal work in addition to his duties as Arlington Heights village attorney. Siegel left last Thursday and arranged for Smith to also advise the village on legal matters during his absence.

SMITH LUNCHED Monday with library board members Charles Oestmann, Robert Blackburn, George C. (Bud) Beacham and Norval Stephens and discussed upcoming library legal problems with the four at that time.

Assisting Smith with the library legal affairs, the board has been advised, will be Arvi Johnsen, an associate in the Ross, Hardies firm. (AME

Schmidt Motor Co. New Datsun Dealer

One of the area's newest Datsun dealers is also one of the area's pioneer auto dealers. He is George A. Schmidt, 74, president of Schmidt Motor Sales, 3527 N. Western Ave., Chicago. Vice president of the firm is George A. Schmidt Jr. of 110 S. School Lane, Prospect Heights, who manages all service operations of the business.

The senior Schmidt started in 1910 with a furniture store, but also serviced Chalmers cars. Dropping the furniture line, he concentrated on the booming auto industry.

The concern has handled Federal and Stewart trucks, Auburns and Hupmobiles, took on the Studebaker in 1939, switched to Rootes cars, manufactured in Coventry, England, in the late 40's and then added Datsun of Japan about a month ago.

Schmidt who says the firm does as much servicing for suburban car owners as for Chicagoans, also admits that he spends a lot of his time "educating the customers." He impresses upon them, men and women alike, how important it is to have cars serviced regularly.

"When Schmidt personnel grease and lubricate a customer's car, we make checks on things the customer would never think to have us check, such as all safety features, burned out bulbs, unusual tire wear, cooling and exhaust systems, to name a few."

GEORGE A. SCHMIDT SR. looks over a new Datsun brochure, having recently become an agency for the Japanese-made compact car at Schmidt Motors, 3527 N. Western Ave., Chicago.

Motor Club Says

Spring Mill Park Good Spot to See

At Spring Mill State Park in southern Indiana, a family can spend a day, a weekend, or a whole week's vacation and enjoy every minute of the stay, says the Chicago Motor Club.

The park's most interesting attraction is Spring Mill Village, a real colonial town which went into an economic decline more than 100 years ago and had to be abandoned. Its careful reconstruction is regarded today by experts as one of the most successful historical restorations in this country.

Spring Mill got its start about 1815. The site was settled by Ensign Samuel Jackson, a hero of naval battles against the English in the War of 1812, who was awarded a land grant as a reward for his naval service.

Jackson launched a trading post and built a grist mill. Later the mill was sold to a pair of brothers named Bulitt, who enlarged it and constructed some stone and log buildings. They sold the property to another pair of brothers, Hugh and Tom Hammer, who improved it some more.

In early America a grist mill was an important industrial operation. From miles around, farmers brought their grain to Spring Mill to be ground into meal. Soon horse trails grew into roads large enough to handle wagons. More and more people settled in the town and some of them went into business. In time a postoffice, tannery, pottery, still house, cobbler shop, loom house, and tavern were built. After an inn was erected the stagecoach began making regular stops and travelers—some of them important people of that era—stayed overnight.

As the railroad stretched across the country it spelled prosperity for some small towns and the death knell for others. Spring Mill became one of the latter. Because it lay nestled between hills, the town proved inaccessible by rail and had to be bypassed. Soon all its commerce shifted to nearby towns with rail depots, and by 1880 the town lay deserted.

Some years ago Spring Mill's ruins were discovered in a secluded hollow, covered with moss, and the state conservation department decided to reconstruct it exactly as it stood over a century ago. Since then all the original stone and log structures have been brought back to their original condition and equipped with period furnishings and tools.

After the job was completed, a conservation officer stood on a hill overlooking Spring Mill Village and commented: "You go down 200 feet from the top of the hill and you go back 100 years."

Center of attraction within the village is its three-story grist mill with its great 24-foot slow-moving overshot water wheel and the wooden flume which stands on high limestone piers and brings waterpower to the wheel. The old machinery with its hand-carved wooden gears still operates and corn is ground into meal while visitors watch with rapt attention.

Spring Mill Park itself covers 1,210 acres and offers picnic areas with tables placed alongside a running brook. Fireplaces with fuel are provided for cooking. Plenty of campsites are available at nominal charge. The park inn operates throughout the year with rooms for 200 guests. Secluded cabins also are available. Good meals are served in the inn dining room for both lodge guests and park visitors.

Fishing, swimming, and boating are popular pastimes on the park's 40-acre artificial lake. Other recreational activities include horseback riding and hiking through some of the 100 acres of virgin forest. For the small children there is a playground and a museum.

Another fascinating feature of the park is its underground caves, created over a vast number of years by the natural limestone drainage system which underlies certain regions of Indiana and Kentucky. Lower Twin and Donaldson caves may be explored on foot. A pleasant means to view the caves is by boat trip along an underground river, the home of a rare kind of blind fish. In the caves stalactites and stalagmites form delicate shapes and artistic designs that please the eye.

Also located in the general area of Spring Mill State Park are McCormick Creek State Park, just east of Spencer, and Brown County State Park, east of Bloomington.

Beeline Executive Addresses Session

James Wessels, assistant sales manager for Beeline Fashions, Inc., Bensenville, was one of three speakers at Tuesday's session of the 52nd Annual Convention of the National Association of Direct Selling Companies held at the Hotel Mayflower, Washington, D. C., June 12 through 15.

The theme of the convention was "Ambassadors of Service." Wessel, who lives at 759 Stark Drive, Palatine, had as his topic, "Comers with a Fresh Conviction."

ALSO REPRESENTING Beeline Fashions were Mr. and Mrs. H. Edison Birginal (Birginal is president of the firm, Mrs. Birginal, vice president in charge of style selection); Dayton Brown, executive vice president in charge of sales; Maurcy Ball, sales promotion manager; and the firm's attorney, John Colmar.

The meeting was the largest in the history of the Association, which includes the leading direct selling firms in the nation among its 250 members.

Highlight of the session was a salute to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as a "Salesman of Democracy." He was awarded a plaque commending him for his "creative leadership in selling the concept of democracy to the people of the world."

AMONG OTHER awards presented were two $500 scholarships to Distributive Education and Junior Achievement.

A special dinner for members of Congress last Sunday evening preceded the formal opening of the convention's business sessions. Among those in attendance were Rep. Frank Horton of New York; Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, Wis., and Rep. John J. Gilligan, Ohio. (BB

Outstanding Ekco Employe Listed

George H. Logemann of Mundelein was named winner of the 1965 Arthur Keating Award as the year's most outstanding employe of Ekco Containers, Inc. Presentation of the award, an engraved Steuben crystal bowl, was made by Arthur Keating, chairman of the board, Ekco Products Co., at a recent awards presentation dinner at Skokie's Hyatt House Hotel. The Arthur Keating Award is presented annually to the most outstanding employe in each of Ekco Products' six subsidiary companies.

In presenting the awards, Keating cited Logemann's accomplishments as chief development engineer in designing, developing, and installing new package closures and closure equipment for The Kitchens of Sara Lee.

A native of Chicago, Logemann, attended Foreman High School and the University of Wisconsin. Prior to joining Ekco Containers, he was employed with the Kraft Foods Co. and as project engineer with the Fansteel Metallurgical Co. From 1952 through 1955 he owned and operated Custom Designers, an industrial drafting firm.

Logemann joined Ekco Containers in 1957 as an equipment designer and was later appointed chief development engineer of Plus Container Machinery, Inc., the closure equipment manufacturing subsidiary of Ekco Containers.

Logemann and wife Dorothy have five children: Mrs. Barbara Jean Bye, 24, a nurse at Lake Forest Hospital; Robert, 23; Lawrence, 21; Sheree, 15; and Kathy, 13. Mr. and Mrs. Logemann live at C-150 Hickory in Mundelein, Ill. (BB

Participate In Society Conference

Three area residents will participate in the Great Lakes Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society, June 16-17, at the Lake Tower Motel, Chicago.

R. H. Krueger, 1439 Norman, Palatine, will present a paper entitled "Qualitative Studies of Xenon Trioxide Reactions with Some Organic Compounds" which was co-authored by Bruno Jaselskis and Stanislaus Vas, S.J., of Loyola University. Krueger is associated with the chemistry department at Loyola University's north side campus, Chicago.

Elliott J. Burrell, Jr., 608 S. George St., Mount Prospect, will serve as chairman of the physical chemistry division of the meeting. Burrell, a professor of chemistry at Loyola University, will preside at the afternoon session, June 17.

James W. Currier, 2322 Thorntree Lane, Palatine, will be chairman of the inorganic chemistry division. Currier is a chemist at the Growth Science Center of International Minerals & Chemical Co., Libertyville.

Roads Commissioner: 'See Illinois First'

"See Illinois first" is the vacation suggestion of Francis S. Lorenz, director of the Illinois department of public works and buildings.

"Illinois, the Land of Lincoln, is a scenic wonderland teeming with history and tradition," said Lorenz.

"From the sandy beaches of Lake Michigan and the excitement of Chicago to the Ozark Mountains of the Shawnee National Forest, Illinois is a vacationland filled with things to do and places to see."

Lorenz also listed the Lincoln Heritage Trail, which winds through southern and central Illinois; the atmosphere of Lincoln in the restored town of New Salem, and the Old State House in Springfield now under reconstruction, which recalls the "House Divided" speech.

Residents will find Chicago an exciting place, said Lorenz.

"It is a city on the move with a breathtaking new skyline," he continued. "A maze of expressways, boulevards and parkways interlock Chicago's great airports, public parks and hundreds of points of interest, with the Loop, the heart of the retail and entertainment world.

"The brightness of State Street and Michigan Avenue's 'Magnificent Mile' are a shopper's paradise. The Lincoln Park Zoo, Shedd Aquarium, Natural Field Museum and Adler Planetarium unfold the fascinating mysteries of land, sea and space. Visitors delight at the hundreds of working exhibits in the Museum of Science and Industry. The Art Institute, Buckingham Fountain, McCormick Place and Grant Park are meccas for hundreds of thousands of visitors each year."

Illinois is ideal for sportsmen, Lorenz went on, citing Lake Michigan, the Mississippi, Wabash and Ohio rivers. There are more than 86,000 acres of water in public lakes for the fisherman, he added, and Alton Lake is a "sailors' paradise" with fully equipped marinas and launching ramps.

Finally, he said, it is easy to travel by car.

"Illinois' 15,000-mile network of highways makes travel easy and inviting throughout the state," he said. "Eight hundred and eighty-five miles of new interstate highways are open to traffic. Rest areas are located along the roadways at regular intervals for the convenience of travelers and picnickers. The new official state highway map is available free by writing the division of highways in Springfield." (CR

Two Write Articles In Journal

The April issue of Automatic Electric Company's Technical Journal included articles by R. J. Murphy, 1718 Wood Lane, Prospect Heights, and Frederick A. Stich, 200 Michael Lane, Addison. The Technical Journal is a quarterly magazine that features articles on the research and development activities at Automatic Electric, Northlake, producer of telephone equipment and remote control systems.

Murphy's article deals with a study that was conducted on the traffic aspects of AE's Series 100 Director System, a unit that offers common control of telephone exchanges.

Stich's article is concerned with high performance power supplies for electronic systems, including their fundamentals, some of their history, operating characteristics, and comparison of performance.

Automatic Electric has also announced that Daniel J. Furlin, 425 Meadow Drive, Roselle, has been named assistant foreman of plant material. He will supervise operations in the general stockroom, raw material stores, material handling and shipping department on the third shift.

Furlin, formerly a staff assistant, started with the telephone and communications equipment manufacturing firm nine years ago.

He is a member of St. Walters Holy Name Society and a four-year-veteran of the U.S. Air Force.

A Steinmetz high school graduate, Furlin is married to the former Elaine Meyer. He and Mrs. Furlin have six children—Angela, Mark, Joseph, Matthew, Andrew, and Maria. (BB

Egyptian Dads Had Respect

by ED MURNANE
Staff Writer

I guess you have to be a father to appreciate Father's Day.

You have to know what it's like to have one, two or three kids asking you for the car or for that change that's making the jingle in your pocket before this is Your Day.

But whether you're a member of the "club" or not, Sunday will probably be special in some way or another.

Father's Day was first celebrated as a holiday in the United States in 1910. A housewife in Spokane, Wash., Mrs. Thomas Dodd, wanted to honor her father, a Civil War veteran, for his devotion in raising six motherless children.

BUT LONG before that, fathers were an esteemed group. The ancient Egyptians believed that disrespect to a father was one of the seven deadly sins.

And everyone knows that one of the Ten Commandments of the Old Testament is "Honor thy father and thy mother." In the 5th Century B. C., the Greek poet Aeschylus said that commandment was "one of the three laws of most revered righteousness."

The Greeks honored their fathers by serving them first at mealtime, and in Homer's time, fathers were given the choicest morsels at the dinner table.

Even the word "father" has a magic to it. George Washington is known as the "Father of our country."

WE'VE HAD the pilgrim fathers, the puritan fathers, and the founding fathers who framed the Constitution. In Rome, the ancient senators were called fathers or patres. To the Germans, it isn't Germany, its the Fatherland.

Father's Day in the United States is the one day that dad can take it easy. Whether he decides to play a round of golf, watch the ball game, or just take it easy all day, he can do it without criticism from Mom. After all, she had her day last month.

The 50 million dads in the U. S. will be wearing new ties next Monday, or displaying nicks from a new shaver or may be just smelling a little nicer from a new bottle of after shave lotion.

FOR THOSE who are not yet fathers, but anxiously awaiting it, Father's Day is a time to be envious. It's a day when you can think about your own dad, and wonder if you'll make as good a father. And it's a day when you can wish you were getting a new tie too.

Whatever the case, Sunday is your day, dad. Take it easy and enjoy yourself. These days are few and far between. (A15

Librarian Is Hired For Harper College

Stanley Adam Lotko, assistant librarian of Wright Junior College, Chicago, has been hired as head librarian of the new William Rainey Harper College.

The board of Junior College District 512 has set Lotko's salary at $13,500 per year plus a one-month vacation.

Lotko is to assume duties of setting up a 20,000-volume library Aug. 1. He is also to help plan a comprehensive learning resources center in which the library will be contained. The campus is expected to open in the fall of 1967.

THE BOARD, meeting Thursday, expressed hopes Lotko could be put in charge of the learning resources center in the future, providing he continues his education.

Robert E. Lahti, college president, said Lotko would have help from the faculty in the selection of materials. Herbert Pankratz, to assume duties as dean of students, July 1, will also have a strong responsibility for the library, Lahti said.

Lotko's appointment was recommended to the board after extensive interviews by Pankratz and himself, Lahti said. The college president said they had also interviewed two other candidates and investigated a third.

The board had originally offered a salary of $12,000. The $13,500 figure was suggested when he learned salaries were very competitive in the field, Lahti said.

Lotko, 43, teaches library science at Wright Junior College. He has a bachelor's degree in education from Central Connecticut University. He has a master's degree in audio-visual education from the University of California and a master's degree in library science from Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Pa. (A-15

Red Cross Aided 30 Families in Tornado

American Red Cross volunteers aided some 20 families in several north Cook County communities affected by last Thursday's tornadoes and windstorms, according to Donald L. Nelson, 620 S. Pine St., Arlington Heights, chairman of Red Cross volunteers in north Cook County.

Nelson said the volunteers went into communities hardest hit by the storms to search out victims and offer Red Cross emergency and recovery assistance.

He said most of the families whose homes or apartments were damaged or destroyed were able to find shelter in homes of friends and neighbors or went to motels on their own. Red Cross volunteers advised and helped these families plan their own recovery strategy, Nelson said. However, he added that Red Cross emergency assistance was given to about 20 families in four communities.

IN MOUNT PROSPECT, shelter was found for ten families by the Red Cross. Two of the families were taken to motels and given supplies of food. The remaining eight families were sheltered in a vacant building behind their own.

In Northbrook, Nelson said two families were given food and shelter, and in Arlington Heights, a shelter-headquarters was set up in the Miner Junior High School, Miner and Dryden Streets. Nelson said by 10:30 p.m. only two families had come to the shelter for aid, and they were taken to a motel. Red Cross volunteers elsewhere in Arlington Heights assisted several other families in finding shelter for the evening.

Nelson said the volunteers supplied lumber and repaired a broken water pump at Little City in Palatine, and spread polyethelene plastic over the pump to keep out the rain.

Red Cross volunteers who helped during the emergency period were Gordon Gunderson, 2801 Hawk Lane, Rolling Meadows, who assisted in Rolling Meadows, who assisted in Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights; Miss Patricia Tierney, 924 Waukegan, Glenview, who assisted in Northbrook and Arlington Heights; Mrs. Roland Fisch, 330 S. Burton, Arlington Heights, chairman of Red Cross nursing services in north Cook County, who assisted in Arlington Heights.

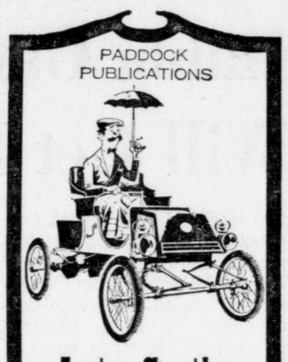
Robert A. Kuchar, 301 Peartree Lane, Prospect Heights, assisted in Prospect Heights and in Mount Prospect; Theodore J. Ecker, 116 E. Highland, Mount Prospect, assisted in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Wheeling; Clifford Anderson, 421 N. Hicks Rd., Palatine, who assisted in Palatine; Les Tanner, Chicago, communications chairman of the Mid-America Chapter, Red Cross disaster committee, assisted in Mount Prospect.

ALSO LeROY GOULD, Chicago, who assisted in Mount Prospect, and Arlington Heights Mrs. LeRoy Gould, Chicago, who manned a Red Cross radio relay station at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, and assisted victims in Arlington Heights; Chuck Peterson, 566 Lincoln St., Evanston, a Northwestern University student, who assisted in Arlington Heights, and Charles Gunn, 151 S. 16th St., Maywood, who assisted victims in Elk Grove Village.

Nelson said recovery assistance for disaster victims is available through the Red Cross. Rehabilitation aid assists families or individuals in regaining the capacity to reach and maintain its predisaster standard of living, according to Nelson.

It is given upon application by the family or individual and after determination by a Red Cross case worker as to what is needed to supplement those resources already available to them.

Persons seeking Red Cross disaster assistance should apply at the Red Cross office in Evanston, 1700 N. Central St. (UN 4-9000). Nelson said the Red Cross is also accepting donations from persons who wish to help the disaster victims. (B10



Big Store Loses Its Roofing

About 2,000 square feet of roof was blown off the Goldblatt Brothers department store in the Prospect Plaza shopping center, Rand and Central Roads.

Carl Sharfman, vice president and director of stores, said the storm set the alarm off at 6:50 a.m. He said quite a few departments in the one-story building received heavy water damage. There was no estimate of total damage.

The departments affected were furniture, appliances, television, drapery, rugs, window shades and lighting fixtures.

SHARFMAN said a temporary roof was being put on Thursday in hopes the store would be back in operation Friday. A good part of the ceiling tile will have to be replaced, he said.

Jack's Men's Store, also in the shopping center, had the south front window blown in. The window was temporarily closed and business continued through the day.

Karlsen's Pharmacy, 143 W. Prospect Ave., Mount Prospect, had a front window blown out.

Plan Drive-in Near Wheeling

Raymond Marks, Martin and Richard Rosenfield have announced plans to build a twin drive-in theater at the southwest corner of Milwaukee Avenue and Hintz Road, Wheeling Township.

The new drive-in theater to be situated on a 40 acre site, will be the first drive-in to be built in the Chicagoland area in the last five years, and will be the first twin type drive-in to be built in the northwest suburbs.

MARKS AND Rosenfield currently own and operate a group of theaters in Chicago and the suburbs. Operating as M & R Amusement Company, their circuit includes Old Orchard, Evergreen 1 & 2, Sunset Drive-In, Bel-Air Drive-In, Double Drive-In and Dundale Drive-In.

The new Twin Drive-In Theatre will be one of the most modern and best equipped theaters in the country, according to the owners. The six lane entrance to the theater on Milwaukee Avenue will be set back more than 700 feet from the road, so that traffic will be assured an easy and uncongested flow.

A YEAR-ROUND theater, the Twin Drive-In will have one large enclosed refreshment building, a playground and recreation area. Car spaces will be extra wide with aisles spaced at convenient intervals to allow easy entrance and exit.

Unique in concept and design, the new Twin Drive-In Theater will be two outdoor theaters in one, which will allow a maximum of flexibility in programming, giving patrons a choice of two completely different programs.

Architects for the Twin Drive-In Theater are Sidney H. Morris and Associates. General contractor is Sidney N. Robbins Co.

Celebrates 25th Year With Firm

Harry Patton Jr., 106 N. Wille, Mount Prospect, is celebrating his 25th service anniversary with the Teletype Corp. in Skokie.

Patton began his career with this manufacturer of data communications equipment as a shop clerk in 1941. A year later he became an employment interviewer and held various positions before being promoted to supervision in 1951. Patton advanced to chief of the purchasing department in 1953 and in 1957 transferred to Little Rock, Ark. to set up operations in Teletype's branch plant. He returned to the Chicago area in 1959 and resumed his previous assignment supervising the purchasing department.

Patton is the current president of Teletype's chapter of the Telephone Pioneers, an organization requiring 21 years of service with the Bell System for membership. He is also active as a Shriner and is a member of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf Leauge.

Patton and his wife, Dorothy, have two daughters, Paula, a student at Elkhart University, and Peggy, who will graduate from Carrol College this June. Patton's brother, Bill, is a maintenance supervisor at Teletype. (BB

C. K. "Ken" Roof of Palatine has retired from the Pure Oil Co. after a 38-year career during which he rose from a clerkship at the Heath Refinery, perintendent and later assistant general inspector. In 1953 he was transferred to the general office in Chicago and took charge of the safety program.

Mr. and Mrs. Roof live at 238 E. Chicago Avenue. They have four sons. (BB

Roof took charge of Pure's safety program in 1953. During his service the company's safety record showed marked improvement. In his duties Mr. Roof visited every company installation of consequence and probably had a broader acquaintance among Pure Oil employees than any other person. His work took him to oil fields, refineries, terminals, pipeline installations, and aboard ocean-going tankers and river barges.

He joined Pure at the Heath Refinery in 1928 after graduation from Newark College of Commerce, Ohio. He became assistant general operating su-

You're missing a lot when you own a Volkswagen.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with (and to maintain traction with). That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair.

So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

Sees Builders Organizations As Aid to New Home Buyers

by MICHAEL J. GRAFT
President, Youth Builders Council
Home Builders Association of Chicago

Organizations of people with the same business, trade, or professional interests are as old as ancient Egypt; they flourished in the Middle Ages. Today they are a powerful force for the improvement of American life.

As they increase their members' skills and knowledge, trade associations also advance the welfare of the public. Technological advances have transformed home building, for example, from a fragmented craft into a great industry within a generation.

Much of this transformation has come about through the efforts of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) of which the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland is the local affiliate. The 46,000 members of NAHB are builders, subcontractors, suppliers, architects, members of the financial community, and others allied with the home building industry.

The overriding goals of NAHB and the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland are these: That home ownership can and should be within reach of every American family; and that homes should be well designed, well constructed, and located in attractive communities with readily accessible educational, recreational, and religious facilities.

To help local home builders meet the problems of their complex industry, NAHB maintains modern headquarters in Washington, D. C., four blocks from the White House. This building, the National Housing center, is a focal point for both national and international housing conferences.

The four story center contains the world's largest library devoted exclusively to housing, and welcomes the public to displays of the latest products used in building and furnishing the American home.

Through NAHB staff specialists, and through local and state association leadership, the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland member receives expert assistance in virtually every field related to housing. His up-to-date knowledge of new products, designs, and techniques is of great value to the home buyer.

The NAHB devotes much time, money, and effort to research, seeking ways to counter rising building and land costs. It operates its own research foundation laboratory, and with cooperating manufacturers constructs research houses using new products and systems.

Information on these projects and many others is shared by members through a wide range of publications, numerous schools and workshops, and through NAHB's mammoth annual convention-exposition. This shared knowledge of NAHB members is helping builders here fulfill their objectives of providing ever-better homes.

For the buyer, there is still another benefit derived from NAHB and the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, since one of the important requirements of membership is acceptance of a strict, enforced code of ethics, which pledges the builder to quality workmanship and business integrity in all his dealings. 4-Year College No Threat to Harper

A suggestion to build a four-year commuter college at Arlington Heights should be no competition to William Rainey Harper Junior College, college officials believe.

The junior college scheduled to open the fall of 1967 covers Wheeling, Palatine, Schaumburg and Elk Grove townships.

Robert E. Lahti, president of the junior college, said the Arlington Heights site is merely a committee proposal and does not represent action of the State Board of Higher Education.

THE STATE committee also recommended Downers Grove as a site for a second four-year college in the Chicago area.

Lahti said he hopes state boards finish plans for funding junior college districts at 75 per cent of costs before they start building four-year colleges at 100 per cent cost.

The state junior college law establishing two-year colleges was passed last year. To date, more college districts are applying for funds than the state can provide on the three-fourths funding basis. (A15

High Winds Snuff Out Area Power

Electrical power and telephone service was snuffed out suddenly Thursday morning in Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling and Palatine by the tornado-like winds that ravaged the area.

Commonwealth Edison Co. officials reported approximately 13,000 homes, apartments and businesses went without electricity after high winds and falling trees ripped down utility poles and power lines.

Arlington Heights, company officials said, was the hardest hit of the northwest suburbs. There was no breakdown of the number of customers without power in each community.

ALMOST A hundred crews were dispatched to repair lines and poles and to clear debris, according to Commonwealth officials. It took more than 18 hours to restore electrical power.

About 1,000 homes and businesses in Arlington Heights, 1,400 in Elk Grove Village, and an undetermined number in Palatine went without telephone service in the wake of storm.

A spokesman for Illinois Bell Telephone Company said most of the damage was caused by trees knocked across telephone lines. Many customers whose phones were not affected by the storm found the dial tone delayed by heavy telephone traffic, the spokesman said.

Witness: The Sky Was Yellow

The D. A. Cameron home situated on one and a half acres at 307 E. Circle Ave., Prospect Heights, had 11 trees blown down in the storm.

Carolyn Cameron, 18, said she woke up at 6:10 a.m. when the storm hit.

"THE WINDOWS shook and trees started dropping like nothing," she said.

"I figured it was a tornado because the noise was so loud and the sky was yellow. We were pretty scared."

The house was not hit by trees but one tree had fallen across the driveway, barely missing a car, she said. A tree service was called to remove it.

There was no estimate of damage but the loss of the trees will probably lessen the value of the home, Miss Cameron said.

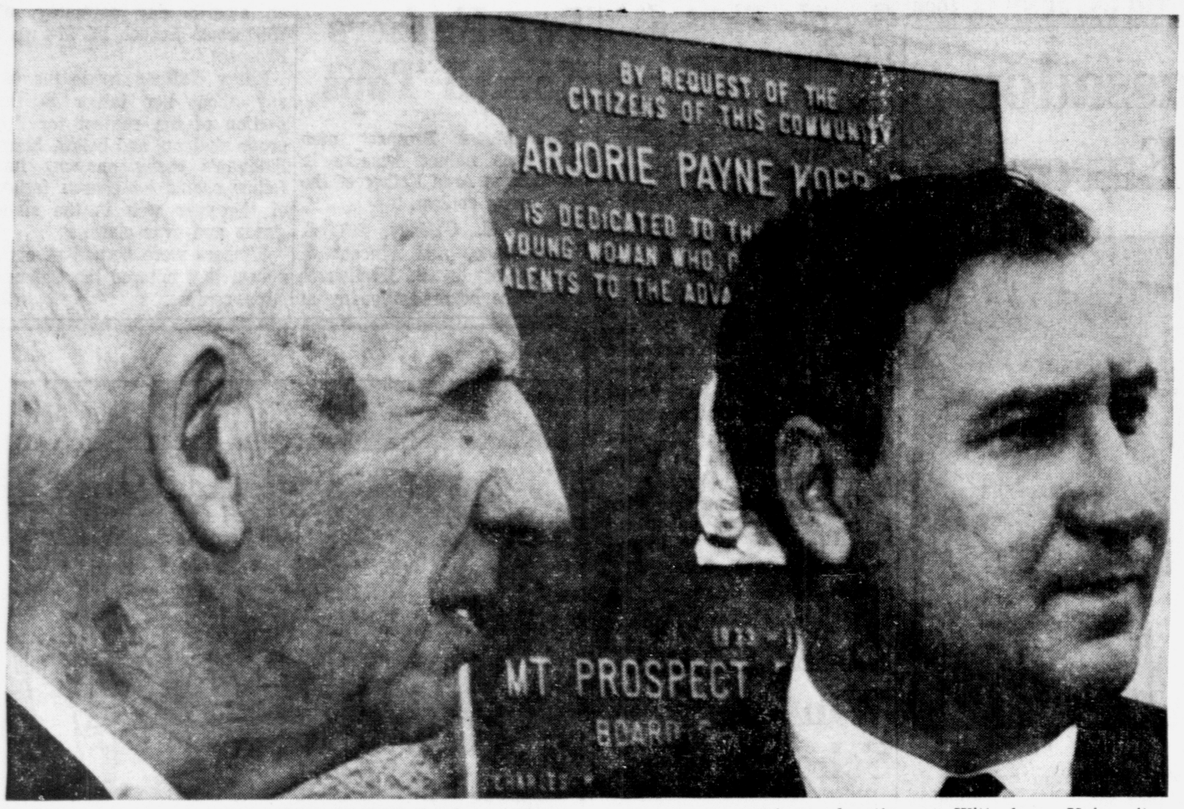
Marjorie Payne Kopp Park Dedication Held



TALKING AT DEDICATION CEREMONIES Sunday of Marjorie Payne Kopp Park, Mount Prospect, are Charles W. Houchins and Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill. Houchins was committee chairman in charge of the ceremonies. Ruth Helsel, professor of physical education at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio, shared the speaker's platform with Douglas. Nancy Dallia, Prospect High School physical education teacher, gave the dedicatory remarks.

From 200 to 300 persons attended the dedication of the new Marjorie Payne Kopp Park in Mount Prospect.

The park was named in memory of Mrs. Kopp, a physical education graduate who donated her time and talents to the Mount Prospect park system. Mrs. Kopp was 29 at her death in 1962.

Principal speakers at the service Sunday were Sen. Paul A. Douglas and Ruth Helsel, a favorite teacher and friend of Mrs. Kopp.

Douglas said in his speech he was glad the Mount Prospect Park District had applied for $50,000 in grants for land purchase under a new federal program.

DOUGLAS SAID IT was particularly fitting for him to speak at the dedication of a swimming pool because swimming is his favorite form of recreation.

Nancy Dallia, Prospect High School physical education teacher, gave the dedicatory remarks. Miss Dallia was a high school and college friend of Mrs. Kopp.

Mrs. Kopp was active in recreational activities at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio, where she majored in physical education. She also worked with the handicapped and Young Woman's Christian Association at college.

She was Miss Wittenberg her senior year at college. At Mount Prospect pools, Mrs. Kopp worked as lifeguard and wrote and directed water ballets.

She was a member of the citizens committee that designed the T-shape Meadows Park swimming pool.

Alderman Ed Shillington of Des Plaines headed the citizens who requested the park be named in Mrs. Kopp's honor. Mrs. Kopp was the daughter of Charles W. Payne who was a member of the original park board and is serving his 10th term as president. (M

Better Grades Topic Of New Library Book

School is over and your child passed.

But did he do as well as you or he had hoped?

Parents who have misgivings about how much education their children are absorbing or who want to know what their children's tests mean can check books on educational theory at the Mount Prospect Public Library.

The library has the book "How to Double Your Child's Grades in School," by Eugene Schwartz. Its suggestions are practical, workable and easy to follow, according to library officials.

In mathematics, Schwartz shows parents how to teach children to copy carefully every figure, line and step of the problem and eliminate 20 per cent of the errors. Having a child practice writing figures in neat, accurate columns (graph paper is suggested) will bring grades up another 10 per cent, Schwartz says.

SOCIAL STUDIES is given a good deal of analysis. Schawartz recommends one hour of the child's day to concentrated, quiet study and five minutes of parents' time each day to check his work.

According to the book, the secret is an outline of the textbook, chapter by chapter, in such a way the child can write down the main points himself without checking his book.

The book includes an analysis of the kinds of tests children take—multiple choice, true-false and essay—plus specific directions telling how to get the best grades on each.

The library also contains "They Shall Not Pass," by Hillel Black. The book is an indictment of American testing practices in grade and high schools. He explores how colleges choose candidates.

GLENN DOLMAN, whose work was done with brain injured children near Philadelphia, Pa., tells "How to Teach Your Baby to Read." Dolman directs the book to the average mother and her young child. He states the "dumb blondes" had more success with their babies than the "intellectuals."

"Montessori" parents will find two books on this method along with material in the pamphlet file describing this approach to child training.

Coed Ambassador Will Tour Europe

Betty Janssen of Mount Prospect, a junior at Northwestern University, will be a student ambassador in Europe this summer under the People-to-People program.

She will be among 190 students from colleges and universities throughout the country who will go abroad primarily to meet their counterparts and families, and to become better acquainted with countries they visit.

Miss Janssen, who lives at 307 S. Emerson St., was chosen for the 10 week trip by a People-to-People campus screening committee. Selection is on the basis of character, leadership, language ability and interest in international affairs.

She is now at Howard University, Washington, D. C., taking part in a three-day orientation program prior to departure for Brussels, Belgium, this Saturday. The group will attend additional briefings in Brussels on cultures and customs of countries on their itineraries.

BETTY JANSSEN

THE STUDENT ambassadors will spend one month living with families in Belgium, France, Germany, Greece, Yugoslavia, Scandinavia and the British Isles.

People-to-People, founded and headed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, promotes international understanding between individuals in the home, classroom, community and on campus. (M

Boesenberg and Dinkel were interviewed to determine their interest in Army career and were chosen on the basis of their academic and extra-curricular records and their scores on an aptitude test.

Their scholarships will pay for tuition, fees and textbooks and will provide a subsistence allowance of $50 a month. (M(P

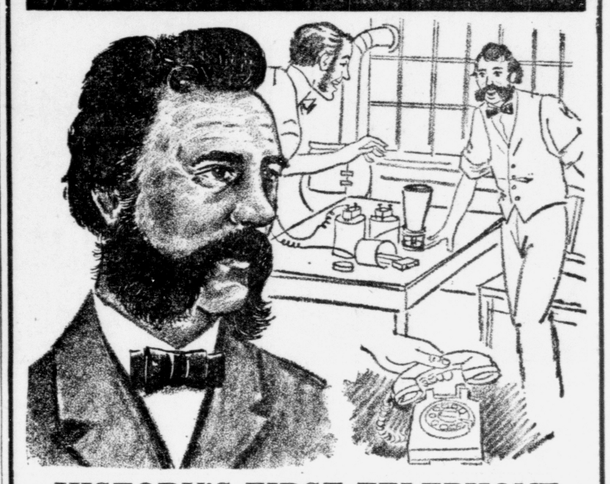
Greatest Events In American History—No. 25



HISTORY'S FIRST TELEPHONE CALL IS MADE BY YOUNG ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL

Alexander Graham Bell was only 29 years old when he invented the telephone.

The magic moment occurred Mar. 10, 1876, in Boston, when Bell's voice was carried by telephone from one room to an adjoining one.

By Oct. 5, Bell phoned between Boston and Cambridge, a distance of two miles; the next year the Bell Telephone Co., was established and true long distance service began between Boston and Salem, Mass.

In 1878 the world's first telephone directory was issued, in New Haven, Conn., and by 1915 the telephone extended cost-to-coast.

Another American, Samuel Morse, had invented the telegraph. Now, Alexander Graham Bell gave the world the telephone. That moment—on Mar. 10, 1876 when Bell's voice was heard in the world's first telephone message—stands as one of the great and proud moments in American history.

Summer Reading Advantage Cited

Children's reading ability during the summer can change almost as fast as characters in "Alice in Wonderland."

A child can lose up to 40 per cent of his reading ability in the three months he does not attend school, educators say.

For this reason, the Mount Prospect Public Library has set up a summer reading club for children.

The White Rabbits division is for children who have completed grades one through three. They are required to read 10 books by Aug. 31.

THE MAD HATTERS division for children in the fourth through eighth grades are required to read 12 books by Aug. 31.

Credit is given for each book returned with a satisfactory report. A free movie will be shown in the fall for those who have completed the reading program.

The library at 14 E. Busse is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. each week day and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Bird's Eye View

VALERIE YOULE CL 5-5046

As spring has been moving into summer, so have many residents of Mount Prospect been on the move and on the go in the past few weeks. These have been especially hectic days for the families of this year's graduating class.

In honor of their son, Danny's graduation from St. Raymond School, the I. L. Muszynskis of South Main celebrated with a family get-together Saturday. Taking advantage of beneficial weather, the guests played volleyball, during which Danny's cousin, Kenneth, had the misfortune to sprain his ankie, necessitating a trip to the hospital and definitely helping to make the party an unforgettable one for Kenneth in particular.

Many of those graduated from Prospect High School Friday night attended an open house this past weekend which was held at the home of the Harrison Wallaces. The Wallaces, whose daughter, Barbara, is one of the Prospect grads, played host to approximately 300 guests Entertainment was provided by The Fate, a combo composed of Al Dawson, Randy Gerstung, Mark Hanson, Paul Ostrem and John Lewis.

JUNE 5 graduation ceremonies at the University of Notre Dame were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Erbach, whos son, Gerald, was receiving his B.A. Gerry plans to continue his studies at Notre Dame and will work towards an architectural degree.

Two additional Erbachs are members of the Class of '66. Gerry's brother, David, and his cousin, Michael, graduated respecitvely from St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights. and Notre Dame High School, Niles.

Among those receiving degrees this month is Ronald Seegers, who received a master's degree in geography at Western Illinois University. Ron earned his B.A. at Valparaiso University, then spent two years with the Peace Corps in which he taught school in Bogota, Columbia. He was married Saturday to Diane Matis at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Whiting, Ind. Concluding a five-day honeymoon, Ron will begin a summer of teaching at Western. This September, he will start to teach at the Flossmoor-Homewood Junior High School.

CLIMAXING a year of lessons for Mrs. Virginia Anderson's music students was a recital held May 29 at St. Mark Lutheran Church. Twenty-one demonstrated their skill at the piano. Also performing was the Crydon Trio which includes guitarists Cynthia Benson, Christine Blomberg and Charlotte Quill.

Two of Mrs. Anderson's students will be going into schools of music this fall. Charlotte Quill will be attending the school of music at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, and Wendy Wegner will attend the school of music at Augustana College, Rock Island.

Another notable cultural event taking place May 29, and attended by a number of Mount Prospect residents, was a literary tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Calisch. Mr. Calisch has been teaching at Prospect High School for four years. This fall, he will leave Prospect to become chairman of the English and Fine Arts Department at Elk Grove.

An annual event, the party was given for Mr. Calisch's honors English class and was attended by Donald Fyfe, assistant principal of Elk Grove High School. The guests were favored with a reading of Rodney Jean's "Weller Creek Anthology," a currently unpublished volume of verse; a presentation of Patricia Strader's suite for guitar, "Main Travelled Roads;" and a monologue adapted from Nathanial Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter" by Corinne Hugh. This entertaining display of talent and the enjoyable conversation preceding and following it made the afternoon an extremely pleasant one.

WE WELCOME Charles and Dian LaTour who have recently moved to their new residence at 506 S. Main. A party was given in their honor Wednesday night by the Irv Muszynskis in order to introduce the LaTours to some of their new neighbors.

506 S. Main was formerly the home of the W. W. Rink family. The Rinks have moved to Evanston, where Mr. Rink is now comptroller for the State Bank of Evanston. Neighbors gave the Rinks a good sendoff when the couple were guests of honor at a party given by the Hank Prochaskas.

AMONG THOSE leaving the Mount Prospect area in the near future are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Barr and their daughter, Sherry. Mr. Barr has been transferred to the San Francisco area, and they will take up residence in Palo Alto. Because they have lived in the Midwest all their lives, they consider this move to be quite an adventure.

Another family which must be saying goodbye to Mount Prospect are the James E. Straders. Mr. and Mrs. Strader, their daughter, Pat, and their son, James, will be leaving tomorrow (Friday) for their new home in Morris Plains, N.J. Their many friends here truly regret their departure. (M

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Foresees Pinch in Housing Activity

The federal government's current policies of monetary restraint, intended to lessen the pace of economic expansion, will sharply curtail normal housing activity for the foreseeable future, Jack Justice of Miami Beach, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, predicted today.

Basing his remarks on the spring real estate market survey of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB), he forecast also that the impact of these policies will be "unduly harsh on the consumer of moderate income, be he buyer or seller, and on that part of the real estate calling which serves this segment of the market."

The report on the survey, conducted by the department of research among 158 realtors in all parts of the country, warned that "economic theorists who consider housing demand readily postponable fail to recognize the sizable volume of both purchases and sales associated with change in employment." These transactions are rarely postponable, the report explained, and added that mobility of labor has played a vital role in American economic growth.

Turning to the market in general, Justice pointed out that fewer desirable listings are coming on the market than would under more favorable conditions and, at the same time, buyer demand exceeds the level of a year ago. Demand is up moderately for both new and existing homes in more than a third of the areas and up substantially in over a fifth.

"Availability of financing will dictate the degree to which this demand is translated into purchase," he said, noting that problems of financing had already depressed the volume of transfers of existing properties in the West at the time of the survey in mid-April. For houses built in 1950 or later, sales were fewer than a year ago for each of the three major price classes. Older homes in well-maintained neighborhoods continue to attract buyers, Mr. Justice said, but again, volume of transfers has slackened in the West.

It was revealed that the volume of transfers of single-family new homes was generally higher in April than it was in April a year ago. The survey report observed, however, that financing for most of these transactions had been committed far in advance of the sale, and the buyer avoided the severe conditions that are widespread today.

Another effect of the tightening in the mortgage market and the smaller number of good listings has been an elevation of prices of both new and well-maintained existing homes, Justice pointed out. Well-located houses built prior to 1950 were priced higher than a year ago in 45 per cent of the country, the same in 40 per cent, and lower in only 15 per cent, the survey discovered. Newer homes have followed a similar pattern, the survey found, and noted also that the upward tendency is stronger than that of last year.

For an average buyer or seller and for an average builder or broker, the tight money supply, accompanied by rising interest rates, placement fees, prepayment penalties, and higher discounts on FHA and VA loans is casting a long shadow, Justice said. The outlook for the immediate future is particularly bleak for the lower- and middle-priced sector of the market where cash sales are infrequent and buyer equity is seldom high.

Justice concluded that adverse effects of credit shortage on the pending volume of transactions are widely noted, and a level of activity in any way commensurate with the general economy is not expected.

Bruns Adds Cautionary Rights Note

The Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors has launched a campaign to convince all home owners to study carefully Title IV of the proposed federal civil rights bill now before Congress, Ralph H. Bruns, president, announced today.

"The Realtors are convinced," he explained, "that all home and property owners, regardless of their personal feelings on other aspects of civil rights, will make known their opposition to their representatives and senators immediately once they realize that this title would wipe out a basic right of all citizens considered unassailable since the founding of this nation.

"I refer to the human right to sell or rent private real property, or to refuse to sell or rent to whomever the owner chooses for whatever reason without any coercion or dictation from the government."

Basically, this proposal would empower the Federal government to force an owner to sell or lease his property to a person not of his choice, and this covers every type of housing from a room for rent in his house or his home itself to land to be used as the site of a dwelling, Bruns said.

"In the history of the human right to own property, certainly one of the prime characteristics of ownership is the rignt to dispose. If an individual lacks the right to dispose of his property freely and within his own discretion, he is not truly the owner. Thus, this human right of real property ownership depends upon freedom of contract in disposition," he added.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which the Northwest Suburban Board is a member together with 1,500 others throughout the nation, has emphasized these points to the Judiciary Committee of the House and is scheduled to testify soon before a Senate committee.

The only true and lasting solution to the problem of open occupancy will come by understanding and education fostered voluntarily by churches, schools and all men of good will, he added.

Des Plaines Bank Builds New Library

Dedication last week of an addition to the reference library of First National Bank of Des Plaines to the memory of the late Harry Talcott climaxed an agreement between the bank and the city of Des Plaines.

In the agreement, the city has loaned a portion of Talcott's law library, which he willed to the city attorney's office. Since the city attorney does not have a resident office at present, First National Bank of Des Plaines offered its reference library facilities for the maintenance and use of Talcott's volumes as a public service to the law community.

This latest addition to the Bank library caps an expansion program which will provide an extensive and up-to-date reference library to all practicing attorneys in the Greater Des Plaines area.

The 700 volume library also includes 31 periodicals, many relating to the bank's expanded trust department, under the direction of James Sheldon. A synopsis of the principal texts and treatises is available from Sheldon at 827-4411. (BB

Bank Has Churchill Coins

First National Bank of Des Plaines has announced that it has secured an additional number of Churchill Commemorative Crowns and will make them available at its cost, 85 cents each, on a first-come, first-serve basis.

When the coins bearing the likeness of the late Sir Winston Churchill on one side and the image of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth on the other were offered for the first time in the fall of 1965, they were highly sought.

The coin is the first in English history to bear the image of a commoner and sovereign, and the first time since the 12th century that the image of a commoner has been placed on any United Kingdom coin. It is worth five shillings as legal currency in the United Kingdom. (BB

Opening Final Section

Colonial Heights, all-residential community located immediately west of Mount Prospect Country Club on Busse Road, is in the final stages of its development, it was recently announced. The builders expect the final unit to be completed by the end of the year.

Purchasers of new homes in the final unit of this community have a choice of split-level and ranch models, with prices ranging from $24,400 to $33,600 including lots. Different elevations and color schemes are available for each design, and most models may be had in a choice of three- or four-bedroom plans.

Typical of this versatility is the popular Jamestown, a well-planned split-level. The basic three-bedroom model is priced at $26,400.

The main living wing has an outside wainscot of colorful stone, reaching beyond the end wall. The front entry is floored in colorful vinyl and opens directly into the living room, which is nearly 19' x 15'. Extensive wall area provides plenty of room for decoration. Stairs to upper and lower levels are at one end of the living room, and are nearly centered in the ovrall layout.

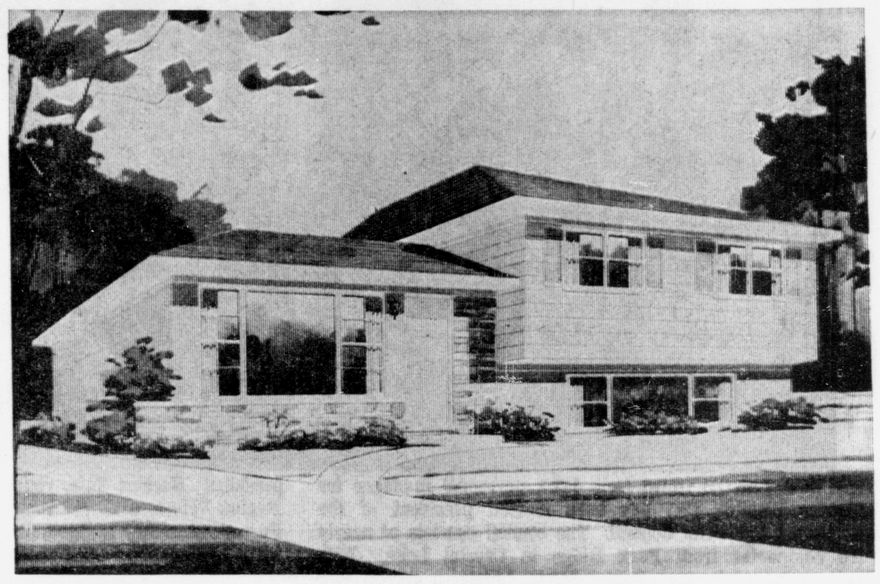
Kitchen and informal eating area are conveniently combined. Sliding glass doors open out to the patio area, and the rear entrance to the home opens from the kitchen. Traffic moves freely via two separate doorways between kitchen and living room.

Kitchen cabinets and appliances are matched, with the kitchen arranged in a step-saving L-layout. Oven, range, hood and fan are also placed to save steps.

On the sleeping level, the three bedrooms and family bath of the Jamestown are centered on a large, rectangular distributing hall. Bedrooms feature double sliding-door closets and double windows. For the main bath, purchasers have a choice of ceramic tile finish, with modern softlite fixtures.

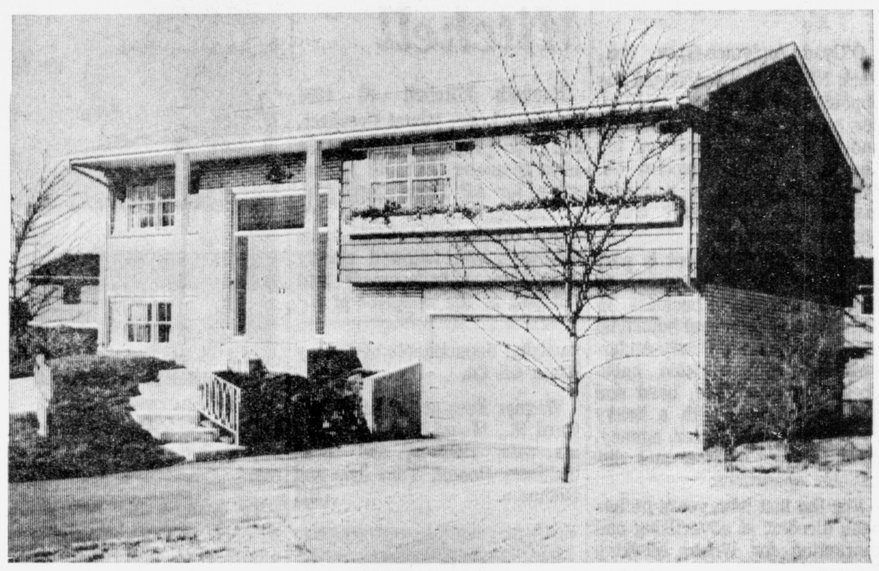
Entirely separate and enclosed, the large utility room provides storage area at the rear of the lower level. There is also outside entry from the rear yard area, to both utility and family room. The latter is over 21' long and nearly 18' wide. A long window extends across the front wall. A utility closet and the lower-level powder room are near the stairs.

Colonial Heights models are open to public inspection daily from 10 a.m. till dusk. The community is on Busse Road, three blocks north of Golf Road (Route 58), in Mount Prospect.



THIS HOME IS ONE of several models now being shown in Colonial Heights, located on Busse Road in Mount Prospect, three blocks north of Golf Road (Route 58). Ranches and split-levels in several styles are offered, with many designs in both three- and four-bedroom plans. (RE

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS THURS., JUNE 16, 1966



THE PATRICIAN in Airy Trace, Arlington Heights, features outdoor decks, family room with fireplace, four bedrooms, and 2½ baths reports William A. Alter, president of Realcoa, the company developing the south side subdivision.

Sees Two Patterns In Family Living

"Family activity in today's home follows two patterns," reports William A. Alter, president of Realcoa, the company developing Airy Trace in Arlington Heights, "rather formal entertaining, when the husband's boss is invited to dinner, or having good friends in to talk and enjoy relaxed, spontaneous activity. This is the concept which was incorporated into the design of the Patrician, an Airy Trace model home."

Formal entertaining begins in the foyer with its dual stair case entry leading into the living room. Idel for formal gatherings, this room extends, through sliding glass panels, to the outdoor deck. "Some of the families in Airy Trace have used the new, indoor-outdoor carpeting to carry their living room outdoors," Alter added. "The decks are often used for outdoor dining and family cookouts."

Downstairs, a family room is planned for more energetic pastimes. A fireplace is featured to give an atmosphere of warmth and hospitality. Shuffle boards, ping pong tables and dart boards are totally in character with the room. Families have been know to add a second stove and a refrigerator to this area to make an independent apartment of the lower level and/or provide cooking facilities for convenient entertainment.

This big home has four bedrooms, 2½ baths to end morning bottle-necks, and an extra, full-sized room for messy jobs that must be done.

The Patrician, one of five models available to those who are interested in the numerous conveniences offered by Arlington Heights, can be visited at Airy Trace on State Road (Arlington Heights Road), ½ mile north of Golf (Route 58) any day from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. (RE

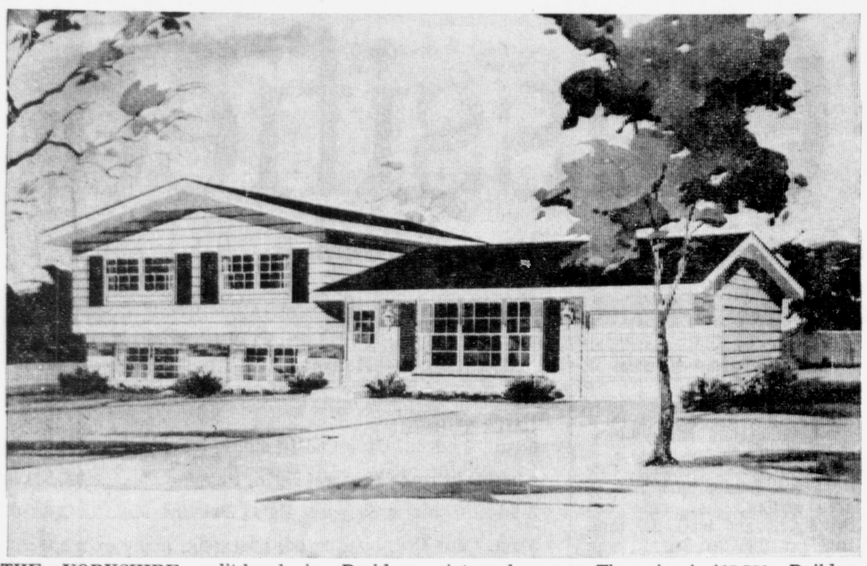
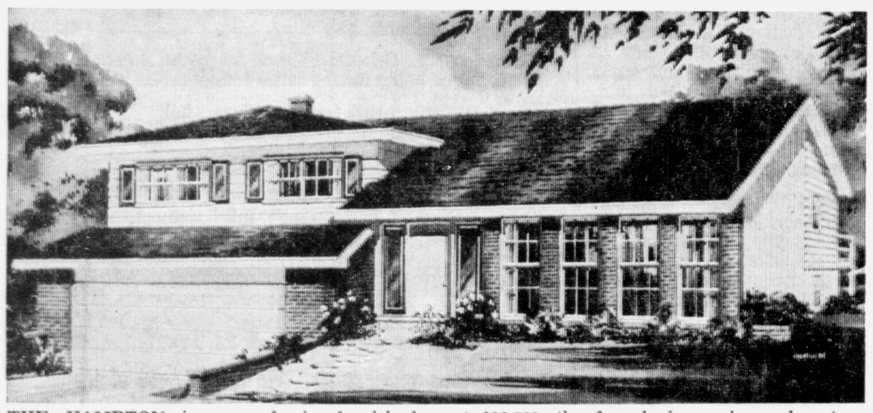
3-H Sells More Than 350 Homes in Berkley Square



THE YORKSHIRE split-level in Berkley Square, Arlington Heights, features 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, paneled family room and integral garage. The price is $25,750. Builder is 3-H Homes. (RE



THE HAMPTON is one of six furnished models on display in Timbercrest, on Schaumburg Road one mile west of Roselle Road in the village of Schaumburg. Priced at $26,500, the four bedroom home has two baths, a paneled family room and a two-car garage. (RE

According to 3-H Homes, creators of the community of Berkley Square in Arlington Heights, "building successful homes is as simple as A, B, C! . . .Make them A, attractive, B, big and C, convenient." The fact that 3-H Homes have sold over 250 residences in Berkley Square in less than 11 months, provides an excellent testimonial on behalf of this formula.

The Yorkshire, a 3 bedroom, 1½ bath split level, encompassing 2,102 square feet, is a prime example of the firm's home planning technique, incorporating beauty, space, and convenience features.

"Attractive" qualities of the Yorkshire include a master bath with marbelized, twin-bowl vanity; glass-enclosed, tiled tub; pastel plumbing; and sliding glass patio doors to the dining room. The kitchen has many custom handcrafted wooden cabinets, formica counters, counter-level range and hood, and a stainless steel double sink. The entry foyer is tiled in vinyl, and decorator lighting fixtures are included throughout the home.

"Big" space is apparent room by room. On the main level, living room, dining room and family-size kitchen are of generous proportions. On the upper level are two twin-size bedrooms and a master suite, 17 ft. long, with wall to wall closet. A large, full bath completes the upper story plan. On the lower level is a paneled family room. Adjacent is a big laundry-storage room, powder room and a separate "bonus" room. This partitioned space is especially welcomed by the young, growing family, since it easily converts to a fourth bedroom when needed. The area can also be put to excellent use as sewing room, home work shop, game room, or home office. A number of large closets are found throughout the home.

"Convenient" applies to the ease-of-housekeeping and privacy features incorporated in the Yorkshire's three level plan. With bedrooms above, and recreation area below, living room and dining room remain untraversed and company neat. While parents entertain, sleeping children are within "checking distance" just a half-flight of stairs away, yet far enough removed from the clamor to rest undisturbed.

The Yorkshire is constructed of face brick and masonite. Integral garage, paved driveway landscaped lot and post-light are all included. The price of the Yorkshire is $25,750. Six Models in Fourth Unit of Timbercrest

New homes in the fourth unit of Timbercrest which is located in the village of Schaumburg will be well equipped according to Irv Miller of Mor-Well Builders, developers of the area, the price of each of the six models includes oven, range, washing machine, dryer, storm windows and screens, wall-to-wall carpeting and ceramic-tiled baths with marble-topped vanities.

The six models on display in Timbercrest are priced between $22,950 and $27,900. Offered in ranch and multi-level styles, they have exteriors of face brick, rough-sawn cedar and aluminum siding; three or four bedrooms; one and two-car attached garages; and paneled family rooms.

Miller said the decision to include the appliances and other equipment was prompted by the large number of first-home buyers who have been selecting Timbercrest homes. "We are getting both transferred out-of-towners and people who previously lived in apartments," Miller explained, "and the ability to buy a home as complete as possible is important to them." Miller also said that financing terms calling for as little as $990 down were arranged expressly for the convenience of the first-time buyer.

The completely furnished models include a 4 bedroom, three bath (one full, two half) multi-level with family room and garage for $25,900; a 3 bedroom, 1½ bath multi-level with family room and garage for $27,900;—a 3 bedroom, 1-½ bath split-level with family room and garage for $24,950; a 3 bedroom 1-½ bath bi-level with family room and garage for $24,200 and a 4 bedroom, 2 bath tri-level with family room and garage for $26,500.

The price of each home also includes the homesite with no less than 70-foot frontage. Timbercrest has paved streets, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, storm and sanitary sewer, city water, street lights and underground wiring.

Timbercrest is located on Schaumburg Road one mile west of Roselle Road. The furnished models are open daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. (RE

16TH CENTURY ELIZABETHAN, a spacious half-timbered country house.

During the reign of Elizabeth I, the English home evolved from a crude, fortified castle into a luxurious manor house. Rooms became fully paneled. Designs were embellished with carvings and turnings inspired by both classic and natural forms. A gracious style, it has come into our present century virtually unchanged.

The home illustrated is nearing completion at Fox Point. (Arranged for modern living, of course.) Come out and see it.

Don't call it a Cape Cod!

The term doesn't really do justice to our Greenwich model—it's a far cry from a cottage! Consider the floorplan. The ten-room version shown has over 3,000 square feet of living space. There is also an eleven-room, five-bedroom version available with over 3,300 square feet. Every interior detail of the home has been given painstaking attention; like the spacious entry foyer, with its intricately hand-laid floor of herringbone teak parquet. The family room is wood-panelled, has a beamed ceiling and a parquet floor, too. The price of the Greenwich includes the fireplace shown, all kitchen appliances, a basement and the fully improved homesite in the Sherwood section of Arlington Heights, long noted as that excellent suburb's finest neighborhood.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

VISIT TO A TRAILER PARK — WHAT IT HAS FOR YOU AT 65

Three different ways of life are being sold to retired people all along the southern rim of the United States:

The retirement village, the retirement trailer park, and the retirement land development project in which you are sold a lot, on time, for that good day when you retire and go build a house on it.

The retirement village was discussed here earlier. This is a report on visits to the second one:

The retirement trailer parks are big business . . . they're all over. They range from cheap trailers on crude cement blocks to eleborate two-bedroom units with cement foundations, awnings, flower plantings, and eight-cylinder cars in a carport. Income in the parks ranges from $175 a month for a couple in some up to $10,000 a year in others. The people, depending on the park, range from auto workers out of Michigan to professional men out of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The particular park described here is beside a heavily-traveled highway and is fairly close to average. The couples have an income of around $300 a month. The trailers cost about $7,000 when new. The people range from skilled workers in industry to semi-professionals.

There are about 90 trailers in this park, located on plots of ground that allow four to ten feet between trailers, and about four feet between the trailer and the street. Except that it is more a lane than a street. An average car can pass through well enough. The speed limit is 12 MPH.

The trailers, while usually sitting on tiers of cement blocks, don't seem to. Foundation plantings, all very colorful, hide them. In front of each trailer is a name plate to identify the resident, and is usually on the cute side — "Johnnie and Suzy Belle Smith" or "Butch and Bonnie Bennett." That sort of thing.

The residents are very proud of their domiciles and their few square inches of soil . . . which they have shipped in. The native soil wouldn't grow snakes. They usually have overhangs on the trailers which constitute their carports. They usually have a couple of pieces of outdoor furniture there where they can sit and virtually touch hands with neighbors strolling down their roadway.

In this particular park the trailer owners rent their plot of ground for $240 a year, on a yearly contract. For this price residents get free sewer and water service. They pay for all other utilities. In some parks the people buy their plots outright and pay fees for utilities. Taxes, except for the trailer tag, are negligible.

Companionship in this park, as in most of them, is built in. Residents can hardly be unfriendly when neighbors virtually live in their laps. Women sit in each other's carports, sewing and talking. Men roam about, go fishing, watch television. The social center of the park is the shuffleboard court, where most of the people sit around talking and a few play shuffleboard. There are no signs of unhappiness or strife.

There are two emotional seasons in this park, as in many of them: one in April when most of the residents lock their trailers and head back for their old homes for the summer; the other in November when everybody returns. The first tearful, the other joyful. Except that once in a while a husband or wife didn't make it. Management of the park guards the trailers between April and November . . . and gives what solace it can to those who didn't have an old home back somewhere to go to.

'Hiawatha' Pageant Set This Weekend

Elgin's "Song of Hiawatha" pageant will be staged for its second weekend tonight (Thursday), Friday and Saturday at Camp Big Timber five miles northwest of Elgin.

Each evening performance will begin at 8:25 to take advantage of the natural sunset.

CARL PARLASCA, originator and still director of the "Hiawatha" pageant, insists that everything used in the pageant be authentic. Sagebrush is shipped from Colorado, and even wood used in the fire in "Old Nokomis" Lodge is pinon from the West.

Earl Old Person, tribal chairman of the Blackfeet Indian Nation, who serves as consultant for the pageant, comes to Elgin each year from Browning, Mont. He has been doing this for nearly 30 years. (Bill

'South Pacific' Being Staged In Well-Equipped Auditorium

When the Best Off Broadway Players open in "South Pacific" next weekend they will be fortunate, according to director Richard Tyler, in their choice of one of the best auditoriums in the Northwest suburban area. Barrington High school has not only sophisticated lighting equipment, a full orchestra pit and a large and comfortable seating area, but also a stage well suited to the multiple sets which add a great deal to the color of any musical comedy.

At Barrington, island foliage on either side of the proscenium arch will welcome an audience before the curtain rises and will furnish variety to the playing area during the show, but the basic stage area by itself is a large one, 48 by 26 feet, and will be covered with scenery more elaborate than that of most recent BOB productions, Tyler said.

A cyclorama backdrop depicting Bali Ha'i, the island of enchantment, is the background for much of the show's action and will be augmented by teasers and smaller set pieces for different island locations, including the veranda of DeBeq's plantation.

Flats which provide the basis of the settings for the radio shack and for Liat's hut will be flown on battens above the stage and lowered into place on cue. DeBeq's pagoda will be rolled into place on a dolly truck.

The set was designed by Chuck Kessler, Arlington Heights, a commercial artist who also will play string bass in the orchestra for "South Pacific."

Peter Piper, Mount Prospect, will oversee set construction and double as stage manager, and Jeanna Tucker, Mount Prospect, heads the set painting committee. Lynn Jessen, Arlington Heights, is in charge of set decoration, which includes bushels of beautiful three dimensional flowers made of paper.

Georgeanna Palmer, Palatine, is costume chairman, and Diane Scherer, Mount Prospect, is properties chairman, quite a job when it means finding a few shrunken heads in addition to the more conventional props.

Vera Karst, Palatine, is production manager and Jeanette Kapus, Mount Prospect, is assistant to the director.

Other committee heads are Charmaine Sayre, Arlington Heights, make-up; Danny Gillogly, Barrington, lighting, assisted by Tom Swingle, Palatine, on lighting cues; Martha Brayton, Cary, tickets; Jim Scott, Mount Prospect, playbill and Beth Staley, Arlington Heights, house.

"South Pacific" will be presented June 24 and 25 and July 1 and 2. Ticket information may be had by calling CL 5-8018 or LA 9-5977. (Bill

Countryside Art Classes to Start

Summer art classes sponsored by the Countryside Art Center will begin next week at Pioneer Park and will continue for six weeks.

A class for children will be held from 10:30 to 12:30 Monday and Wednesday mornings for six weeks with Russ Swayzee, art consultant for the Park Ridge Schools, as teacher.

Swayzee also is instructor for an outdoor afternoon drawing and painting class for adults and teens, which will meet in the parking lot at Pioneer Park at 1 o'clock Monday afternoons. From there students will go to nearby locations in and around Arlington Heights.

A class in ceramics which will include instruction in throwing on the wheel will be held from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays. Mrs. Ruthe Karlin will teach this course.

Thursday evenings Atsushi Kikuchi, a watercolorist, will teach a class in watercolors from 7:30 to 10.

Teens are invited to register for any of the adult classes. Interested persons may register at the Countryside Gallery, 10 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, between 1 and 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays.

For more information, readers may call Bertha Barbaro, 392-4026, or Jeanne Alderson, CL 3-8542. (Bill

Paddock Drama Critic

Throwing a play like Paddy Chayefsky's "Gideon" at a suburban theatre audience is like tossing a band of ancient Christians into an arena, then offering them a choice of execution.

I can recall no time during my pleasure-filled career as Paddock drama critic when there was so much grumbling and apprehension over choice of a play — especially a vehicle to climax Village Theatre's season.

Not only did "Gideon" cause consternation among those within VT's ranks. It drew no end of comment from the outside, including a bold, somewhat unfounded remark by a suburban playgoer, "You mean you're really going to do that?" followed by an embarrassed confession by the playgoer that he really had no idea what the devil the play was all about, except that it was about the Bible!

WELL, VT'S production forged ahead, using a comfortable Wheeling High School Theatre as its arena. In the Sunday evening audience, I found some very meek, but appreciative lions and tigers. Not a drop of blood was in the aisles. Instead, the "Gideonites" received three curtain calls, richly deserved, especially so with regard to the performances of Red Pownall as The Lord and John Grayson as Gideon.

In general, the large cast did well. There were a few unnecessary "backs to the audience" staged at times, contributing to a projection problem during the first act. But director Richard Tyler grasped the play tightly by the lines and the Chayefsky-translated characters by their togas.

With a little dialogue-slicing here and there and added emphasis on what might not be detected as outright "laugh lines," Tyler succeeded where many directors have failed. He swung a cold-hearted, I-dare-you-to-entertain-me audience back into a warm world of something - different-for-a-change.

OUT OF MY experience Sunday evening, I feel compelled to uncork the following prejudices:

Suburban audiences need to think for a change. Entertainment is not altogether made up of bowls of sex-comedy cherries. There's other fruit in the orchard.

All of us can stand a little seminar in positive attitude development. Instead of "You aren't going to do that, are you?" why not "Say, that sounds different! Let's try it!" Instead of "Oh, who wants to see a corny Bible story?" why not "Let's see what they're up to. It may be interesting."

Once in awhile, many in our suburban audiences can and should stand a theatrical experience which communicates a message. And "Gideon" had so many obvious messages (obvious to those who want to open their minds) that you could not help but walk away feeling that you've really relearned a few things about your life.

A DIRECTOR is perfectly justified in creating a drastic change of pace during a suburban theatre season — even to the point of challenging his own theatrical group.

If certain researchers are accurate in their findings — that the average (what a terrible word that is!) mental level of those who watch TV is around the sixth grade, I wonder how accurate they would be in gauging the mental level of those Paddockland theatregoers who feel they can't possibly be entertained unless there's a crowded bedroom, a few scantily-clad females, a pair of juvenile protagonists justifying free love to each other and laugh lines which have really been plagiarized and sophisticatedly rewritten from the crude comedy on men's room walls.

SO MUCH FOR the editorial. "Gideon" was enjoyable and Village Theatre needs to offer no sacrificial lamb, especially considering its variety of play selection during the past few years.

Those who stand firmly behind the Arlington Heights Park District Cultural Center are also to be congratulated for indirectly bringing suburban drama to a closer, more concrete victory: VT plans to build its new theatre as component No. 1 of the Center. I have only one comment — it's about time. Perhaps when the theatre is opened, a few more suburban television viewers will graduate from sixth grade visuals to graduate school "actuals."

The Way We See It

Elk Grove Marks Decade of Growth

This week marks the opening of Elk Grove Village's Tencennial celebration, marking the 10th anniversary of the village's incorporation.

In that 10-year span, Elk Grove Village has grown from a cornfield community to a complete, modern suburb. It has been a successful decade for the village.

What Elk Grove is celebrating during this three-week observance is actually the Tencennial of her "second settling," for Elk Grove's history goes back to 1848 when the Busse family purchased 1,6000 acres of land in what was to become Elk Grove Township.

In its early days, Arlington Heights' railroad station bore the name "Elk Grove" after what was then a larger and better-known settlement.

But the achievements of the past 10 years have overshadowed Elk Grove's historic past. The decade has seen the construction of moderate-cost, quality homes, superior streets and public improvements, churches, shopping centers, factories and—opening in conjunction with the Tencennial—a hospital which will serve the entire northwest suburban area.

Elk Grove's industry has been a boon to the community and to other suburban taxing districts. It has helped Elementary District 59 add 14 new school buildings in the past eight years without an increase in the building tax rate.

The decade has seen the rise of District 59 from a small, rural district to one of the finest educational systems in the nation. Capitalizing on a theme of innovation, the district has challenged the recognized standing of other suburban school systems.

Last week also marked the start of the 10th year of publication of the Elk Grove Herald. The paper has grown in stature with the community.

We look forward to its continued success and share in the community's pride on completion of this decade of progress.

A Concern for Education

Retiring Supt. of Schools Harold L. Slichenmyer has submitted a 14-point recommendation for future consideration of administrators and board members of High School District 214.

A number of Slichenmyer's 14 points are addressed to the problems created by District 214's rapid growth, from one high school when Slichenmyer took the reins 12 years ago to four, with a fifth about to open. Those points concern the nuts and bolts problems of effective use of substitute teachers, work loads of English teachers and the lay reader program, future addition of swimming pools, coordination of state and federal aid to the district and other questions.

But the two most significant points made by Slichenmyer affect American education generally and have been discussed widely in educational circles: improving educational services so that no individual is excluded from the curriculum and encouraging the competency of teachers.

The retiring superintendent has recommended a "truly comprehensive" high school curriculum be developed so individuals of all aptitude ranges feel they are part of the high school program rather than strangers to it. A special education committee already has been assigned to delve into this long-term problem. Slichenmyer also recommended funds be spent for facilities and programs for individualized study programs benefiting high-ability pupils—like the carrels included in the new Forest View High School.

In the area of improving teacher competence, Slichenmyer suggested the board turn away from proposals for merit pay. Money which might be spent for merit pay, he suggested, would be better spent on in-service training, improved supervision, summer study and committee work, better recruiting, more exacting review of the performance of teachers before they achieve tenure status and encouragement of bright pupils to enter teaching.

The superintendent's 14 points reflect a concern for individuals and educational improvement which have marked his 12 outstanding years in office, and will be considered carefully by the board, new administration and public.

Suburban Hospital Needs

Hospital facilities in northwest suburbs are being expanded as fast as workmen can finish construction.

The new 220-bed St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village officially opened this week. Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, has begun to occupy its new $4 million addition. Other hospital expansion programs are complete or under way at Lutheran General in Park Ridge, Holy Family in Des Plaines, and DuPage Memorial in Elmhurst.

Despite this impressive record, however, construction of new hospital beds is falling behind public need. Population continues to soar and hospital usage per 1,000 population is in a steady climb. Present facilities are enough to handle area hospital needs until 1970.

If suburban hospitals are to keep pace with increased demands for medical care and service, continued support must be forthcoming from communities, business and industry, private citizens. These expansions benefit not only those who must be hospitalized; they are of direct benefit to the health and well-being of every member of the community.

Critic's Corner

Impressions Of a Tourist

by HESTER KLINE
Staff Writer

"You probably have lots of impressions of Spain to write about," the managing editor was imprudent enough to say when he gave me the Critic's Corner assignment.

If he thought he could thusly assure my quick acquiescence, he was so right.

There's nothing a returned vacationer likes better than to talk about a trip.

A three-wek tour of Spain, Portugal, and Morocco isn't exactly restful, and random impressions are playing leapfrog in my mind. It will take months before I get them sorted out and filed in my memory.

LISBON IS bright and sparkling and clean and warmly hospitable. The people appear to be happy, but the perceptive observer feels sad in Portugal — it is all so hopeless. The economy is based on port wine. Cork, formerly a major export, has been replaced by plastics. Fishing is an important industry, but the Atlantic takes a terrific human toll in return for its bounty.

Nazare echoed with the wails of women who had been widowed the night before we were there. A fishing boat with eight men aboard had been lost at sea. The eerie sound of the women's laments will haunt me forever.

Tourism hit Spain before it did Portugal and Morocco. Spain has long been a popular vacation area for Germans and Swedes and French, and the nation was quick to respond to the tremendous surge of American tourists taking advantage of the low air fares. Despite the Spaniard's traditional slow and easy attitude, the influx of tourists with money to spend is having a subtle effect.

The old ways still lurk under the new veneer. Pass up the swank hotel bar and go around the corner where you will find Spaniards stopping off for a drink and a snack on the way home to a leisurely 10 o'clock dinner. Or go walking along the boulevards at midnight, when the Spaniards start the "evening."

The beat of Flamenco can still be heard everywhere. It is the clatter of the hooves of horses drawing carriages (for tourists, but such fun!), the clap of hands or snap of fingers as one sits at an outdoor cafe sipping sherry, the games of youngsters. But flamenco with all its subtle expressions of a way of life is giving way to modern music except for professional entertainment.

Thrilled as we were by the local color of Iberia, we were unprepared for Morocco. For five days there we felt like we were on a movie set.

YOUNG GIRLS wear high heeled shoes, but their garb includes the jellaba and veil—they know they a good thing going with their great dark eyes glowing above a wisp of silk.

Most interesting were the faces of the men, but it would take a longer article than this to try to interpret them.

Casablanca is in its own category among Moroccan cities. It exemplifies the dynamic force of a new generation.

But Fez! There one feels the essence of the old Morocco and Moroccans. Some day I'm going back to Fex and stay until I can absorb all of its mystery, its culture, its fascination.

Woman in the News

A Love of Art

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

Those expecting an "arty" president of the Countryside Art Center would be disappointed.

Marge Brockman, 1610 W. Brown St., Arlington Heights, looks typically suburban; yet she is a respected "working" professional artist.

THE FIRST thing she did when she, her husband, Charles, and two sons moved to Arlington Heights four years ago was to look for an art gallery. Shortly after, the Countryside's jury screening artists asked her to exhibit in the gallery.

"This is my year off" from concentrated painting, Marge explains of her decision to become president of the Countryside Art Center. She believed she should do something for the center even though it would deprive her of painting time. She confessed the classes she plans to take will be her way of finding some time for painting.

Before assuming the presidency of the center in which she has such a strong interest, Marge served as chairman of the Countryside Spring Festival, a major event.

AS PRESIDENT of the art center that started about nine years ago when local artists gathered in each others' basements, Marge acts primarily as coordinator. She appoints committees and sees they are functioning effectively. About 25 to 30 people form the nucleus of the working committees.

The president takes her ideas to a board of directors and gets approval on major expenditures. The gallery at 10 W. Miner St., founded five years ago, is a wing of the center. "Each new president puts his personality stamp on the group," a past president observed.

"I'm an avid admirer of all kinds of art," the brunette said with a ready smile. The Countryside Art Gallery attempts to show paintings of both non-objective and realistic schools. No pop or op art has been shown simply because the screening jury has not had any artists of this school.

"We work for quality as well as quantity," Marge said. In the annual jury screening this May, 72 artists — local and from Chicago — were judged. The gallery usually displays work of four to five artists. Sculpture and ceramics as well as paintings are displayed.

MARGE PLANS no major changes in the Countryside Art Center while president, though she admitted to "some ideas." Two administrative changes have been made. Meetings are held once a month to allow higher priced speakers and artists' work will be shown six weeks instead of one month.

A mother of two sons, 10 and 14 years old, Marge gets noticeably enthusiastic when she talks of the reaction of children to the art gallery. "When I'm here afternoons, I always keep the door open and children usually wander in." The children often express curiosity about the paintings they see.

Children often are responsible for return visits with their parents. This gracious, young woman shies from talking about the level of culture of area residents. She instead notes the community acceptance of the center and gallery and an increasing level of understanding. She obviously prefers to talk about a doctor patron who visits the gallery at least monthly and rents paintings for his home. The rental of paintings is a newer gallery feature.

Education is one role of the art center. Children have tours with lectures. Any organization can arrange for a tour and lecture and they can hold that meeting at the gallery. Countryside affiliated artists show their work at local banks, movie theatres, restaurants, and an occasional real estate office.

Marge, for example, has her paintings on exhibit at the Arlington Theatre and they will go on display at The Bank of Arlington Heights. The strongly expressionistic oils show the artist's use of strong blues and greens with bright color as accent.

MARGE STUDIED art at Bowling Green University. For six years she studied under artist Carl Alex VonVolborth of Cincinnati, "a marvelous man." In Cincinnati, her work was exhibited and won ribbons.

Locally Marge has shown work at the University Club in Chicago, Old Orchard Country Club, the Elks Club, and the Gallery. She admits to a personal bias against showing in the summer outdoor art fairs so common in the Chicago area.

Marge's family accepts painting as a part of her life. Marge admits pleasure in her sons' progress in their school art classes. Her nonpainter husband served last year as the Countryside's treasurer.

"I hope I've been enthusiastic enough," Marge commented after talking about the Countryside. Probably during her term of office a fund will be started for a building for the center. However, Marge views the reality of a building still distant. Countryside devotees have talked in terms of a building with a gallery and classrooms. Art classes now must be held in Pioneer Park.

The Countryside holds its own financially and has never worried about volunteers among the 364 person membership. Too many people share the love of Countryside Art Center that Marge makes so evident.

Grace, Beauty and Shade

Lament for Lost Friends

by DAN BAUMANN
Managing Editor

We lost a family of good friends last Thursday.

The tornado that buzzed through the northwest suburbs severley damaged most of the trees in our block; it destroyed all but a few on our side of the street. What is left of them will have to be removed for safety reasons.

BAUMANN

It could have been worse. No one in our neighborhood was killed or injured. There was little damage to homes and personal property.

BUT THE DAMAGE to the neighborhood is irreparable. I'm sure no other single block in Arlington Heights suffered worse tree damage. And the trees were one of the major reasons we moved to this neighborhood.

About 50 years old, they formed magnificent arches over the street. They gave a settled look to the neighborhood that is sometimes hard to find in suburbia. They softened the rather awkward architecture of the homes on our street. And they provided beauty and shade.

The sun never quite reached the front of our house, and we benefited in the summer by having cool morning temperatures and comfortable afternoons.

THERE ARE many good things to say about the storm: the speed of the village in getting the mess cleaned up and of the utilities in getting service restored, the cooperation of the Army Nike base in providing military police for patrol and traffic control, the readiness of teen-agers and others to help those affected by the storm.

But all the good things won't wipe out the loss suffered by suburban residents, whether in terms of family members injured or killed, homes damaged or trees lost.

Now where was that air conditioner advertisement . . .

Why Can't Kids Participate In Civic Work? He Asks

It is my conviction that our young people must be completely batfled and frustrated by their adult peers — we give them ample reasons.

Among teenagers, there are obvious distinctions exactly as there are among the adult strata of society. Hoodlum, indolent, passive, active and dynamic elements are contained within both the adult and youth populations. Only a few individuals prove to be troublesome and become of concern to the police, courts and Youth Commission.

But what of the vast majority of our teens who are developing into upright citizens? They need no praise or coddling — rather, adult encouragement and opportunities to use their abilities are wanted and needed. To these young people, I fear, adult actions present much vexation.

As an example — current planning for the annual curbstone house numbering program now involves hiring of three students by the street department, but "not to paint house numbers — this will be done by the village at no charge to the residents." To justify this self-contradictory statement, contentions are made that previous workers demanded a dollar for their services.

To set the record straight, the house numbering idea was originated by college students several years ago as a means to earn educational funds. With the counsel and guidance of the village fathers, particularly ex-Trustee Bill Casterline and Fire Chief Ed Haberkamp, an annual program was established for the mutual benefit of our youth and community. The students operated as independent businessmen, assuming the risks of purchasing supplies, performing all work and soliciting supporting contributions from residents.

It was never my experience to be dunned for any amount. I have the highest regard for the young man who worked in front of my home last year — his workmanship, materials, actions and mannerisms were above any reproach. I admired his industry and initiative, and was pleased to compensate him accordingly.

In my estimation, this year's house numbering program is nothing more than government takeover of another established youth enterprise. The opportunities to develop initiative, self-reliance, participation in community service and public recognition of our young people are destroyed. For what purpose?

Purpose of Human Relations Group to Inform Residents

Your June 2 feature, "A Negro Neighbor? Women Voice Their Views," contained many interesting (one way or another) opinions, one of special interest to members of human relations committees.

In the general anonymity, one cannot tell which community's group was referred to: ". . .we asked what (the human relations committee) was doing. . . our question was evaded . . . not answered."

For the record, the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee is not only willing but anxious to inform interested persons or groups about its activities. We are currently arranging a program on open housing which other local groups can use; our meetings are always open to the public; we welcome inquiries and the participation of anyone in the community. Indeed, the chief function of groups like ours is to try to inform others of facts and developments in such fields as integrated housing. "Sweeping it under the carpet, hoping it will go away," (as another speaker put it) is an attitude we hope to discourage, not encourage.

Your article was about "feelings," and presumably anonymity served its purpose. Much more open discussion is needed, in which the large body of facts available are dealt with; in which feelings and emotions are properly related to what one speaker called "practicing democracy" (to which many would add, practicing one's religious beliefs). There are of course, some people who cannot be rational about this topic, or who refuse to be "confused by the facts." There is, surely, a larger body of citizens who are torn between good will and the kinds of grave misconceptions some of these ladies voiced. Lack of knowledge, superstition and groundless fear have caused — are causing — great harm.

For this reason, we hope for more discussion, in the Herald as well as elsewhere. A factual story might well be based on the nonhypothetical Negro neighbor: the more than 170 Negro families who have purchased homes in 37 Chicago suburbs in recent years. It is interesting to note that this new development has caused so little stir that many people are unaware it has taken place.

So many newcomers to the area think Paddock has something to do with the race track, we've developed a certain smile as we deny any connection.

But, as any horse will tell you, Paddock is publisher of 17 weekly newspapers, a leader in its field. We've won 195 awards for excellence just since 1955!

They're all evidence of the pride our staff puts into its work, week after week after week, though it takes a thick paper to print all of the news necessary to win those awards, and serve our advertisers.

Hansen Defends Record Against Letter Writer

The letter from a Mount Prospect resident, which appeared in the Fence Post of June 9, complains that decisions made on candidates and issues in the current primary have been dictated by me.

The writer obviously knows little of the nature of the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization. In actual fact, decisions on primary candidates were made with the concurrence of the board, the precinct captains and the membership — and in separate, successive meetings.

In addition, no personal attack, or any other kind of attack, was ever made regarding any candidate. One statement was made to the effect that the health of a candidate was a matter of concern within the organization. This it was. For that matter, what is more legitimate subject for discussion and concern than a possible incapacitation which could narrow an already tight Republican margin in the next assembly?

The writer would do well to check his facts. Such a course of action is easily a more conservative approach than wild-eyed statements based on figments of someone's overactive imagination.

Workshop Aim: Educate Voters

I would like to clarify a statement made by Rep. Eugene Schlickman about the Republican workshops.

As the educational aim of the Republican Party, the main purpose of the Republican workshops is to educate voters of all political beliefs (Republicans, Democrats, Independents, non-voters) in the ways and wisdom of the American political system. Our motive is to stimulate these men and women into taking an active, enlightened part in their government, hopefully within the Republican party. Hence our motto "Education for Action."

I trust this will clear up any misunderstanding caused by the brief article.

Asks Village Board to Give Justifications for Apartments

It is most difficult for anyone presently living in Palatine to view the current proposals for high-rise apartments dispassionately. Emotionalism always destroys objectivity. Prior to each meeting of the zoning commission and village board, we citizens in attendance are cautioned to be reasonable and objective in our statements for or against the proposals. I should now like to request a similar objective and reasonable attitude on the part of the members of the village board.

Up until now, those of us attending the zoning and village board meetings have been in the position of constantly defending our objections to volume apartment construction. I now openly ask the village board to give us concrete and factual reasons why they favor such construction. I do not recall any meeting in recent months where the village board has touched upon this side of the question. Oh, yes, we have all heard repeatedly the hackneyed phrase "the highest and most valuable use of the available land," but highest and most valuable for whom? Admittedly the commercial enterprises that are included in one of the proposed apartment projects would provide some additional tax monies to the village, and the merchants of our community unquestionably look with undisguised longing at the prospect of thousands of new potential customers. But what about we common, ordinary home owners who, when all is said and done, are the lifeblood of Palatine.

I concede that it is your duty as members of the village board to represent the commercial establishments of our community as is it to try to secure additional tax revenues for the village, but it is also your sworn duty to represent the people of Palatine and so govern as to promote the greatest good for the greatest number of people. This, I submit, is not being done.

Let's peel off the tinsel, dispense with the usual quasi-legal double-talk and take a hard look at precisely what large apartment projects will mean to Palatine. Now very few people I know object to the so-called "type of people" apartments will bring into our community. Apartment dwellers are no better or no worse than most of us already here. I, too, have lived in apartments and I do not believe it contributed to general loose living and moral lechery. I am sufficiently liberal to believe that apartments, when viewed over a period of some years, do not seriously reduce property values. I do contend, however, that a sudden influx of children that will inevitably result from the construction of two or more bedroom apartments, coupled with the present overcrowded situation in our schools will require immediate construction of additional school facilities. This will place a heavy financial hardship on every family now living in Palatine. Where. may I ask, is the big benefit of apartments? Who is going to profit? In line with the promoting of the greatest good for the greatest number of people, can you, in good conscience, still contend that the additional tax monies and the increased business by the Palatine merchants outweigh an additional financial burden upon 20,000 people?

During the time that the United Citizens party has been pre-eminent in Palatine village government, many advances have been made. A program of fiscal responsibility has been instituted, and village services have been expanded and improved. In the last election, you "stood on your record" and that record was good enough to sweep every position with an overwhelming plurality.

But please remember the two most important reasons why the United Citizens party came into its commanding position originally. One was the rebellion on the part of the people to the "public be damned" philosophy of the previous administration wherein decisions were made on all important issues in closed session well in advance of open discussion of the issues at village meetings.

Secondly, the United Citizens party owes its success to the unstinting labors of a vast number workers, one of whom I have been during both election campaigns. In the light of the article in the May 26 issue of the Palatine Enterprise, have we come full circle into another era wherein our elected officials mollify and placate the citizenry concerning vital issues at a village meeting while having reached an entirely different conclusion during closed session?

My family and I have been residents of Winston Park for over seven years. I have two children in high school and one in first grade. I welcomed the United Citizens party with open arms and have worked to the best of my ability for them in both elections. I am a former director of the Winston Park Home Owners Association. I have been through the Highway 53 relocation arguments, continuing tax increases, double sessions, patchwork quilt bussing of students, school classes in church buildings and the endless building of schools that somehow never quite catches up with the number of children. If large apartment complexes come into Palatine, 20,000 people just like me will have to go through it all again, only to find that the price of admission to the game is even higher than ever before.

I, for one, have had enough. I ask you, members of the village board, to make your position crystal clear to all of us.

Cites Judges' Problems in Dist. 11 Vote

To avoid further misinformation concerning the recent tax rate referendum which lost in Medinah on Saturday, June 4, it has become necessary to explain the circumstances that caused a misunderstanding in regard to absentee and objected-to ballots.

The 24 absentee ballots, which were accepted by the judges, and the nine objected-to ballots, did not and would not have controlled the election that lost by 48 votes.

If any residents voted who were not registered, it is they, not the judges, who were responsible for perjuring their affidavits. School election judges do not have accessibility to registration books and must take the word of the voter that he is registered and eligible. Instructions as to proper marking of ballots is displayed in each voting booth, and properly marked ballots, regardless of a "yes" or "no" vote, are the only ones these judges may accept in the count of ballots cast.

Voters of absentee ballots were not at fault for the confusion that existed that day. This was caused by the inexperience of the person or persons who isued the ballots and, the lack of communication to the clerk of the election. Due to this improper issuance and preparation the clerk of the election was faced with an unprecedented situation. The election judges are to be commended for the excellent manner in which they acted to conduct the election in a most proper way to avoid an election contest.

A set of rules will be established for future elections wherein the school office, clerk and judges will have a better understanding in the proper issuance, preparation, and handling of absentee votes: Thus eliminating any problems as experienced on June 4.

My thanks to the judges for their job performance and apologies for any criticism they may have received from the uninformed.

Paper Played Role in Park District Vote

On behalf of the Streamwood park committee, I wish to thank you for the fine coverage you gave this project.

As you know. the referendum was passed by a 5 to 1 margin in favor of a park district, and much of this success is due to the fine reporting that was done by you.

Thank you again for your support.

'Come Blow Your Horn' Success Seen by Staffer

On behalf of the Northwest Community Hospital Players, I wish to express our thanks to you and the rest of the staff of Paddock Publications, for all the tremendous publicity given to our play, "Come Blow Your Horn."

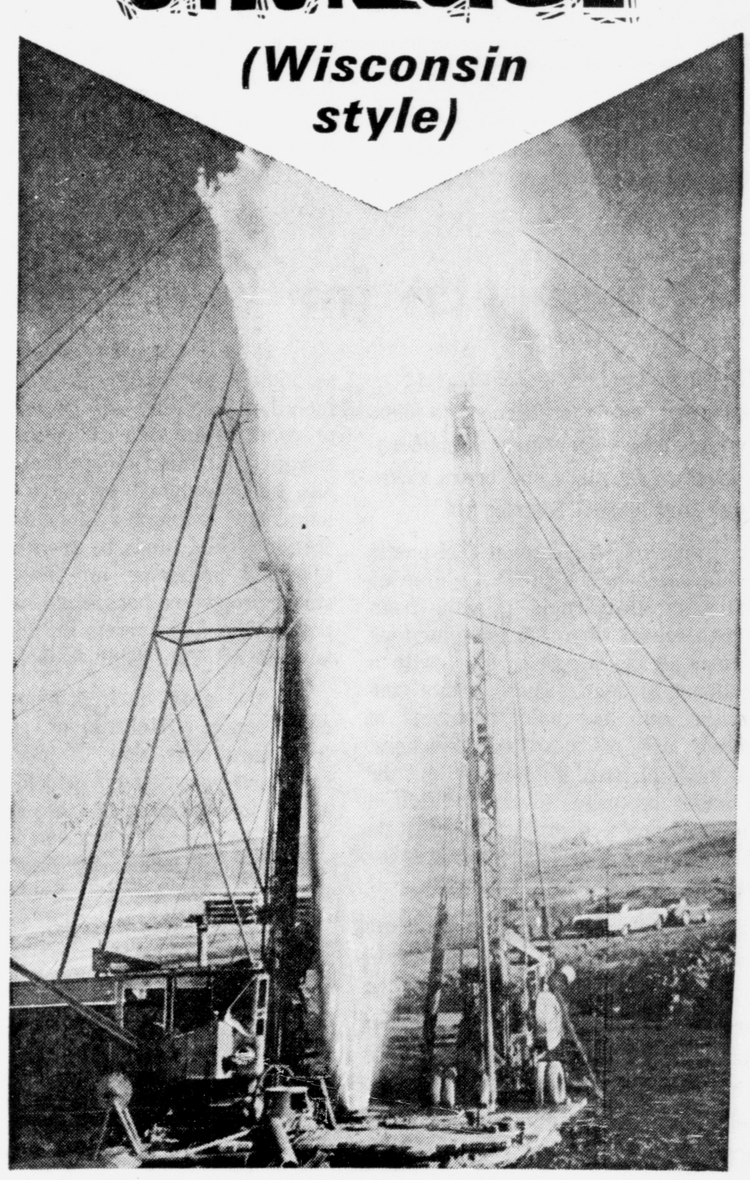
WATER SHORTAGE

(Wisconsin style)



If water is important to your industry, Wisconsin is important to you! There's plenty. In fact, Wisconsin has 99 times more than is used annually. It's cool, clean water. Over 90% of the waterworks in Wisconsin use wells. (Photograph shows a new artesian well coming in.) Then, add 8,830 lakes . . . 35,000 miles of streams. And two of the largest Great Lakes. There's water for you in Wisconsin. And — it's clean water, because Wisconsin was the first state to establish a pollution control program.

Are Laws Suggestions? Asks Reader of Critic Dave Hanks

This letter concerns the article by David Hanks "Flag Offense Ridiculous" in last week's paper.

"Any person who in any way shall publicly trample upon or cast contempt on the Flag shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor." What has happened to your clear thinking to call this an "obscure chapter in Illinois statutes?" A person can hardly be patriotic if he feels this law is "obscure" or ridiculous."

You go on to say: "Citizens in this nation should have learned that it is necessary to sometime disobey a law which is not necessarily a good one . . ." Your preaching of civil disobedience is rather questionable. There are other ways to have a law changed than by disobeying it. Civil disobedience should not be accepted in any form—for if one group or person is allowed to break the law, then others will surely follow in their shadow.

Who can judge if a law is fair or not? If every person who thought a law was "not necessarily a good one" were to disobey it, what need would there be for laws? Laws would only become "suggestions."

Your quote, "I had hoped people in this country were becoming better informed, more tolerant and somewhat sophiticated about patriotism," suggests that the patriotism of other generations was bad. This quote seems to condemn the flag waving, old fashioned, blind patriotic pride of "unsophisticated" citizens.

Mr. Calisch's explanation defitely was sufficient. Many students will tell you that it was a little overdone. You go on to say "Apparently some students, especially one, (Sean Ryan Jr.) were not satisfied with Calisch's explanation. Perhaps this is understandable. You don't always expect youngsters at that age to grasp every lesson which is presented."

Youngsters at that age grasp lessons a lot better than many adults. They are also more discriminate in choosing what to accept and forming their own opinions.

You continue, "What is more disturbing is the parent who didn't understand the lesson and even went so far as to sign a complaint which charged Calisch with desecrating the American flag." The judge in the Circuit Court at Niles would take opposition to your statement. He commended Sean Ryan and his father who have lived in the United States only three years. He said of Sean, "In that short time he has developed into a fine citizen." This commendation went to his parents also.

The judge also said of Mr. Calisch's actions, "Conduct like this cannot be tolerated, and we will have no more of it."

A person doesn't have to be a super-patriot to question the appropriatness of a teacher stepping on the flag. Academic freedom can only be extended so far. Mr. Calisch's end (to teach symbolism) can hardly justify the means (stepping on the flag). Since when has the flag become a teaching tool like an English book or a piece of chalk?

Mr. Calisch's actions should be forgiven. Everyone makes mistakes. But don't commend or herald them.

Parish: Source Of Readership

The members of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Emily's Church, 1400 E. Central Road, Mount Prospect, have asked me to express their appreciation for the excellent newspaper coverage your have given to our events during the past year. Your articles have greatly contributed to the success of our meetings and projects.

Perhaps you would be interested in knowing how many potential readers of Paddock Publications there are present in our parish. St. Emily's parish has about 7000 parishioners with over 1600 families. Approximately 900 of these families live in Mount Prospect, while the other 700 live in Des Plaines. Assuming there are at least two adult readers to each family, there would be a minimum of 1,800 Mount Prospect residents from our parish who are potential readers of your newspapers, particularly the Mount Prospect Herald. As to the 700 Des Plaines families, their contiguity with Mount Prospect would indicate that a large portion of their buying power and interests would also lie with Mount Prospect as well as Des Plaines.

With these thoughts in mind, I am sure that all publicity you give our organization is mutually beneficial to you as well as to us, and we will greatly appreciate all publicity you choose to give us in the future.

I have found the information and suggestions provided at your publicity clinic last fall to be a most valuable asset and would like to thank you for the invitation and resulting assistance with copy and photography. It has been a pleasure to work with Mrs. Scott during the past year.

'Heart' by the Busload Cited By Legionnaire

I have sold poppies, made by the veteran in the hospitals, for the past nine years, and have seen many people refuse to buy a poppy, or go to many lengths to avoid being stopped.

On our last poppy day, I became very downhearted as the morning progressed. However, a bus load of high school teens gave me and the other legionnaires at the corner of Wilke and Campbell a great lift by their attitude and generosity. The driver stopped at the light, and the legionnaire went over and the driver bought a poppy, then a chain reaction occurred and all of a sudden the windows of the bus went up, and a mass of arms came out with their nickels and dimes, to make a donation. Unfortunately the light changed, or all the teens in the bus would have made a donation.

We read so much about all the trouble teenagers get into and cause, but this group really had charity in their hearts.

I don't think they actually realized that these poppies are made by a veteran in the hospital, who we purchase them from. Nor do they realize that the remainder of the money remains with the post and can be spent only for veterans and or their families. Perhaps they did, as several of them may become veterans, and may need assistance at some time either in schooling, hospital assistance or other assistance.

My salute goes to these teens. I only wish I knew each and every one of them so that I could thank them personally.

Bensenville's Parade Called 'Best Ever'

I should like to express my sincerest congratulations to all the organizations both civic and municipal, who participated in the parade in Bensenville, May 30. It was by far the best I and my family have witnessed since coming to our village nine years ago, both from a quality standpoint and also from the number of groups and individuals involved.

A special plaudit to Mr. Fred Valentino, the parade marshal, on exercising excellent judgment and tact in suppressing a very distasteful attempt at political advertising. It is unfortunate that there are among us, opportunists who would attempt to exploit a holiday or patriotic observance to further their own ambitions — however it is commendable that none of the other candidates from either political party attempted a similiar desecration.

Two other things were noted, that should and could be rectified; I would suggest that our local veterans organizations (note to Ray Soden et al.) conduct as a public service, an informative bulletin and/or articles in our local newspaper, pointing out to the citizenry, their patriotic duty, to show respect for the National Ensign as it passes in review. Only the police and fire department personnel and a few scattered observers met this obligation.

Secondly, why does the law allow a dangerous thing like the "bean shooter" to be sold to the youth of our community? Is it the pathetic attitude of parents that allows their children to buy and use these "weapons?" Is it the lust for money on the part of the store owners that prompts them to be an accessory to this danger, or both?

Perhaps our schools could sponsor a field trip to a children's hospital (maybe a little extreme) or a motion picture available through the National Safety Council, pointing out the dangers and results of these "shooters" could be shown to educate our young people.

Thank you for allowing me to express my views, and again a "well done" to our community organizations for their efforts.

Andy Sorgatz Praised for Help in Storm

On behalf of the hundreds of motorists and commuters trying to get to their places of business on time Thursday morning after our storm, I believe Andy Sorgatz, a student at Arlington High School, should be praised and commended for the excellent job he did at the intersection at Euclid Avenue and Northwest Highway.

Andy started directing traffic at 6:30 a.m. and regardless of the "heckling" from other students standing at the curb, "horn-blowing," and the cold wind and rain, he continued directing traffic safely across the railroad tracks and kept traffic moving until after 10 a.m. when help arrived.

It was impossible to ignore his courteous behavior to the motorists as well as the pedestrians, and from my observation, I know he prevented a great many serious accidents. Our many many thanks to Andy.

Smells Roses in District 214 School Bus Contracts

There were three separate news items in the June 10 Paddock papers which very much interested me. Separate though they may be, all three are related.

Item 1: "Transportation Tax Increase Expected."

A 3 cent increase in transportation is up for approval at a meeting of the High School District 214 board. This tax increase is necessitated by the fact that the school board has awarded a contract to a second carrier, Davidsmeyer, for District 214 at a cost considerably higher (approximately $51,000 higher) than the present carrier's bid—namedly Cook County School Bus Co.

Item 2: "School Bus Hike Approved by Board."

Cost of transportation increase approved by School District 59 (Elk Grove). This approval gives Davidsmeyer $5 per day, per bus, increase in rate. Also in this item is a proposal to use the buses which Davidsmeyer intends to use for District 214 to carry children in special education classes for District 59. The contention is that the high school runs will take only one hour (run in double shifts for which we of District 214 are "paying through the nose"), so Davidsmeyer figures why not use the buses for another hour (the drivers are on a two-hour contract) to haul the special education classes. Now! Davidsmeyer receives an increase from District 59, also a large contract from District 214 (which contract was drawn up in the first place so as to cover the entire cost of the high school operation—two hour minimum), so it seems to me that Davidsmeyer is coming out "smelling like a rose."

Not only this, but they will probably sell their "carry-all" buses which at present are used to haul the special education students and realize a tidy sum on those to add to the credit side of their ledger.

Item 3: "Chamber Questioning School Bus Contract."

E. Charles Alft, executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, has asked permission to appear at High School District 214 board meeting to inquire about school bus service. Mr. Alft and the chamber board are interested (I am also interested) in learning why the school board decided to have Davidsmeyer haul Elk Grove students at a rate "considerable higher" than the bid submitted by Cook County School Bus Co. They also wish to inquire the reason for a split contract.

Having attended a meeting of District 214 board, it seemed to me that this "split contract" was given to satisfy the desire of one woman board member, through her pressure, with the men board members not enough interested to dissent with her—either not enough interest or not enough gumption to dissent.

Also in this item, District 59 (Elk Grove) and the High School District 214 have approved an arrangement in which Davidsmeyer would provide two more buses to the high school district at no extra cost and in return Davidsmeyer will use five of the high school buses for District 59's Special Education students.

Again someone is coming out "smelling sweet," and it's not District 214. Five for two is certainly not an even exchange. Davidsmeyer is being paid extra money for these buses by District 59, also being paid by District 214 for the very same buses.

Taxpayers of High School District 214 WAKE UP! Don't you think it's about time to take some interest in these "shenanigans" of your high school board? YOU are the ones who are paying increased transportation tax; YOU are the ones paying for bus transportation whether or not you have children who ride; YOU are the ones who will have to pay the $51,000 extra on the Davidsmeyer contract; and YOU are the ones, who, if this unnecessary spending is not stopped, will have to pay for any whims in which the school board cares to indulge.

Don't you think it's about time you do something?

Latest Draft to Help Lundgren?

What kind of price will lefty Tom Lundgren command when the former area pitching whiz decides to cast his lot with professional baseball?

You get some idea after examining the free-agent draft session held last week by the moguls of Organized Baseball.

The fourteenth player selected from a total of 937 young players throughout the country was Rick Konik, an 18-year-old first baseman from St. Andrews High School in Detroit, Mich.

Konik, a 6-2, 185-pound lefthander, was drafted by the Detroit Tigers.

Rick is no stranger to followers of Arlington's American Legion baseball team, and that's what prompts this brief discussion.

Konik played for the Detroit entry in the East Chicago (Ind.) regional Legion tournament last summer and enjoyed an impressive series—except when he faced Lundgren.

The big Arlington Heights lefty, who surprisingly didn't have one of his sharpest outings that night, fanned Konik four straight times before the Detroit star was able to lift a fly to the outfield. Lundgren got Konik swinging three straight times and then whizzed a called third strike past him in the fourth appearance.

Rick went into the game with a .577 tourney average.

In that particular game, the championship of the East Chicago Regional, Arlington needed 11 innings to conquer a strong Detroit nine, 7-6. Johnny Friedl, one of the key men on the current Arlington entry, relieved Lundgren and turned in two and one-third innings of shutout pitching.

It's interesting to note that the last Detroit hitter to face Friedl in this title tussle was Konik. Rick fouled off the first two Friedl deliveries in the 11th and then took a ball high. He stroked the next pitch to right field where Thad Woodard hauled it in for the final out.

The next stop for Arlington Heights was Aberdeen, S. D.

One other player from that East Chicago Regional was drafted by the professionals last week.

Pitcher-outfielder-first baseman Billy Richard Lynch from Ashland, Ky., was drafted by the Cleveland Indians. Lynch had the pro scouts buzzing at East Chicago with a 17-strikeout performance in a first round outing.

Other names on the free-agent list that caught our attention were pitcher Tim Marks of Peoria Manual (New York Yankees), who worked six innings against St. Viator in the championship game of the 1965 state baseball tournament; pitcher Ken Kozil and outfielder Bob Breitzman of Glenbrook North (Chicago White Sox), two key performers on the Spartans' state championship unit; and 21-year-old pitcher Jim Engel of Bensenville (Pittsburgh), a former Paddock area mound flash at Fenton High School.

fessional cage entry.

"I'm out trying to drum up some business in the way of season tickets for the Bulls," Ron admits, "and so far I've been very pleased with the response.

"We're all hoping that this try at professional basketball in Chicago will click and the men behind the organization seem determined to make it a successful and popular operation."

The Bulls are offering several season ticket plans for the 1966-67 season at the International Amphitheatre.

You can see the entire home schedule of 36 games, a plan of 18 games where each National Basketball Association team will make two Chicago appearances, or a plan of nine games where you see each NBA team once.

Ron will be happy to send along a brochure on the season ticket plans.

Ed Moehling, Jr., former Arlington High golf standout, tees off at 9:47 a.m. today (Thursday) for his first 18 holes in the United States Open golf tournament in San Francisco. Ed goes off at 1:42 p.m. Friday. He's playing with Dick Hart of the Hinsdale club and Charles Harrison of Atlanta.

Tough Way to Get Six . . .

Next time you take a six on a golf hole, think about this poor professional who had some embarrassing moments in his effort at the Pensacola Oopen.

Bill Botts, a 28-year-old Californian, got off a decent drive but his second shot caromed off the bleachers and stopped near the club house entrance.

He was allowed a free lift but the pro shop still blocked his path to the green.

Botts' next shot landed atop the roof of the one-story pro shop. He could have dropped the ball from the building but decided to climb up a ladder and play.

The ball was near a steam pipe, and officials ruled Botts could flip it away. So he flipped the ball into a puddle of water.

Although told he could lift again, Botts hit a pitching wedge out of the water to 10 feet from the cup. He two-putted for a very unusual six.

Jim Wright, who will assume duties in the fall as assistant football and head tennis coach at Prospect High School, is the son of University of Illinois track coach Bob Wright and older brother of the Illini's football-track star John Wright. John established an Illinois pass receiving mark last fall as a soph and also holds the state record for the 180 yard low hurdles.

Palatine to Visit Friday

Prospect Also Home for Next Three Loop Games

by Larry Everhart

Two area rivals with high hopes for 1966, Mount Prospect and Palatine, will clash Friday night at 6:15 in a First Division Legion baseball attraction.

Both teams are composed largely of the same personnel which stocked the Palatine and Prospect High School nines this spring. Mount Prospect, still irked by the two losses it absorbed from Palatine in Mid-Suburban play, will be out for revenge.

Prospect will be helped by the home-field advantage. Scene of the battle will be the Prospect high diamond, where Palatine eked out a 5-4 triumph this spring. The Pirates posted a relatively easy 5-2 decision on their own grounds.

BOTH TEAMS were scheduled to see action last night, with Mount Prospect slated to visit Morton Grove and Palatine set to host Evanston in the league debuts for both units. The league openers, originally set for Monday night, were washed out by heavy rains.

In the high school nines' first meeting this spring at Palatine, hard-throwing Prospect hurler Dave Kingman yielded all five of Palatine's counters. Kingman, who was impressive in Prospect's season opener last Sunday, could see hill duty Friday.

If he doesn't start, J. D. Thorne, who absorbed the one-run loss in the teams' second clash this spring, probably will work.

PALATINE'S Irv Hahnfeld, who picked up both wins over Prospect this spring, could see mount service, too. Barry Yurtis, Palatine's other key twirler, who also toiled against Prospect this spring, will also be back. So neither team will be unfamiliar with the other's slab corps.

Prospect will remember Palatine shortstop Ken Johnson and second-sacker Mike Ferguson. Each had 2-for-3 days at the plate in the teams' first argument this spring. In their second encounter, Ferguson whacked a game-winning homer in the seventh inning, and in their initial clash, Johnson also rapped a round-tripper.

John Grove is also an important stickman for Palatine, having finished third in hitting in the Mid-Suburban League this year with a .393 average.

MOUNT PROSPECT hitters familiar to Palatine are J. D. Thorne and Tom Lundstedt, who had four and three hits, respectively, in the two spring clashes. Thorne was the leading hitter in Mid-Suburban play with a .471 mark.

The two high school nines each had 5-5 standards in M-SL action, finishing in a four-way jam-up for second place.

Both teams will be busy this week in league play. On Sunday, Palatine journeys to Park Ridge Red (Maine South players) with Mount Prospect entertaining Northbrook (state champ Glenbrook North players).

Monday attractions find Park Ridge Blue (Maine East) at Palatine and Northbrook at Mount Prospect. Wednesday, Palatine will host Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect will be at home against Park Ridge Blue.

Sunday games are set to begin at 1:15 with the weekday contests scheduled for 6:15.

Yankees' Rookie Lefty

FRED (FRITZ) PETERSON, an Arlington High School graduate in 1960, has fashioned five victories in his first nine pitching decisions for the New York Yankees in his rookie season in the major leagues. Heading into action this week, Peterson, a 6-0, 185-pound lefty, had worked 68 1/3 innings on a yield of 64 hits. He had struck out 33 and walked only 14. Peterson saw very little mound action as a junior at Arlington but earned all-conference recognition as a senior. The 24-year-old southpaw got his start in the Mount Prospect Little League program. To Head Track Program

Dick Ohl Takes Job At Hinsdale Central

by BOB FRISK

Dick Ohl, coach in the Paddock area for the past six years, has accepted a position on the staff at Hinsdale Central High School.

The 32-year-old Ohl, head track coach at Forest View for four seasons, will head the track and field program at Hinsdale and assist in football under veteran Harvey Dickinson.

He replaces Dale Foster, who has taken a position as assistant track coach at Northern Illinois University.

"Everything has happened so fast that it's actually hard to believe I'll be leaving the area," said Ohl who served at both Arlington and Forest View high schools as a District 214 coach.

"All of this came up in the past few weeks. I naturally hate to leave because of all my friends, but I just couldn't pass up this opportunity."

OHL WAS BACKFIELD coach at Forest View under Bob Scott in addition to his track duties. He assisted in track and football for two seasons at Arlington High School.

In his football assignment at Hinsdale Central, Ohl will inherit two potential All-Staters in 6-1, 195-pound Al Koranda, a junior, and 5-10, 195-pound John Imrie, a senior. Both boys earned all-league recognition last fall.

Koranda is touted by many observers as the finest running back to ever hit the West Suburban Conference.

"From what I understand in talking to people at Hinsdale," Ohl pointed out, "they're expecting one of their finest football teams in recent years."

OHL WILL ALSO greet some promising track and field men next spring in his first season at the helm, including a 1:55 half-miler.

Dick is stepping into the position vacated by a former teammate at Champaign (Ill.) High School.

"Dale Foster and I played in the same backfield at Champaign," Ohl recalls. "He was a halfback and I played fullback

Battles Host Maine South

Heights in Division Home Opener on Sunday

by Bob Frisk

The clubs that squared off in an exciting playoff for league legion honors last summer will get together again Friday evening in Park Ridge in one of five First Division attractions.

Park Ridge Red, better known as Maine South High School, and Arlington Heights staged a dramatic playoff in 1965 when they finished with identical 13-1 league standards.

Arlington toppled Maine South in the playoff, scoring two runs in the sixth for a 7-5 victory in the opener and tallying a pair in the seventh for a 7-6 win in the decisive struggle.

Maine packed away their uniforms after that 7-6 setback, but Arlington Heights drove to national recognition.

NOW, ONE YEAR later, the two clubs will collide again in the early stages of what promises to be a spectacular First Division title chase. Game time is 6:00 p.m. Friday at the Maine East High School diamond.

Coach Bernie Brady's Park Ridge Red outfit stamped itself as a team to watch with a classy 2-1 conquest of touted Northbrook last Sunday afternoon in the division opener.

That game served as a rematch of the 1966 state high school title game in which Glenbrook North (Northbrook) crushed Maine South, 15-2.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS was scheduled to meet this same Northbrook club last night (Wednesday) in its opening league game. Rain washed out the scheduled opener Monday with Glenview, and Arlington coach Lloyd Meyer indicated the tilt probably would be made up either next Tuesday or Thursday.

Arlington will entertain Park Ridge Blue (Maine East) Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in the league home opener. Special ceremonies are planned by Merle Guild Post 208 at Recreation Park.

A second game will be played Sunday with Dundee, but will serve strictly as an exhibition.

In other action next week Arlington Heights will tangle with Des Plaines Monday at Recreation Park and Palatine on Wednesday in Palatine.

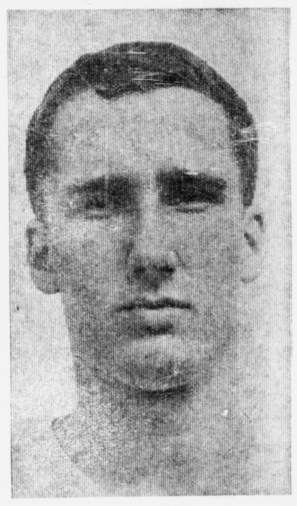
THE BATTLE WITH Maine South Friday evening promises to be well worth the trip to Park Ridge. Both clubs want this one with Maine seeking revenge for those playoff losses last summer.

Head coach Brady was slated to send his Park Ridge club against Glenview last night but told Paddock Publications Tuesday afternoon that he "probably will hold Spiggos (John) for the Arlington game."

Spiggos, a clever lefty who set down Northbrook on three hits in the opener, was 11-2 for the high school campaign.

"He's our top boy," Brady admitted, "although we also have some other decent pitchers in Chuck Richards and Rick Kilinski."

Richards, a right-hander, was 4-0 in high school, and he was on the mound in Maine's state tourney win over Alton.



TOM LeSTARGE
Versatile

ARLINGTON'S Meyer, who planned to use right-hander Jerry Donahue in the league opener last night at Northbrook, should lead with lefty John Friedl at Maine. John went seven strong innings in a win over Downers.

Donahue will probably come back for Sunday's loop affair with a dangerous Maine East entry.

Meyer was encouraged with the mound work of right-handers Steve Allen and Mark Newman and lefty Bob Young in action last week, and the veteran coach hopes to give the trio added work as the season progresses.

ALLEN WENT six strong innings against Hillside last Saturday, and Young, despite leaving early in the second game of the twin-bill with Downers, still showed some good stuff and more action on his fast ball.

Newman, who racked up two tourney wins last summer, made his first Legion hill appearance of 1966 in that second game Sunday, moving over from third base to hurl shutout ball over three frames and notch the decision.

With Newman on the mound, Meyer inserted versatile Tom LeStarge at third base. LeStarge is ready to play anywhere and already has worked at first base, second, third, and in the outfield this summer. He also knows his way around in the catching department.

LeStarge, as fans of that 1965 powerhouse recall, was the young man who poled a home run for the decisive marker in Arlington's 5-4 state title victory over Rockford.

Just how much Meyer uses Newman on the mound this summer remains to be seen, but the head man does have some flexibility on his club so can juggle his personnel around.

$50,000 Added Event

Equipoise Mile Tops Arlington Park Card

The $50,000 added Equipoise Mile, for many years one of Mid-America's top attractions for star handicap performers, provides an excellent finale Saturday as Balmoral Jockey Club concludes its 30-day session at Arlington Park.

The coordinated season then continues the following Monday, June 20, with the second phase under banner to the regular 36-day Arlington Park Jockey Club meeting.

The final week of the Balmoral session also throws the spotlight on Friday's $25,000 Arlington Classic Trial for three-year-olds over seven furlongs.

HONORING THE famed "Chocolate Soldier" of the 1930's, the Equipoise has been won in past seasons by stalwarts the likes of Swoon's Son, Bardstown, Intentionally, and the 1965 hero, Pia Star, who equalled the world's record for a mile with a blazing 1:33 1/5 clocking.

And the fine roster of possible entrants for this year's renewal includes Briardale Farms' Tosmah, Alice E. Hill's Just About, Earl Allen's Swift Ruler, Walnut Hill Farms' Yumbel, Mrs. Edith Bancroft's Hedevar, and O. T. Stable's Hempen, among others.

Tosmah, strongly expected to ship in for the race, is no stranger to Arlington Park, having pulled off a surprising victory in the 1964 edition of the Arlington Classic as the lone distaffer in the race. She later captured the Arlington Matron locally that year.

YET THE five-year-old mare is accustomed to beating male opposition with regularity, and has already posted scores in the Barbara Fritchie, John B. Campbell, and Colonial Handicaps this season along with a second place finish in the Columbiana and third in the Black Helen.

Over-all, Tosmah's record establishes her as one of the better mares in history. The well-bred daughter of Tim Tam — Cosmah sports a flashy bankroll exceeding the $600,000 marker. Other major accomplishments on Tosmah's ledger include wins in such prestigious events as the Frizette, Mermaid, Quaker City, and Maskette.

Sammy Boulmetis, one of racing's great veteran riders, will handle the assignment aboard Tosmah in the Equipoise Mile.

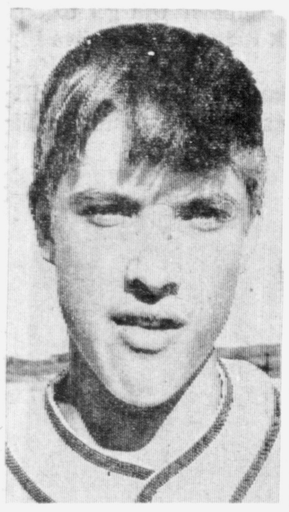
Four-Baggers Help Palatine to 2 Wins

Palatine's Legion crew came out of last week's activities on the good end of things, winning two games, dropping one and having two others postponed.

Manager Terry Gellinger's gang used the long ball at the right time in picking up its two wins. In both scraps, timely home runs in the latter stages of the contest proved decisive.

Palatine tangled with La-Grange last Saturday and came out on the long end of a 4-1 score.

IRV HAHNFELDT, locked in a tight pitchers' duel for the first four frames, was the beneficiary of a two-run homer by Wes Dixon in the fourth which broke a 1-1 tie. Hahnfeldt got the win with relief help from Barry Yurtis in the fifth and Ken Johnson in the sixth and seventh.



WES DIXON
The Long Ball

Palatine added an insurance run after Hahnfeldt's departure, setting the final count at 4-1.

A tough Dundee nine posted its second win of the season over Palatine last Wednesday (June 8). Dundee emerged with a 3-1 triumph in a five-inning affair shortened by a late start.

NORM LOHSE hurled the first four stanzas and swallowed the loss despite a creditable performance. All three of Dundee's tallies were registered in the third inning.

Dick Strauss assumed the mound chores for Palatine in the fifth and finished with three strong innings, but unfortunately his teammates' bats were silent.

On Monday, June 6, Gellinger's boys rolled to a 10-3 win over Downers Grove.

HAHNFELDT started and held Downers scoreless for the first four frames but was kayoed in the fifth when he walked two and served up a home run ball and single, good for 3 markers.

These runs, however, later proved harmless as Palatine broke the game open in the fifth. A three-run homer by Wes Dixon and another four-bagger by Johnson were the difference.

Johnson finished up on the hill, allowing no further runs.

A Palatine-Evanston conflict, slated for last night, was called off by Evanston due to unforeseen circumstances. The contest has not yet been rescheduled.

Heavy rains washed out the team's scheduled District Nine debut at Morton Grove last Monday. The scuffle has been reset for next Tuesday.

Equipoise on Arlington Card

for owner Alice E. Hill of New York. The four-year-old gelding now owns a lifetime bankroll hovering near the $125,000 marker.

Primarily a front-runner, who may find a mile to be his best distance, Just About went unraced as a two-year-old, and posted five triumphs last year before his current standout campaign.

With a victory in the New Orleans Handicap at Fair Grounds and runner-up finishes in the Donn and John B. Campbell, the latter by a nose to Tosmah, Just About has firmly established himself as one of the nation's very best. He comes off a wire to wire jaunt over 7 furlongs at Arlington Friday, June 3 in 1:21 1/5, just a fifth of a second off the track mark, and the dark bay blazed the first six panels in 1:08 1/5.

SWIFT RULER is currently the Midwest's most consistent stakes performer, by virtue of his wins in the Razorback, Oaklawn, Ben-Ali, and Illinois Handicaps. The four-year-old sensation has thusly upped his bank ledger to $231,815.

He initially became a stakes winner at Arlington as a two-year-old, taking the Hyde Park and later adding the To Market and Hawthorne Juvenile. The following season the Sir Ruler colt took the Arkansas Derby and came home second in the Swaps, Oil Capitol, and Blue Grass. Larry Spraker is slated to handle the riding duties.

Yumbel is set for a heavy summer campaign, and was the Chilean stakes champion of 1965. The five-year-old posted seven wins in nine starts in his native land, at varying distances, while toting as much as 139 lbs.

A MULTIPLE winner at Arlington last year, Hedevar nearly pulled off a major upset in running a close second to Bold Lad in the Metropolitan at Aqueduct May 30. The colt is trained by the capable Frank Whiteley, Jr., who has conditioned stakes greats Chieftain and Tom Rolfe in recent seasons.

Comeback ace Hempen, with two consecutive wins, including a most impressive jaunt in the Olympia Handicap June 4, is also likely to contest the Equipoise. The four-year-old has been plagued by injuries throughout most of his career.

The Classic Trial is a newly designated race as part of Arlington's eight week period featuring standout three-year-old racing, with stakes totaling $405,000. The first of the star-studded events for sophomores was held last week with the Swaps Handicap on the turf. Bwamazon Farms' Jersey Derby winner Creme dela Creme and Scottdale Farms' Better Sea are among the likely entries to the Trial, forerunner to the Classis Saturday, June 25.

Big Opening Inning Helps Prospect, 8-4

by LARRY EVERHART

Mount Prospect's Legion ball club got a late start this season, but when they did get around to playing they wasted little time showing their ability.

Striking for five runs in the first inning, and benefiting from strong mound stints by three pitchers, Mount Prospect coasted to an 8-4 victory over visiting Hillside in its 1966 debut last Sunday.

The Prospect crew also impressed at the plate, making the most of their eight hits, half of which went for extra bases. Every starter was on base and only two failed to hit safely.

PARTICULARLY encouraging to Manager Mark Thorne was the hitting of catcher Tom Lundstedt, who accounted for two of his team's four extra-base blasts with triples in the first and second innings.

Except for a rocky second inning when he encountered control problems, starting and winning pitcher Dave Kingman turned in a strong four-inning stint, striking out seven, walking three, and allowing two hits. Dave departed with his team ahead 7-2.

J. D. Thorne, ace hurler on the Knight varsity this spring, worked the fifth and sixth flawlessly, setting down six opponents in order and whiffing three. Mike Salata was touched for two runs in the seventh but finished the game.

PROSPECT BOMBED Hillside starter Mike Koc in the big first frame. Lundstedt's triple, a double by left fielder Bob Robinson, and a leadoff single by second baseman Paul Peterson were the hits. Three walks also helped before Schulte relieved Koc and put out the fire.

Hillside fought back for two runs of its own in the second. First baseman Tom Gehrke led off with a hit. Two free passes and some sloppy fielding then accounted for two markers.

After Lundstedt ripped another three-bagger in the bottom of the second and scored on a wild pitch, both hurlers settled down and turned in creditable jobs.

SCHULTE WAS touched for singles by Maury Gallagher and Kingman in the third. Gallagher scored on Tom Manderscheid's groundout.

Mount Prospect's final marker came in the sixth. Manderscheid, who patrols the center pasture for Thorne's gang, greeted reliever Gehrke with a long triple. "Mandy" rode home on another wild pitch.

Hillside closed out the scoring in the seventh with a pair of tallies off Salata. Steve Pultorah walked and was chased home on Jerry Malina's triple. After a walk sandwiched between two flyouts, Malina scored on a ground ball.

YMCA Gymnasts Have Big Season

"Chicagoland Champions" is the proud title of 45 boys and girls on the Northwest Suburban YMCA Gymnastics Team. Both the boys and girls teams accomplished this feat in only their second year of competition.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Ruth Ann McBride, 216 N. Brighton Lane, Arlington Heights, the girls may also have won the State title — final results have not yet been released. The boys finished third in the State Meet.

YMCA gymnastics competition is held by age groups for both boys and girls. Youngsters become members of the teams by progressing through a variety of classes offered throughout the year.

TOP TEAM members in the Midget Division (10 yrs. and under) this year included Nancy Morava, Prospect Heights; Jim Cassidy, Arlington Heights; and Cynthia Nesvig, Palatine.

Boys and girls in the Prep Division (11 & 12 yr. olds) easily won State titles and produced an outstanding array of State Champions. These were Jeff Farris and Paul Strozewski, Palatine; Dave Zonsius and Mary Cronin, Arlington Heights; Robin Mells, Mount Prospect; and Ellen Friedman, Highland Park. Robin was State All-Around Champion.

Easily the outstanding Junior (13-14 yr. olds) was Gary Morava, Prospect Heights, who was State All-Around Champion. Top girls included Ruth Ann Gabler, Arlington Heights, and Gail Alten, Mount Prospect.

Sue Holyoke, Glenview, and Carol Parsons, Arlington Heights, led the Intermediate Girls (15-17 yr. olds) to a State title. Carol returned home with the State All-Around Championship.

Team members will continue to practice this summer each Monday and Thursday from 11:30 to 1:00 p.m.

Cycling Season Opens Thursday

Next Thursday evening, June 23, will mark the opening of the season for the Northbrook Cycling Club.

The Cycling committee announced that races will be held every Thursday night, except August 18, up to and including Sept. 1.

The 1966 National Championship amateur bike races this year will be held at the Meadowhill Park Race Track in Northbrook on August 19-21. On Aug. 20 WFDL, Channel 32, will provide TV coverage.

IN PREPARATION for the championships, the quarter-mile banked track has been freshly blacktopped, new lights have been installed, and a new timing device will be used. A new chalet has also been completed.

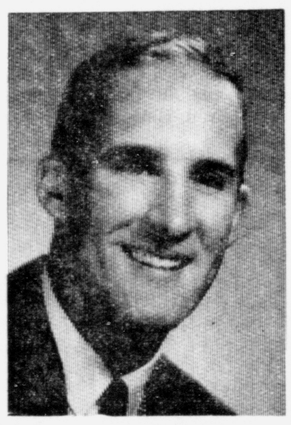
In addition to the regular Thursday night races, there will also be special afternoon races, including a 100-kilometer race on July 3rd. This will be the first such race held at the track, and the Northbrook Cycling Committee hopes to make it an annual event.

The Midwest Sprint Championships will be held at the track on Aug. 14. The last special event will be held on the final day of the season, Labor Day.

Park District workmen are putting the final touches on the grandstands which should provide plenty of seats for spectators. The track also has ample parking space.

Anyone wishing further information may call Paul Zimbrakos at BE 7-7414 or ST 2-8100.

Prospect Coaches



Third In A Series

Jim Wright will become the new varsity tennis coach at Prospect High School next year. He will also be an assistant football coach.

Wright replaces former Knights net director Chuck Sandine who has accepted an administrative post at Northwestern University. Sandine led the Prospect tennis team to a 12-3 dual record and third place Mid-Suburban League finish during the past season.

A graduate of Wheaton Central High School, Wright received his undergraduate training at Oberlin College in Ohio. He received his Master of Arts Degree this June from the University of Illinois.

Wright played four years at quarterback on the Oberlin varsity football team and was also a four year member of the Oberlin tennis squad. He served as assistant freshman grid coach at the U. of I. for two years.

Wright and his wife, Janice Kay, have no children.

For Tourney Loss

Hillside Gains Some Revenge

Hillside, one of the outfits ousted by Arlington Heights along the American Legion tournament trail last summer, gained a small measure of revenge last Saturday afternoon at the Arlington high school diamond.

With Marty Scheer firing a strong two-hitter over nine innings Hillside shaded Coach Loyd Meyer's squad, 2-1, an identical score by which Arlington topped Hillside in the championship game of the 1965 Cook County playoffs in Chicago Heights.

Scheer, who also pitched against Arlington in that '65 playoff, didn't yield a hit until the seventh when Tom LeStarge slapped out a clean single.

THAD WOODARD had the other Arlington safety, a booming triple to left in the eighth that sent across the only Heights run.

The two clubs had agreed to play nine innings.

Three errors and two hits gave Hillside its only two runs in the first inning.

Right hander Jerry Donahue started on the hill for Arlington Heights and yielded the mound chores to Steve Allen in the fourth. Donahue absorbed the loss, his first after two wins, but he deserved a better fate.

Allen was superb in his six innings of work. Steve hurled shutout baseball and allowed only three hits in his strongest effort of the young Legion season.

IN OTHER ACTION last week Arlington shelled Dundee, 15-3, in a game cut short after only three innings — for Dundee's sake.

Lefty Bob Young got the win for an Arlington team that scored five runs in the first, seven in the second, and three in the third.

Long blows for the winners were supplied by Brad Somers with a homer and double, Woodard with a triple, and Young with a triple.

Arlington's game with Western Springs, scheduled for last Thursday evening, was postponed because of the weather. No decision has been made on a possible makeup date.

BRIAN ROONEY turned in two strong pitching efforts over the past week for the Lions summer baseball entry of Arlington Heights. Rooney, who will be a junior at St. Viator High School in the fall, fired a five-inning, one-hitter in the Lions' 3-0 victory over North Shore and came back with a 2-1 gem Sunday against La Grange. See separate story on another busy week for the Arlington Heights squad. (Staff photo)

Rooney Cops Both Hill Decisions

Lions Register Two Wins in Busy Week of Baseball Play

Only a tornado and heavy rains and the failure of one team to even show up kept the Lions of Arlington Heights from playing games over six consecutive days in the latest week of baseball activity.

Coach Larry Nomellini's busy outfit did manage to work in six contests for the week, thanks to back-to-back doubleheaders, and the Lions emerged with two victories.

Brian Rooney, who will be a junior at St. Viator High School in the fall, was on the hill for both Lion wins, handcuffing the North Shore entry with only one hit over five innings in a 3-0 conquest and then stopping laGrange (Lyons) Sunday afternoon, 2-1.

THE TWO VICTORIES on the field and a forfeit win over a Fox Lake nine that didn't bother to show up pushed the Lions' season mark to 5-5-1. Nomellini's crew is faced with another busy week, weather permitting.

The Lions were scheduled to battle Prospect and Glenbard West earlier in the week with a home game tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 against Hillside. Niles West comes to town Friday evening with Park Ridge Blue (Maine East) here Saturday for a twin-bill starting at 1:30 p.m.

The Lions will entertain the Cobras Sunday in a doubleheader at 1:00 and journey to Mount Prospect next Tuesday evening for another non-league headliner.

ROONEY'S NIFTY one-hitter against North Shore got the Lions off to a fast start last week. The right-hander struck out six, walked two, and never found himself in serious trouble.

The Lions scored a single run in the second with two outs. A hit batsman, stolen base, and single by Dick Aylward pushed the first runner home.

In the fifth the locals added two insurance runs on an error, hit batsman, double steal, squeeze bunt single by Bill Wasilewski, and error off the bat of Pat Loughman.

HEAVY RAINS washed out the Lions' game with Hillside last Thursday, but the Arlington entry was back in action Friday at Des Plaines.

Host Maine West scored two runs in the first inning and held on for a 2-1 victory over the Lions.

Only a wild streak in the first inning marred an otherwise capable effort by Lion lefthander Dan Klingberg. The St. Viator junior struck out five and walked five but four of those free passes came in the opening stanza.

BILL GASTORF, who threw a no-hitter at St. Viator in district action this year, worked three innings for Des Plaines and got the win.

The Lions scored their only run in the fifth on a walk to John Wendell, wild pitch, and squeeze with Loughman at the plate.

Tom Collins ripped a drive to deep left-center in the seventh that "looked like it was in the hole for extra bases" according to Nomellini, but the blast was hauled down.

Klingberg and shortstop John Brawley had the only hits for the Lions.

MAINE EAST leveled lefty Mike Miller for 13 hits in the opening half of a doubleheader Saturday in Park Ridge and coasted to a 15-4 victory.

Miller went the route but ran into trouble immediately in the opening stanza by walking the first two hitters. Five runs eventually scored thanks to the walks, two errors, and three hits.

The Lions scored one in the second on a walk, wild pitch, and single by Loughman and tallied three in the sixth with Miller's double the big blow. Frank Patzke and Brawley also had hits in the three run outburst.

BRAWLEY, who will be a soph at St. Viator, rapped out two hits for the losers.

In the second game Saturday Maine South, runnerup in the state prep baseball tourney, dumped the Lions, 6-1, scoring five times in the first two innings off Tom MacDonald.

Brawley, the regular shortstop, relieved MacDonald and worked the final two stanzas in his first mound work of the summer season.

KLINGBERG had the only Lion safety in the game, a fourth inning single that figured in the lone offensive demonstration for the losers.

In a doubleheader Sunday at home right-hander Rooney checked LaGrange in the first game, 2-1, scattering six hits. but the visitors rebounded for a 7-3 triumph in the windup.

Rooney struck out four as he picked up his second victory of the week. He got all the offensive help he needed in the first inning on a single by Loughman, triple by Tom Collins down the left field line, and sacrifice fly by Patzke.

Tom Collins was the starter and loser in the second game, yielding 13 hits. Tom was down 2-1 when the visitors started to unleash some fireworks in the fifth.

The Lions scored one in the third on a walk to Rooney and singles by Dan Collins and Miller and tallied a pair in the seventh on a walk, error, infield out, and single by Tom Collins.

Patzke lashed out three hits for the Lions' top single game performance of the young season.

The ability to bounce back against tremendous odds, a distinguishing characteristic of many of Arlington's victories last summer in the rush to national legion baseball honors, was in evidence again last Sunday afternoon at Recreation Park.

A four-run rally in the final inning capped by Doug Fink's clutch two-run single to center with the bases loaded gave Coach Lloyd Meyer's outfit a sweep of a non-league doubleheader with visiting Downers Grove North.

Fink's line shot to center, his first hit since he cleared the bases with a double in the season opener, chased John Loughman and Jerry Donahue across with the decisive runs in a thrilling 6-5 victory.

ARLINGTON had grabbed the opener 5-1 behind left-hander John Friedl's route-going, three-hit performance.

The doubleheader served as a final tuneup for Arlington Heights in preparation for the opening of the 18-game league scramble.

Until those seventh inning fireworks Sunday Arlington fans didn't have much to shout about in that second game. Joe Radosevich, Downers' regular catcher, handcuffed the locals with only one hit, a single to right by Mark Newman in the third, over the first six stanzas. And then the fun began.

THAD WOODARD walked as the Arlington leadoff man in the seventh but didn't stay on first long as Newman rocked a triple to deep right-center. Loughman walked and stole second to put two runners in scoring position for left fielder Donahue.

Jerry slapped one of Radosevich's deliveries to right field for a single, sending Newman home and Loughman to third, and then sailed to second on the throw.

Tom LeStarge lined a sizzler to third for the first out, but Brad Somers coaxed the Downers right-hander for a walk to load the bases. Fink's shot to center sent the tying and winning runs home.

ARLINGTON HAD taken a 2-0 lead in the opening inning of the second game without the aid of a base hit.

Woodard reached on an error and went to second on a wild pitch. Newman drew a walk and then Loughman dropped down a bunt that was played to third with no success, loading the bases.

A fielder's choice cut down Woodard at the plate, but LeStarge walked to force home Newman. Loughman scored on an error.

That was the extent of Arlington's scoring until the decisive seventh.

LEFTY BOB Young started on the hill for the locals and got through the first two frames without any trouble. His problems started with two outs in the third.

Four straight singles, two that didn't get past the infield, gave Downers its first two runs in the third. Three singles, a walk, and an error led to three more runs in the fourth.

Young departed after working four frames and Newman took over in his first mound appearance of the season.

Newman, who earned all-league honors on the hill for Wheeling in the spring and who fashioned two crucial tourney wins for Arlington Heights in the legion playoffs last summer, didn't yield a run over the final three innings. He allowed two hits and walked three in claiming the victory.

A DISTANCE effort by left-hander Friedl, a soph at Northern Illinois University, was the encouraging item in the opening win Sunday.

Showing no arm problems over seven innings, Friedl set down Downers with three singles. He struck out three and walked four.

John couldn't relax in his outing, however, as he faced baserunners in five of the seven stanzas, twice coming up with bases-loaded situations. The only Downers' run was unearned.

ARLINGTON got to right-hander Rich Ulrich for two runs in the first on a walk to Newman, single by Loughman, error, and wild pitch.

Meyer's crew added another marker in the fifth with Loughman launching the drive with a double to left. Bruce Weber reached on a fielder's choice with Loughman beating the throw to third.

The runners held as Donahue grounded to short, and Loughman was nailed at the plate on LeStarge's infield tap. Weber scored on a balk.

In the sixth Woodard reached on an error and dashed around thanks to two more miscues. Loughman lined a single to center for his third hit, went to second on an error and his blow, and came around on two wild pitches.

Loughman's three sharp hits, two singles and a double, represented the best effort at the plate by an Arlington player in the young season. It was encouraging for John because he had fanned three times the previous day against Hillside.

Golf Course Now Open Near Dundee

The newest public golf course in the northwest suburbs opened its full 18 holes this week and is offering a free nine hole bonus. The Randall Oaks course near Dundee put its front nine in play last fall, but has just opened the back nine.

Until June 19, golfers may play all 18 holes for the price of nine. To introduce the new links, the Dundee Township Park District is making no charge for the back nine to golfers who play the front layout. Greens fees are $2.00 on weekdays and $2.50 on weekends.

Randall Oaks is on Randall Road, one quarter mile north of Route 72. It is two miles west of Dundee.

The course has large greens, ranging in size from 5,500 to 9,500 square feet. The greens are well protected by sand traps and there are two lakes between the fairways. The front nine is rolling and tree lined while the back course is relatively flat and open.

Reservations are not necessary, because waits to tee off are rare, but reserved tee times can be obtained by telephone. There is a driving range, practice green and picnic grove. A barnyard zoo and playground equipment in the picnic grove make it an excellent place for a family outing.

Bainbridge Gains On Pace-Setters In Prospect Golf

Captain Jim Scott and his Bainbridge teammates roared to an 8-2 victory over Clayton Courts, leaping into third place and closing in on the leaders of the Mount Prospect Friday night Golf League.

Don Odbert and Herman Falldin, who shot gross 39's, were the big point-makers for Bainbridge as they humbled Jim Insolia and Dan Novak. Clayton Courts' Captain Ray Felitto and Jim Murphy salvaged the only points for their team with a tie and 1-up win over Scott and Bob Gits, respectively.

The strong Pro Sport Shop team maintained its first-place position as Don Dampbell, George Miscevich, Charles Kovacs and Jack Buyers garnered important points in their narrow 5½-4½ win over Doyno Motors.

JOE WYLIE and his Esquire Barbers held the second-place Meeske Super Market to a 5-5 standoff. Yngue Bloomquist and Frank Maher scored all the points for Meeske's and averted a drop in the standings for the Marketmen.

In the other matches, Arlington Camera shop took a photo-finish 6-4 victory over Kruse's, F.B.K. Realtors chopped down Willie Fuel and Lumber 6-4, Keefer's Pharmacy tied Mount Prospect State Bank, and Pete's Standard Service gassed up with a 5½-4½ upset over George S. May Co.

Two of the night's three birdies were scored on the difficult par-3 no. 16 as Don Bertrand and Don Odbert placed their tee shots within one-putt range of the cup. Joe Pash ran in a 50-foot chip shot to register a 3 on the par-4 ninth hole.

Sharing the low gross honors with Odbert and Falldin were Al Gilso, Dick Haden, and Joe Wylie.

Announce Arlington Park Stakes Program For 1966

Director of Racing Larry Marsh today released the roster of 16 stakes which will highlight the regular 36-day Arlington Park Jockey Club and the six-day Chicago Tribune Charities Inc. meeting comprising the second phase of the coordinated 103-day season beginning on Monday, June 20, at Arlington Park.

The balance of the coordinated stakes schedule, embracing the final 31-day Washington Park meeting through Mon., Sept. 12, will be announced shortly, Marsh added.

Headlining the line-up is the recently announced $300,000 added Mid-America Triple, coupling the $100,000 added Arlington Classic on Sat., June 25, the $100,000 added Chicagoan on Sat., July 9, and the climactic $100,000 added American Derby on Sat., Aug. 6—Chicago's own three-race cluster designed to settle the 1966 three-year-old championship.

THE NEW $50,000 added Assault, at one mile for three-year-olds on Sat., July 23, also will be featured during the Arlington Park phase.

Two-year-olds will be spotlighted in no less than five events, including the $50,000 added Arch Ward on Fri., Aug. 5, for colts and geldings, and the $25,000 added Majorette for juvenile fillies on Mon., Aug. 1.

The $30,000 added Hyde Park, the $20,000 added Joliet and the $20,000 added Mademoiselle for fillies are also on the docket for the two-year-old division.

THE COORDINATED meeting's emphasis on two-year-old racing is aimed at the World's Richest Twins, the $360,000 Arlington-Washington Futurity and the $200,000 Arlington-Washington Lassie for filliees, both programmed during the final Washington Park Jockey Club segment.

The Arlington Park session is launched on Mon., June 20, by the $20,000 added Mademoiselle at 5½ furlongs for two-year-old fillies. Marsh reminds that all paid up Lassie nominees are automatically eligible for the Mademoiselle.

Same principle applied to the Wed., June 22 renewal of the $20,000 added Joliet Stakes for two-year-olds at 5½ furlongs, with all paid up Futurity and Lassie nominees nominated free.

THE FOURTH OF July holiday once again headlines the traditional $50,000 added Stars & Stripes Handicap for three-year-olds and upward at 1⅛ miles on the grass course.

Fillies and mares also will have their go over the infield green in the $40,000 added Beverly on Sat., July 16, at 1 1/16 miles. Three-year-old fillies face their major test in the $50,000 added Pucker Up on Wed., Aug. 3 to be decided at a flat mile on the main course this season.

The always colorful Arlington Handicap has been endowed with $50,000 in added money and will be contested at a flat mile on the main course for three-year-olds and upward, Marsh said.

Moler's Golf Squad Holds T-Bird to Tie

Thunderbird Bowl, leader of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League Tuesday division for the past month, was held to a 5-5 tie last week by second-division Moler's Barber Shop.

Their point margin, however, over second-place Mount Prospect Electric Construction Co. remained virtually the same as the Electricians were held to a narrow 5½-4½ victory by Kersting's Garden Center.

One new name did show up among the league leaders as Kruse's Tavern supplanted Licht's Paint Store in third place. Kruse's achieved the elevation by scoring a 6-4 victory over Wille Lumber and Fuel while Licht's Paint Store suffered a 3½-6½ defeat in their contest with Keefer's Pharmacy.

WITH THE exception of Thunderbird Bowl, who holds a fairly commanding six point advantage, none of the first division teams can feel too secure in their positions, separated as they are by less than 4½ points.

Crowding into the first division after scoring the most decisive victory of the evening, a 7½-2½ win over Carter Music Shop, was Busse-Biermann Hardware Store, finally showing its muscle after a frustrating first half season which saw them in last position after the first night of play.

In the remaining match of the evening's half-dozen contests, Illinois Range made a supreme effort to get out of last place as they challenged Kirchhoff Insurance, but their efforts fell short as Kirchhoff came through with a 6-4 victory which moved the winners up a notch and left Illinois Range still stuck on the bottom.

LOW SHOOTERS for the night were Ron Scherer, Ed Lauing and Rollie Becker all with two-over-par 37's. Credit for "round of the night" would have to go to Carl Lindquist of Keefer's Pharmacy. Lindquist, an "E" player carrying a 19 handicap, scored a noteworthy 49 over the second nine, giving him a net score of 30.

Birdies were reported by Bob Lee No. 7, Rollie Becker No. 8, R. Hawkinson No. 9, H. Ross No. 12, J. Driscoll No. 10 and 15, Geo. Kratsch No. 13 and 15, and Walt Lyman No. 12, 13 and 15.

Coloramic Leads in YMCA Links League

After seven nights of play, Coloramic Tile has an impressive 5-point lead over its nearest rival, Louie's Barber Shop, in the Northwest Suburban Y.M.C.A. Twilight League.

Tied for third place with 16 points each are Allen's Store for Men and River Rand Barber Shop.

Again no sensational scores were posted for the evening, although Ed Then's respectable 38 was good for low gross honors. Following him were Max Pemoller and Harry Brodski with a 40 and 41, respectively.

LOW NET honors were shared in a four-way-tie at 33 by Hank Shaller, Dick Tank, Russ Lucksinger, and Don Vertone.

Birdie shooters included Ed Then who recorded two — one on No. 1 and on on No. 9 — Dick Dixon (No. 1) and Len Franklin (No. 8).

Best single shot of the evening was a gem turned in by Ray Nelson in a giveaway battle between him and Dick Hoyt. Although the match was over at the time, Nelson on No. 18 succeeded in driving the ball over one side of the creek-bank, plunk on a large rock and up and over the other bank.

Dick Hoyt's only comment was, "It only proved to me once again that I lost the match fair and square and could never have won it anyway."

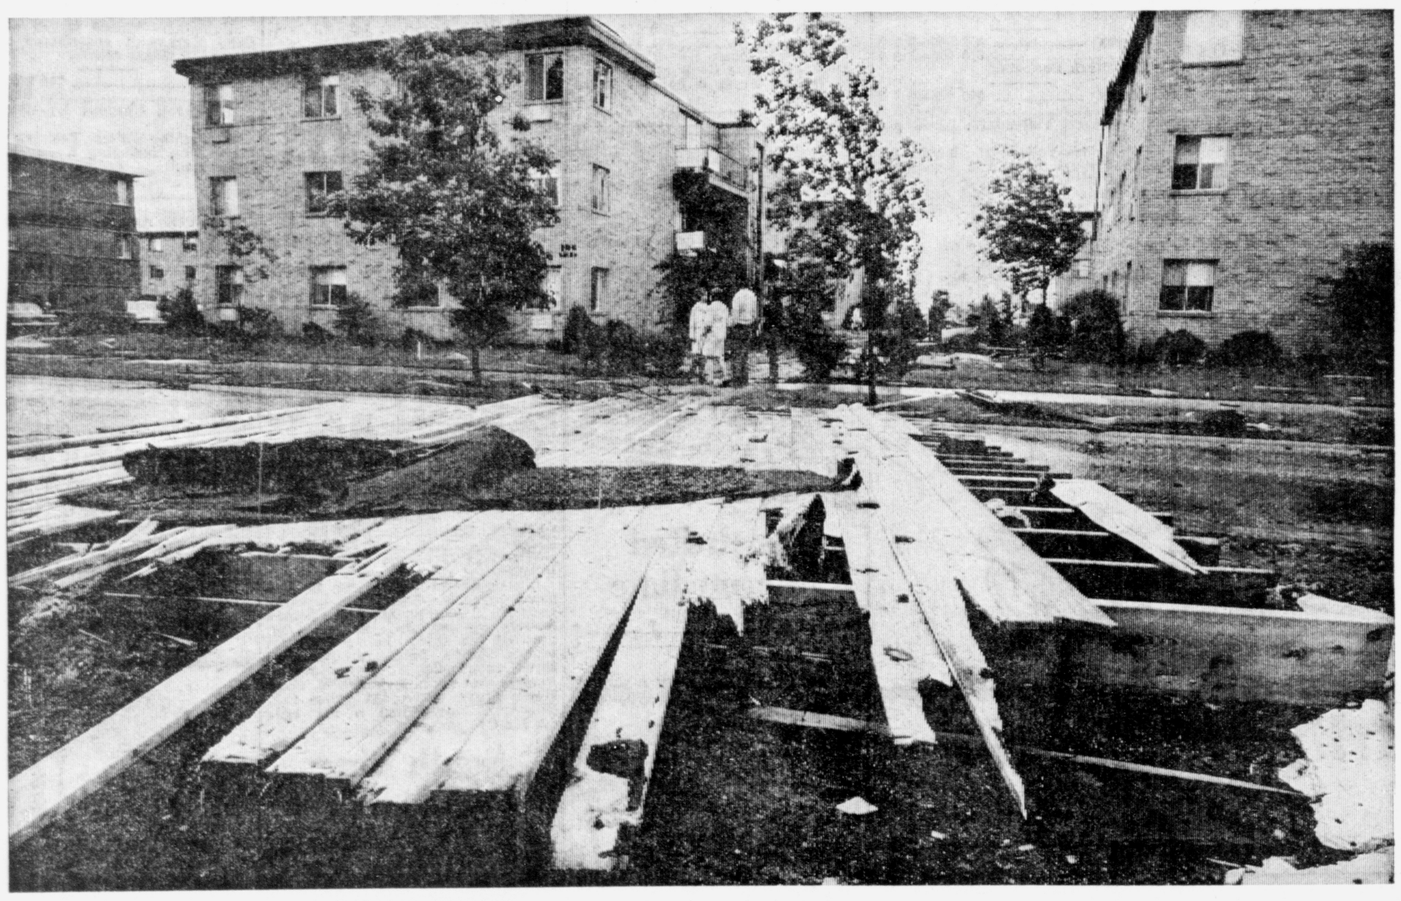
Roof crashed down front of building at Arlington Garden Apartments.

Arlington Heights, hardest hit by last Thursday's early morning tornado, lost $150,000 worth of trees.

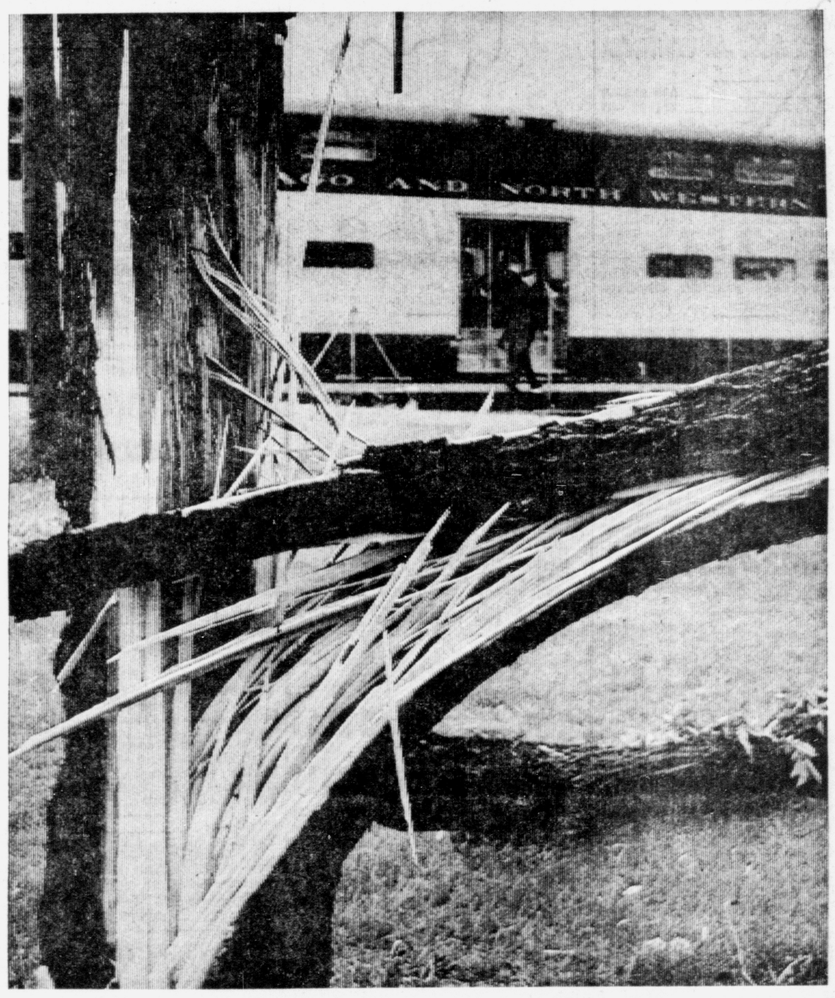
Tornado Brings Disaster

Picture Pages

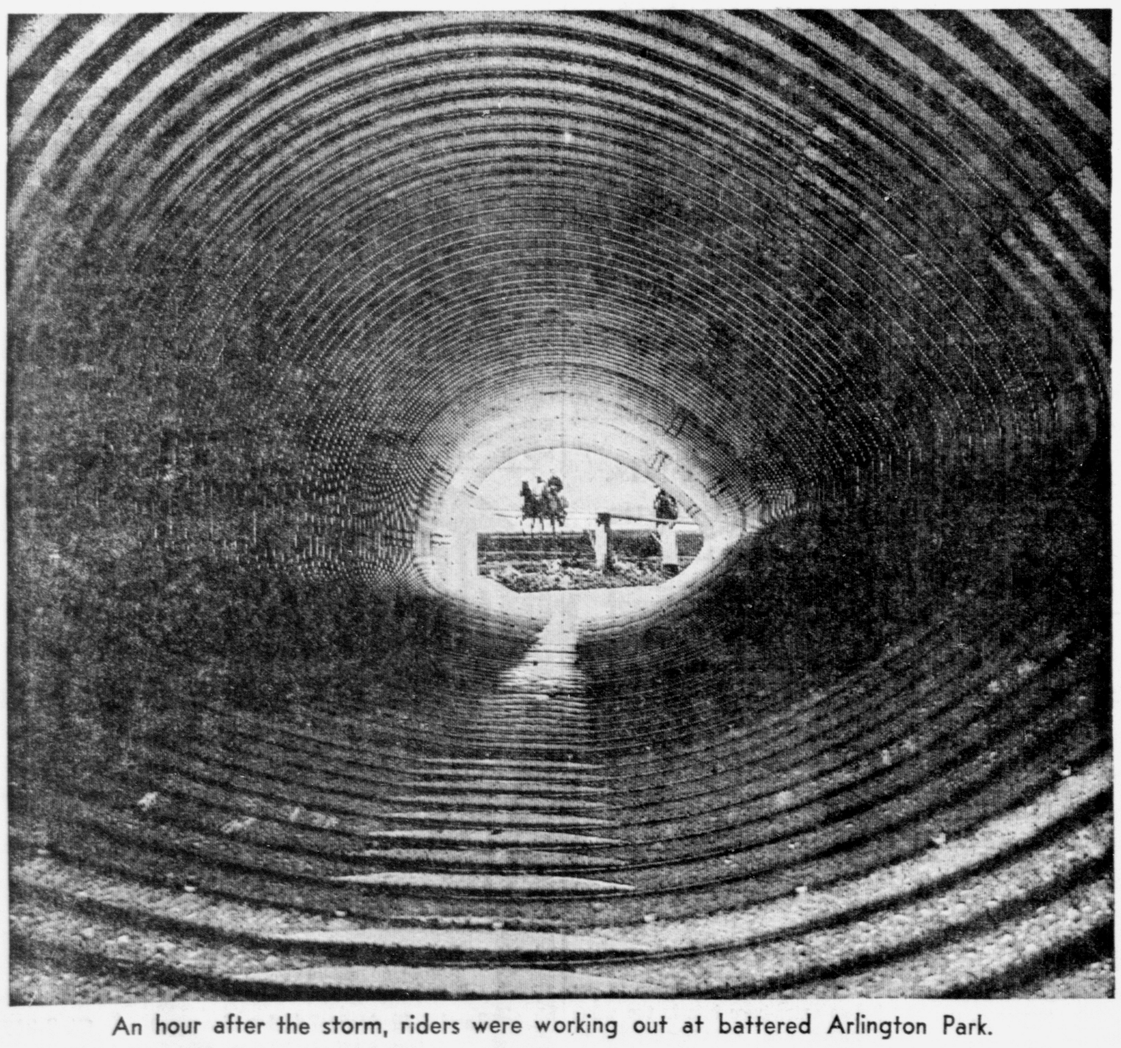
by Staff Photographers Larry Cameron, Tom Grieger, Bob Finch and Mike Seeling



Residents of Salem Lane Apartments, grateful for safety, gathered to view the damage.



Caught up in the chaos, late commuters raced to their trains.

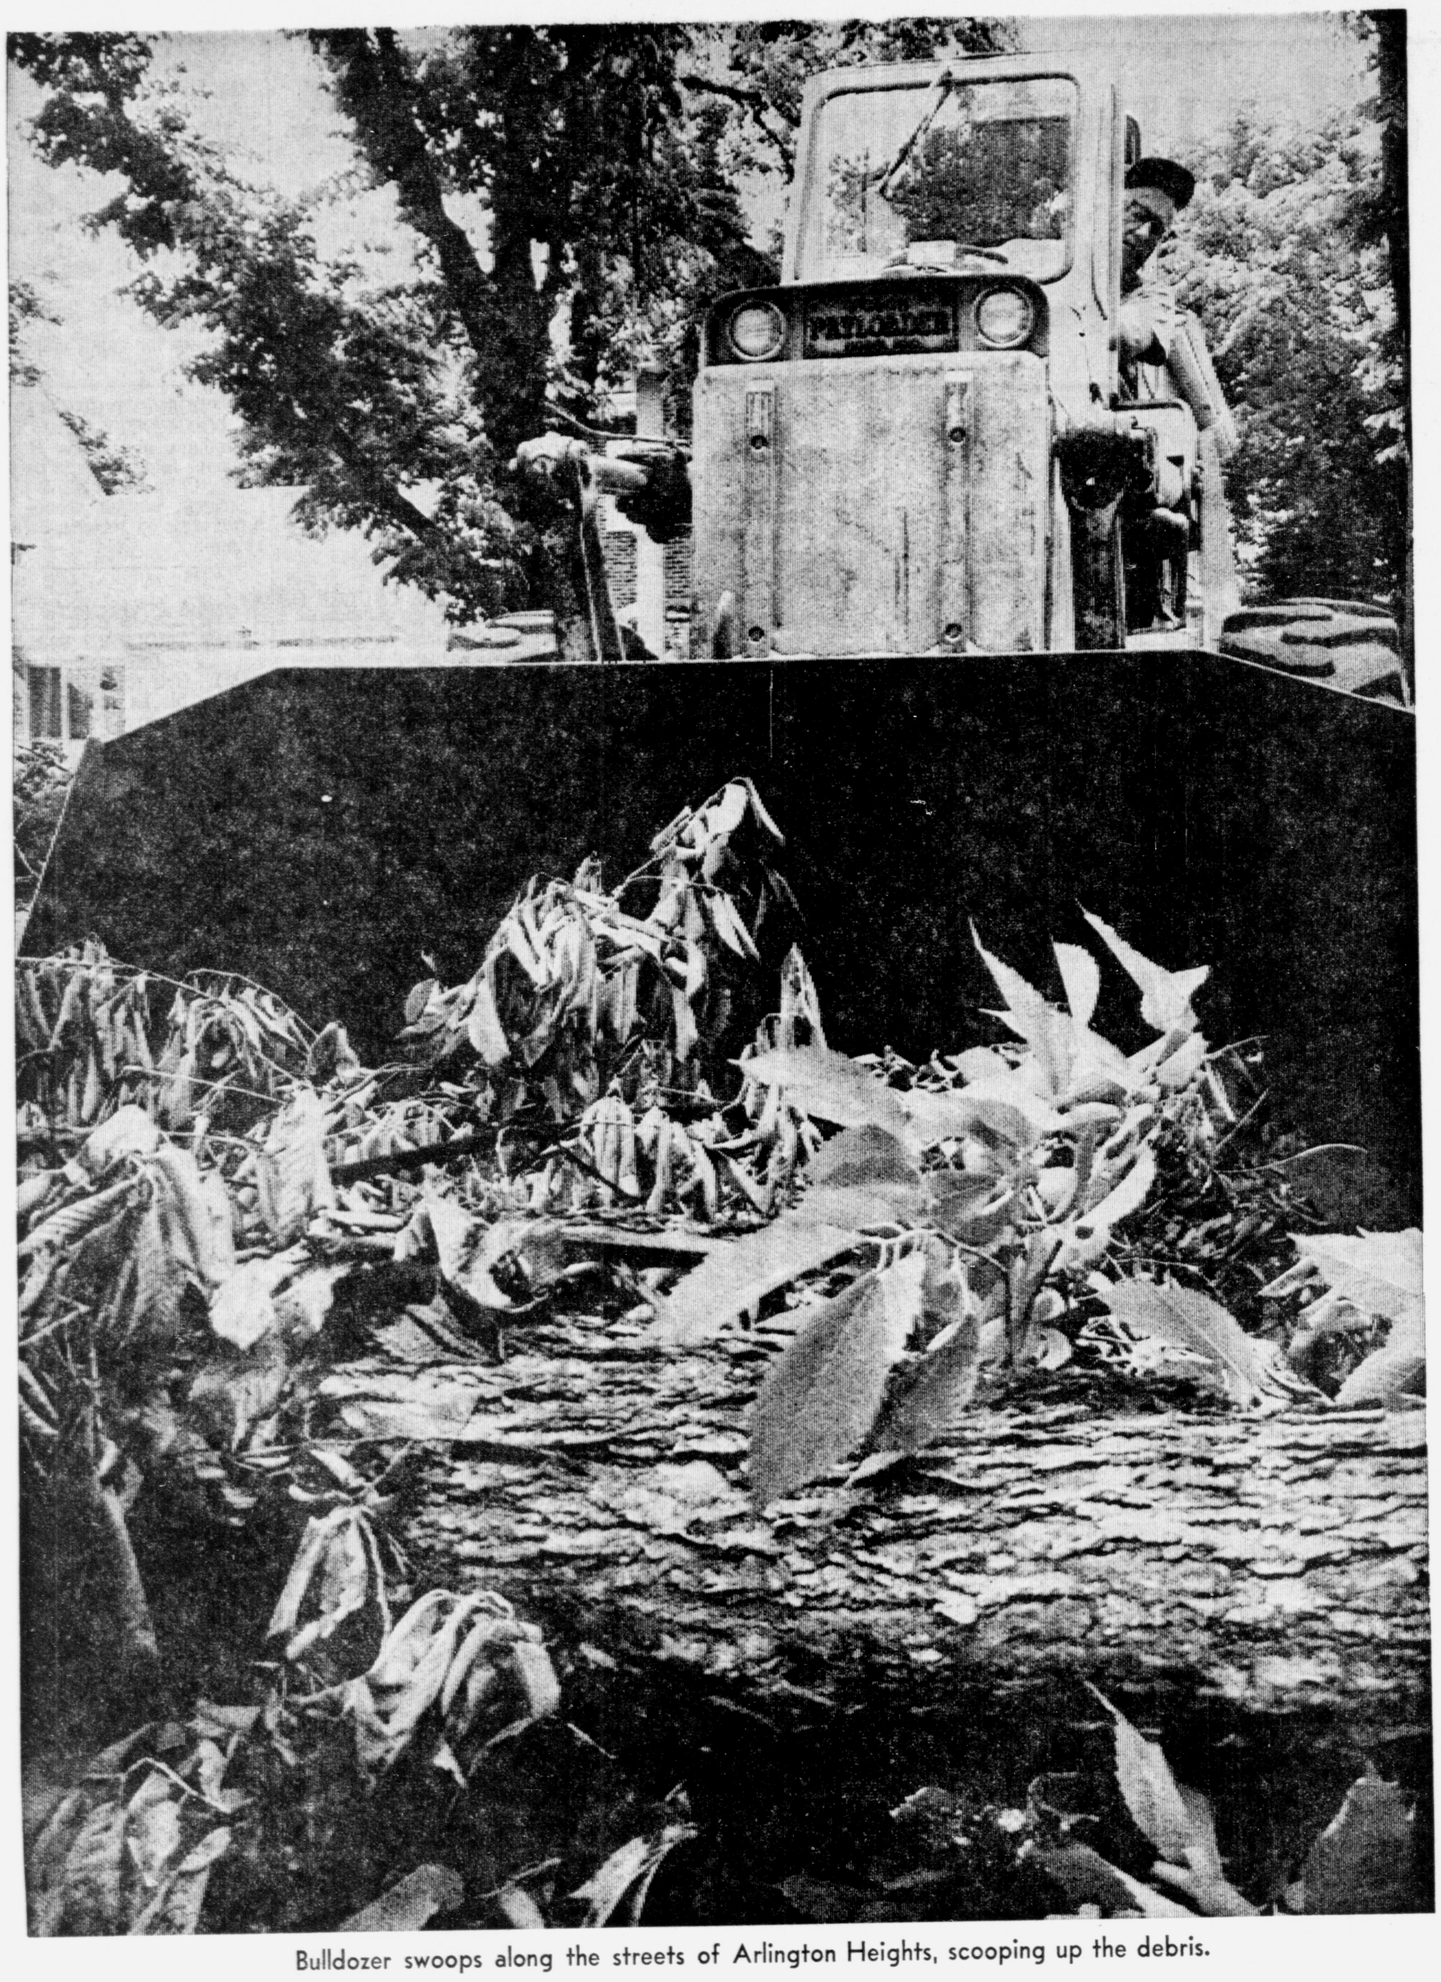


An hour after the storm, riders were working out at battered Arlington Park.

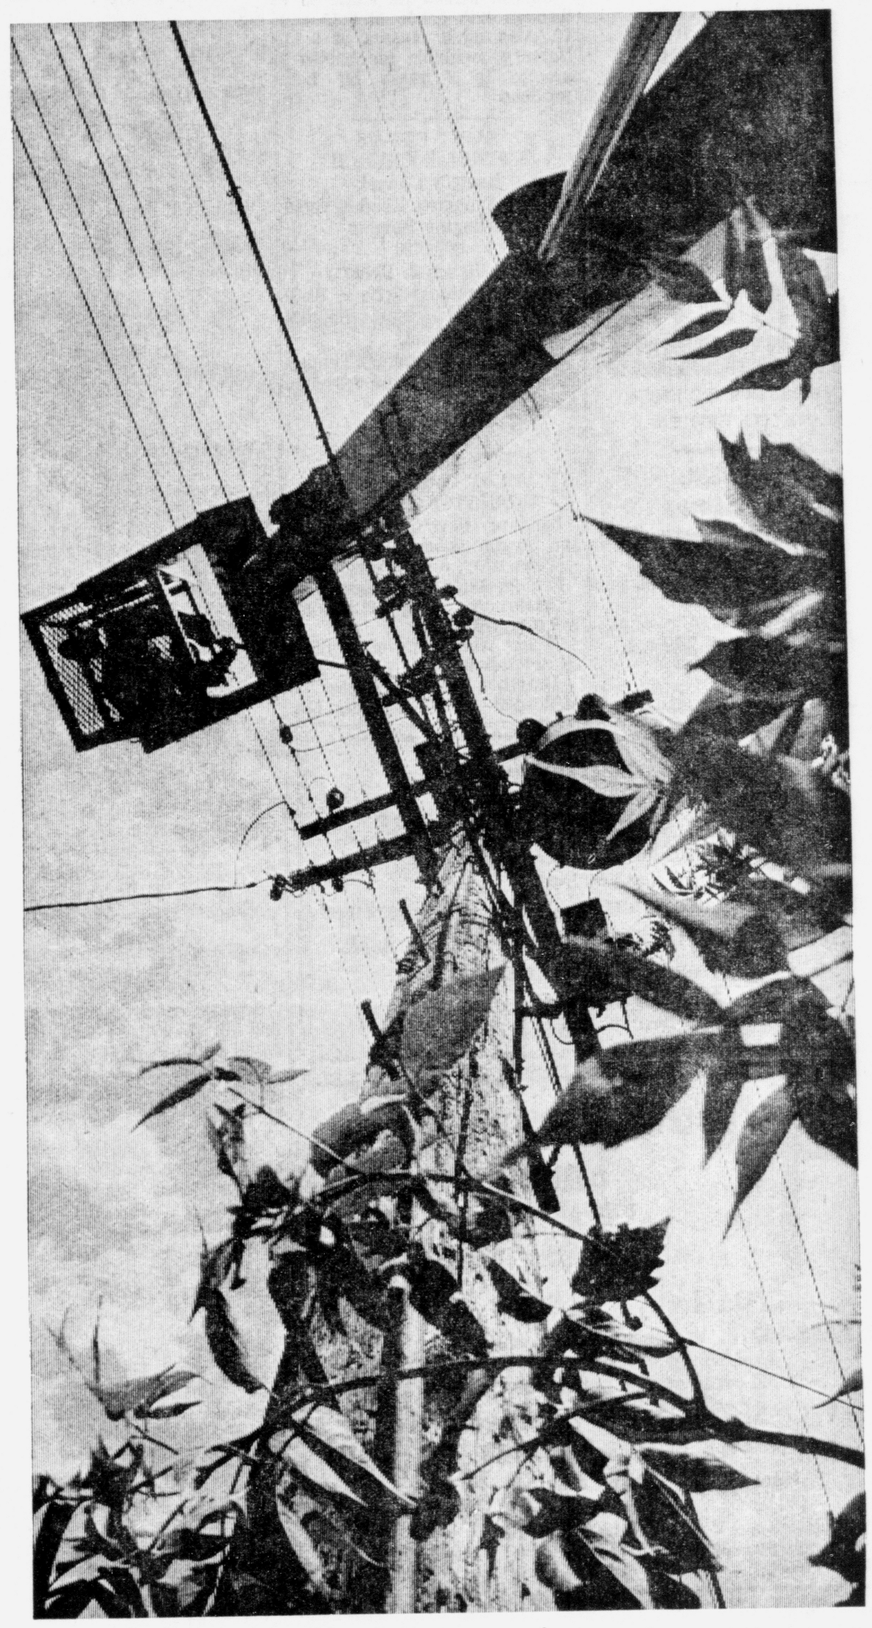
Estimates on wreckage at Palwaukee climbed to $1.5 million.

From Early Morning On

And the Cleanup



Bulldozer swoops along the streets of Arlington Heights, scooping up the debris.



Carried up overhead, lineman works to restore power.

Remnants of once-majestic trees, heaved into piles of rubble . . .

. . . disappear in smoke rising from pyres on the grounds of the old sewage plant.

A ginger touch from a practiced hand, reaching through a maze of wires.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: Fresh green asparagus is an elegant vegetable of delectable flavor and tenderness. In addition to its appetite appeal, it provides good amounts of vitamin C, vitamin A, iron and other vitamins and minerals. It is very low in sodium, low in calories — 35 per cupful of cooked cut spears.

ITEM: To decorate either indoor or outdoor staircases, line the sides with colorful foliage plants, such as caladiums, with all pots set in clay saucers. If you place larger pots at the bottom and diminish the sizes of the clay pots on each step, you'll achieve a pleasing perspective.

ITEM: It had to come — and it has — the see-through refrigerator door. When the interior light is off, the door appears opaque in color; turn on the interior light and you can tell whether or not you need a quart of milk without opening the door. Also, you can spot whatever you need inside, before opening the door.

ITEM: Keep crisp cookies in a tightly covered container to retain their crispness. If they become soft, put them in a 300 degree oven for about five minutes.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Robert C. Weppner, Louisville, Ky.: I remember the old meat (pork wagons) and fish wagons, with driver who blew a horn as he drove along. They all had a step on the rear for the one who sold their goods.

And, the Old Parkland Swimming Pool, filled with sulphur water before twilight or right after sundown every summer evening.

And how all the trains from the South, especially from New Orleans, had very fine brass mosquito wire covering all windows and doors — to keep from bringing yellow fever mosquitoes.

And, how well I remember the old "mud gutter bands" as they were called. They were composed mostly of German and Italian immigrants. They stood in the edge of the street and played to the people passing by. As a general rule, they were excellent musicians.

And, the mule cars pulled by two little mules. They carried passengers to the end of the line and the driver unhitched them, turned the car around on a turntable, and made the trip back.

than a bunch of dust catchers taking up valuable storage space around your home?

Take the attic, for instance. There's that old chair ... still sturdy, but never used any more ...

and the stove you replaced years ago ...

and the trunk Dad took to college ...

and Junior's old typewriter ...

wash tubs you haven't used since you got your automatic ...

the bicycle no one has ridden in ages ...

that old croquet set ...

and the radio that hasn't been turned on since TV.

There's probably a lot more, too ... all of it in good condition ...

"But who wants it?" you say!

Someone does want it ... and they're looking for it in Paddock Publications Want Ads.

DEAR NEIGHBOR:

CAN YOUR HANDS QUALIFY to do a special kind of job for us. As a prominent electronics manufacturer, we are now beginning production at our modernized electronic and computer parts plant.

During the past week, we have been successful in carefully selecting a limited number of qualified women to join us in performing light, interesting and careful work on small, clean, metal and plastic parts.

The very nature of our product requires controlled comfortable working conditions. The end result is, of course, a quality product which in turn symbolizes the pride and effort put forth in its manufacture.

The gradual staffing of capable and reliable personnel for this expanding operation will continue over the next few weeks. Therefore, your immediate application is invited for consideration in filling the following present and future openings; share with us in this new experience.

Fun for Young and Old

Decoupage: Old Art Rediscovered

A decorative art originated by Europeans in the 18th Century is enjoying a 20th Century revival. It's decoupage, the art of decorating surfaces with paper cutouts.

Decoupage, a French term, developed as Europe's answer to the intricately handpainted Chinese and Japanese lacquer ware that was so popular in Europe during the 18th Century.

Instead of handpainting a design, the Europeans cut out an engraved print and glued it to the surface of the article to be decorated, then covered the print with several coats of varnish until it looked like an original painting.

ONLY RECENTLY artists and do-it-yourselfers rediscovered decoupage, and interest in this art has grown tremendously in the last few years.

Decoupage is a decorative art that most anyone can enjoy, from six to sixty-plus. One needs only time, patience and an appreciation of color and design. It doesn't have to be expensive either.

Pictures from magazines and catalogues as well as old prints make excellent cutouts, and there very well may be some "white elephant" around the house that would be worth reclaiming as an item to be decorated—an old tray, a discarded lamp, an unused wastebasket, even boxes big or small.

IF YOU want items intended strictly for decoupage, you can get anything you need from Kroch and Brentano's store on Randolph Street in Chicago, and boxes of all kinds are available from O. P. Kraft, Sandusky, Ohio.

So now you have your picture and the item to be decorated. It's time to get to work.

First, sand down the surface till it's smooth. Then apply at least three coats of an oil or water-based paint in a color that will harmonize with the picture cutout. Sand between each coat. After the last coat is dry, put on a sealer. When it's dry, rub down again with No. 0000 steel wool.

THE NEXT step is to cut out the picture. Curved manicure scissors are recommended, but some decoupeurs, like Mrs. Wallace Womeldorf of Arlington Heights, use small sharp scissors. If you want, seal the print with an artist's fixative. This will prevent colors from bleeding and protect the print from smudges.

Brush on a water-soluble white glue, such as Elmer's, and mount the print to the surface. Smooth out wrinkles and bubbles. Clean up any excess glue.

Now comes the part that requires patience — applying the varnish and rubbing it down. After each coat is applied, let dry 24 hours. You'll need at least 10 coats before you begin to sand, and don't start even then if you can still feel your design. No. 400 or finer sandpaper is recommended for sanding, and 0000 steel wool for rubbing down after the sanding. Continue varnishing and sanding down until the entire surface, including the cutout, is flat.

THE FINAL step is waxing with a damp—but not wet—cloth. Use only a small amount of paste wax, and rub it into a small area at a time until you get the desired sheen.

Some decoupeurs omit the waxing and use a very fine steel wool dipped in a commercial finishing compound.

One word of caution. Work in an atmosphere as free of dust as possible.

If you'd like to see some examples of decoupage, Mrs. Womeldorf has samples at the Kroch and Brentano store. And one of the finest examples of the 18th Century decoupage, a Venetian secretary, may be seen at the Ringling Museum of Art, Sarasota, Fla.

For more serious reading on the subject, there are such books as "The Complete Book of Decoupage" by Frances S. Wing and "Decoupage, A Limitless World in Decoration" by Dorothy Harrower.

THE HIGH GLOSS FINISH characteristic of decoupage art is achieved through application of many coats of varnish. When finished, this small box will look as if the design had been painted instead of glued on. (Staff Photo)

THIS IS AN ENLARGED picture of the top of the small box in the lower right-hand corner of the picture of Mrs. Womeldorf at work. Each of the tiny figures on the box was cut and glued on separately, though the over-all effect is of one continuous multi-figured pattern. The "Early Times" sign is the key to the theme of the box's design. (Staff Photo)

WHITE WATER-SOLUBLE glue is used to affix cutouts to the article to be designed. Using a brush, Mrs. Womeldorf glues gold trim to a box, similar to the finished box in left center. All these items made by the Arlington Heights decoupeur show the variety open to the practitioner of this decorative art, which had its beginnings in the 18th Century and is enjoying a current revival. The Quick Way to Be a V.I.P.

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Living in the suburbs offers women many opportunities to express their concern for others by joining various service and church organizations, by entering into activities of local politics, PTA's or youth groups and by joining hospital and other auxiliaries.

Some women do small jobs for several groups, some do one or two big jobs, and others become enmeshed in so many jobs that sometimes they don't know whether they are coming or going. One suburban lady found herself in somewhat that kind of position recently.

She attended one of the many meetings of an active group to which she belongs. The meeting dragged on and on until the last item on the agenda was discussed. The project introduced required a chairman, a committee and a great deal of planning. The chairman would have to donate much time and energy to the project. There was a decided lack of enthusiasm.

FINALLY, AN especially busy woman agreed to accept the chairmanship. She explained that she knew that everyone was in a hurry to get home, so she would line up her committee members at a later date.

A few days later, telephones began to jangle as the busy chairman tried to organize her committee. Her first attempt was turned down immediately. The lady in question had several other commitments, two small children to care for, and she really was "very sorry."

The chairman's next attempt also was unsuccessful.

"Oh, I'd be glad to help out, but I am having out-of-town guests all next week."

"Get your help next time around" was the cheerful reply.

THE CHAIRMAN then reluctantly dialed the number of an especially conscientious and willing worker, who had declared positively at the previous meeting that she simply could not spread herself around enough to work on this specific project.

The chairman greeted the busy but charmingly polite member very cordially, admitted that she was concerned about accepting the chairmanship and wondered if they could talk about it.

"You see," she explained, "I feel that I really have headed too many projects this year. My reputation as an eager beaver is going to become firmly established if my name appears as chairman of one more committee.

"I WAS wondering," she sighed prettily, "if I consent to do all the planning and line up all the committee members to do the work, will you permit me to put in your name for the chairmanship? I promise, I really do, that you won't have to do a thing."

"Well," came the hesitant reply, "if you promise . . ."

"I promise," came the happy reply, "and I do thank you."

A few days later, the chairman-in-name-only again was summoned to the telephone. It was the lady she had so generously agreed to let use her name.

"Good morning, Mrs. Chairman. I wanted you to know that I've lined up the committee, and we are all set to start work. We are having our first meeting tomorrow evening, and if you will agree to attend just this one time, I promise that's all I'll ask of you."

MRS. CHAIRMAN in-name-only reluctantly agreed to attend though she knew it would be a mad rush.

She was tardy for the appointment, and as she rang the doorbell she was a little breathless from hurrying. Her hostess greeted her brightly.

"Come in, Mrs. Chairman. We're all here. . .waiting for you."

Mrs. Chairman - in - name - only looked around. 'I am chairman - in - name - only. Where is the real chairman?"

Everyone laughed.

"I am afraid that you are the real chairman now. Mrs. ex-chairman became the mother of an eight-pound boy this afternoon!"

What the Law Says About Parent Liability

If your 10-year old son throws a rock through the neighbor's huge picture window, are you responsible for the damage?

Every parent has pondered this or similar problems of liability for the acts of their children. In general, under Illinois law, you are not legally responsible for injuries or damages caused by children because you do not direct or control their actions.

This does not mean that your children are free to inflict themselves upon every window in the neighborhood. If you know that your son is throwing rocks at windows and take no action to stop him, you may be liable for the injuries he causes.

SIMILARLY, IF a parent gives a child a dangerous instrument, such as a rifle, knowing that the child is inexperienced with firearms, he may be liable for any injuries that result from this act of poor judgment.

In contrast, if a father allows his 14-year-old son to use his rifle, knowing that the son has for several years observed the rules of firearm safety, he probably would not be held liable for a gunshot injury accidentally inflicted on another hunter by his son.

Suppose a father sends his son to the hardware store to buy a new lock and permits the boy to use the family automobile. Is the father responsible for any injuries resulting from his son's negligence?

THE ANSWER, according to Illinois law, may be "yes." In sending the son on an errand the father has engaged his child in family "business"—the son is acting at the direction of his father, as his agent.

The same father gives his son permission to use the family car on a date. Although the son is known to be a careful driver, he causes an accident and the other driver is injured. Is the father liable to the injured person?

Under these circumstances, the father probably would not be held responsible for the negligence of his son. The son was acting entirely on his own behalf, rather than at the direction of or under the control of his father. And, a date is not family "business" . . . not yet at least, under Illinois law.

Japanese Workshop Planned for Gardeners

"Arrangements in the Japanese Style" will be described by Mrs. Leonard Berke for the Arlington Heights Garden Club workshop Monday, June 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse.

Mrs. Berke, a student judge, holds certificates from the Misho and Ohara Japanese schools where she learned the Oriental genius for revealing beauty in simplicity.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring a container, pin holder and flowers. The flowers may be ordered from artistic program chairman Mrs. Joseph Koenen, CL 9-4514.

There will be no workshops during July and August.

FIFTEEN FLEET - footed garden clubbers recently discovered the wonders of peony culture on a guided tour by Carl Klehm of his Barrington peony fields, his new nursery greenhouse on Arlington Heights Road and the "dream-house" Klehm estate.

The peony fanciers viewed flowers used for commercial cuttings, home garden purposes, hybridizing and a number of Klehm's unnamed seedlings which are not yet available for market.

Each person on the tour went home with two new seedling variety geraniums with the idea of becoming amateur test gardeners.

Tee-Off Party Set For Gamma Phis

"Tee-Off," a day of golfing and luncheon for Gamma Phi Betas, has been set for Tuesday, June 21, at Old Orchard Country Club. The 9:30 morning round will be followed by luncheon and prizes for winning scores. An additional nine holes has been planned for those who wish to play in the afternoon.

Area Gamma Phi Betas planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Allan Edwards at 392-9082.

Hello Hostess

By MARY KAY ROBBINS

After they pop your last balloon and scream the last goodbye, do you collapse and wonder: was it worth it? Yet children's parties can be fun — and far more likely to succeed — when you know what to expect from each age group.

Take your active nines to elevens. Your "normal nines" love to compete and show off skills. Your "typical ten" is more enthusiastic, more easy to satisfy. Most "elevens" favor an informal plan demanding vigorous physical activity. And these three ages usually prefer an all-girl or all-boy party — above all, an active party keyed to their fantastic energy!

WHEELS APPEAL. So feed these facts to your "Kid Computer," and program a Bike Party for sure success. Choose a school playground or safe dead end street for riding contests.

(1) Slalom: Set up markers every 10 feet or so. Use a stop watch to time each rider through a zig-zag course.

(2) Two-Wheeler Toss: Place six cans in a row about 15 feet apart. Give each contestant six marbles, stones, or bottlecaps. Riders cycle down the course, dropping one object into each can. Count hits and misses after each run.

(3) Verbal Relays: Form two teams. One cyclist carries a verbal message to a second rider, who tells a third, and so on. The fastest team with the most accurate message wins.

YOUR TABLE. A wicker bicycle basket holding garden flowers makes an appropriate centerpiece. So does a round birthday cake, decorated like a wheel or featuring piped-on handlebars. By all means award prizes — handlebar streamers, perhaps, or reflector tape. (Send a self-addressed stamped envelope if you'd like a free pamphlet on bicycle safety tips to give each guest.)

SWITCHCRAFT. Older children (safer riders!) love a treasure hunt on wheels, complete with numbered clues. Or make it a bike hike, ending with a park picnic, or sandwiches and shakes at your local drive-in. One girl made a hit by renting tandem bikes especially for her guests.

PARTY LINE. A suburban hostess suggests, "We always have a luncheon when a neighbor moves away. Last time, I addressed a postcard to each guest. These doubled as place cards and farewell gifts reminding the guest of honor to keep in touch."

These would be clever, too, for any bon voyage affair. Your gadabout friends could hardly forget to write when you make it so very easy.

R.S.V.P. It's easy, too, to write Hello, Hostess. Do send along your questions or suggestions, c/o this newspaper.

GAME OF THE WEEK. sardines: A modern "hide and seek" that's exciting for any and all ages. "It" hides while all others close their eyes and count. When a player finds "It," he quietly hides with him. By the time the last person discovers the hiders, they are all squeezed into a hiding place like sardines. The first person to find "It" gets to hide next time. (SSD

Nurse's Family Enjoys Fixing Up Their Home

By JUDY TREMORE

A favorite memory of the James Carroll family of Elk Grove Village is the summer of 1960 when they spent weekends camping in their own home.

That year the Carrolls bought an old farm home and decided to move it a mile down the road. Mrs. Carroll said the family was scattered during the week with various relatives, but on Friday they would head for the house and camp in, using ladders to get in the doors and candles for light.

Since that time redecorating and remodeling the house has been one of their major pastimes.

ALTHOUGH the Carrolls live in Elk Grove Village, they are surrounded by fields of farm land. With five children, Mrs. Carroll says her time is pretty well filled, but she has recently started working three days a week on the surgical floor of Northwest Community Hospital and is president of the Elk Grove Nurses Club.

The family moved to Elk Grove Village in 1956 from Chicago. Beth is 16; Cecilia, 13; Mary 12; Colette, 10, and Jimmy, 7. Mr. Carroll is a broker.

Mrs. Carroll, who received her nurse's training at St. Anne's Hospital in Chicago, is a charter member of the Nurses Club which was formed in 1959. Her past offices include hospitality chairman, lending closet chairman, treasurer for two years, and she is starting her second one-year term as president.

SHE WAS a charter member of the Elk Grove Woman's Club and a member of Alexian Brothers Hospital Auxiliary. As an auxiliary member, she worked in a kitchen that served the construction workers until about a year ago when she decided to devote all her time to the nursing club activities.

The club with a membership of about 40 acts as first aid judges in the Boy Scout-A-Rama, teaches first aid to various groups, has a civil defense unit which cooperates with the village civil defense, and maintains a lending closet of home nursing items. The club also makes monetary contributions to various organizations and has purchased two wheelchairs for use at the Alexian Hospital and Chase dolls for Northwest Community Hospital which are used in training of nurses' aides. To raise funds members hold fashion shows, card parties and bake sales.

THIS YEAR the club awarded its first nursing scholarship to a local girl, and this is planned as an annual event. Members will man a first aid tent at the village Tencennial.

With her 24-hour a week job and the nursing club activities Mrs. Carroll admits she has been busy, but she says the greatest amount of time is spent with the family. They are sports enthusiasts and like especially to skate and swim.

The attractive nurse laughed when asked about hobbies. "I mend clothes," she replied.

Area Delegates to Attend Int'l La Leche Convention

Mrs. Thomas Kientzle, Mrs. Quentin Ford and Mrs. Raymond Hornbostel all of Arlington Heights are planning to be among the Chicago area delegates to the second convention of La Leche League International, at the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel in Indianapolis June 22-24.

La Leche League is a non-sectarian, non-profit organization founded in Franklin Park, Ill. 10 years ago, to help encourage "better mothering through breastfeeding."

It began with one mother, who had successfully nursed her baby, helping another who wanted to breastfeed. This is still the basic approach, although the League is now international in scope, with about 400 groups helping thousands of women in the United States, Mexico, Canada and abroad.

THE ROSELLE group, one of the earliest groups, was founded seven years ago, and is now holding a series of meetings in Weathersfield at the home of Mrs. Donald Angell. Next meeting will be Monday, June 21 and information may be obtained from the group leader Mrs. Thomas Stoesser, 529-6015.

The Arlington Heights group under the leadership of Mrs. Kientzle, 392-8555, meets the second Tuesday of every month. Anyone interested in breastfeeding is welcome to join the group.

Approximately 600 league mothers, many with babies, will gather at the convention to attend administrative meetings, exchange ideas, and hear medical experts discuss various aspects of breastfeeding.

SPEAKERS WILL include Niles Newton, Ph.D., author of "The Family Book of Child Care" and "Maternal Emotions;" Dr. Robert A. Bradley, Denver obstetrition, member of the American College of Psychosomatic Medicine and author of "Husband-Coached Childbirth;" Dr. Herbert Ratner, director of the Department of Public Health, Oak Park, who will give the keynote address; and Dr. John I. Nurnberger, director of the Psychiatric Research Institute of the Indiana University Medical Center. (SSD

Roselle Unit Plans Ice Cream Social

"Red Roses for a Pink Lady" is the theme for this year's annual ice cream social to be sponsored by Roselle branch of Sherman Hospital Auxiliary July 13.

Besides ice cream there will be a three-man combo, "The Esquires," to provide music during the evening and a pick-a-pocket lady for children.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. J. Nolte, assisted by Mrs. E. McInerney and Mrs. E. Cloonan, tickets; Mrs. J. Gurke, equipment; Mrs. E. Lange, entertainment; Mrs. H. Miller, prizes; Mrs. J. Keen, refreshments, and Mrs. J. Clauss, soft drinks.

Last year's social attracted 2,400 persons. Proceeds are used for the intensive care unit at Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

Protect Hairdo

Here's a way to avoid sleeping on uncomfortable hair rollers. And it's as handy on trips as it is at home. Use soft tissues to preserve your hairdo overnight. Simply fold tissues in half lengthwise, roll them up and use them as rollers, clipping them into your hair. To avoid crushing bangs, clip a single tissue, folded lengthwise, under them.

Mrs. John Jensen Is First President of Hanover Jrs.

First installation of officers for the newly-formed Hanover Park Junior Woman's Club, was held Wednesday in Christ Church. Installed as president by Mrs. Daniel Wallner, Seventh District Junior Director, was Mrs. John Jensen, 1501 Indian Hill, Hanover Park.

Others installed were Mrs. Louis Bury and Mrs. Barry Crawshaw, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. William Burow and Mrs. Thomas Stojkic, corresponding and recording secretaries; and Mrs. Richard Magiera, treasurer. In charge of news releases is Mrs. John Huyett.

Projects already begun by the new club, which was accepted into the IFWC at the recent meeting, include the collection of cancelled postage stamps for the veterans' hospital, a float for the July 4 parade and a booth for the July carnival. The carnival will be sponsored by the Volunteer Fire Department.

Women in Hanover Park interested in joining the club may contact Mrs. Crawshaw at 837-7799, who is in charge of membership. (S

Banking, Wills Are St. Alexius Topics

Two guest speakers will appear at tonight's (Thursday) meeting of St. Alexius Hospital Auxiliary. The group will assemble at 8:30 p.m. in Cardinal Stritch Room of the hospital, which is located at 800 W. Biesterfield Road, Elk Grove.

W. C. Wolf, president of the Bank of Arlington Heights and permanent finance chairman for the ACTION committee in Arlington Heights, will speak on banking. Steven Jurco, Arlington Heights village attorney, will discuss the procedures and benefits of making a will.

A discussion period will follow their talks.

THE NEXT fund-raising project for the auxiliary will be a "day at the laundry." All profits made on June 29 at Frigidaire Coin Laundry at Grove Shopping Center, Elk Grove, will be turned over to the Auxiliary. The laundromat will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and auxiliary members will be present to supply customers with detergent which is sold through the group.

Mrs. C. Babbs, 894-9302, is in charge. (SSD

Week's Best Food Buys

Market starts down with beef promotions keyed to pending price cuts. Forequarter meats are featured most — chuck roasts at 39 cents a pound and standing rib roasts mostly 89. Anticipate $1.19 center cut pork chop and 75 to 79-cent sparerib prices for at least another week. Bacon continues firm, selling mostly at 98 cents a pound for top brands. Lamb quantity and general carcass quality maintain retail price levels in most stores.

Egg supplies increase. Larger sized A's are a better buy at competitive 43 to 49 cents a pound. Fryers hold the current cost line, but some stores are advancing the general retail price to 43 cents a pound for cut-up fryers. Smeller turkeys are more ample.

FRESH FRUIT and vegetable supplies are mostly ample and costs firm. Biggest break pending is for early spring soft fruits and some melons. Strawberries are still short and high priced.

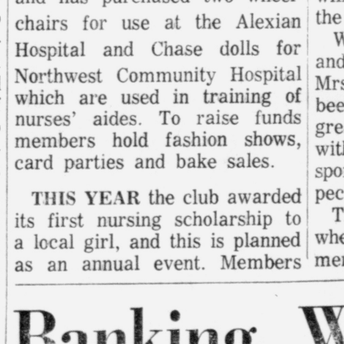
Meats: beef rib roasts and steaks, blade cut chuck roasts, ground chuck, flank steaks, rotisserie roasts, sirloin tip roasts, round steak; pork butt roasts and steaks.

Poultry: eggs, small turkeys.

Produce: cantaloupe, watermelon, plums, peaches, apricots, bananas; new potatoes, radishes, onions, lettuce, celery, greens, corn. (SH



Doctor in the Kitchen

by Dr. W. W. Bauer

There is no higher compliment than to speak of some one as the salt of the earth. There is no more vital element in human physiology than ordinary salt — sodium chloride.

This compound is only one of the many "salts," a class of chemical compounds formed when an acid is combined with an alkali. Yet everyone knows what we mean by the unadorned term salt.

This salt is a constituent of seawater, of the soil, of plants and of every living cell and tissue. The proper exchange of salt in the human body between blood and tissues is essential to life. Its impairment interferes with the proper fluid content of the tissues and with the electrical components of tissue functions. When something goes wrong with the handling of salt in the body, there is serious trouble.

IT IS THE metallic content of sodium chloride — the sodium — that is the essential factor in the proper functioning of salt within the body and of its disturbances.

Sodium chloride is one of the mineral elements known as electrolytes. It bears important relationships to calcium and potassium in body chemistry. Its utilization is related to the function of the adrenal cortex, an important factor in Addison's disease (a disturbance in salt metabolism due to adrenal cortical failure).

More common impairment of sodium metabolism is the excessive salt loss due to perspiration in hot weather, causing so-called heat cramps, preventable by the use of more salt on the food or by taking salt tablets. In certain forms of heart and kidney disease, excessive sodium retention may cause water-logging of the tissues.

HABITUAL use of too much salt is ordinarily handled by the kidneys without difficulty, but it may be a factor in weight control.

When the doctor prescribes a low sodium diet, commonly called "salt-free," he doesn't mean diet without salt. That would be detrimental and impossible, since salt is contained in all foods, even when not intentionally seasoned.

He means a diet low in sodium. He means that he wants you to refrain from working the salt shaker so hard and to cut out salty foods such as smoked and cured meats, sea foods and ocean fish, pickled foods and canned foods with sodium benzoat preservative added (read the label).

HE MAY ALSO recommend bread baked without salt, unsalted crackers and dietetic fruits and vegetables canned without added salt. Seasonings permitted are herbs, onion, garlic, vanilla, paprika, parsley, pepper, peppermint, vinegar and non-sodium salt substitutes.

Dairy products are usually unrestricted in a low sodium diet, except that sweet instead of salted butter is used, and low sodium cottage cheese is favored over other varieties.

Parmesan Cheese, Parsley Give Imperial Chicken Unusual Flavor

by LOIS SEILER

Imperial Chicken with a superior flavor is one of Mrs. James C. Thomson's favorite dinner entrees. It is easy to prepare, yet has an unusual and interesting flavor.

"The chicken is simply dipped in butter and then into a mixture of parmesan cheese, parsley and bread crumbs," said this Arlington Heights homemaker.

Baked for an hour the chicken has a skin that's crispy brown but not dry, and the meat is tender and moist.

This good cook likes to accompany the chicken with green asparagus and a pretty apricot salad, which complement the color as well as the flavor of the chicken. She also serves homemade rolls, made by her husband's mother's excellent recipe, and sherbet with homemade cookies for dessert.

Julie Thomson makes the sweet and delicious fruit salad in the handsome glass bowl from which it is served. Orange Jello, apricot nectar and pineapple juice are combined with pineapple and miniature marshmallows. When this is set, it is spread with a creamy-custard-like topping. Grated American cheese can be sprinkled over the top for color.

THIS SHIMMERING salad looks especially attractive served from a crystal bowl, but it can be made in a square pan, cut and served on a bed of lettuce.

"I've never had a recipe I've enjoyed so much," said Mrs. Thomson of the dinner rolls. "It is quick and easy to make, and although this is a yeast recipe, there is no kneading involved."

There is no guesswork, either, so this roll recipe is virtually worry-free and always a success.

The dough is made one day, then rolled out and formed into rolls the next. Some of the dough can be saved for later use and will keep well stored in the refrigerator as long as two weeks.

Julie makes both crescents and cinnamon rolls. Both are light-textured and delicious, and any leftover cinnamon rolls are good the next day for breakfast. She makes them tea-size, too, for luncheons.

ANOTHER OF Julie Thomson's favorite recipes is Oatmeal Drop Cookies. She likes it because it is very versatile and makes a large quantity that really fills the cookie jar.

The basic batter can be used by itself for a plain oatmeal cookie, or raisins or chocolate chips may be added for variety.

"You can divide the batter and put the chips in one half and raisins in the other," Julie explained. "The cookies taste different, even though they have the same base."

"They have a delightful aroma while baking, and the house smells so good when the children come home from school," she said.

These chewy, flavorful cookies, accompanied by a glass of milk, make an appealing and nourishing afternoon snack, and are delicious, too, served with ice cream or sherbet for dessert. They make a big hit with the Thomsons' four children: Jimmy, 8; Judy, 7; John, 5, and David, 3.

IN ADDITION to her culinary and homemaking interests, Mrs. Thomson is very active in church work. She is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church Women's Auxiliary, teaches Sunday school, is principal of the primary department for the Vacation Church School and both she and her husband are teachers in training with the Bethel series, an intensive Bible training course. Mrs. Thomson is also a room mother at Kensington School and enjoys taking piano lessons and playing bridge for recreation.

The Thomson family lives at 441 S. Evanston in Arlington Heights.

THE BATTER is as good as the baked product in the opinion of Jimmy, John, Judy and David Thomson, who delight in sampling their mother's delicious oatmeal drop cookies. Mrs. James C. Thomson of Arlington Heights flavors the cookies with either raisins or chocolate chips, and they make a mighty appealing afternoon snack. This recipe and Mrs. Thomson's favorite dinner menu, which features Imperial Chicken, are among the specialties of this week's Successful Homemaker. (Staff photo)

IMPERIAL CHICKEN

1 frying chicken, cut in serving pieces
¼ pound butter or margarine, melted
2 cups bread crumbs
¾ cup grated parmesan cheese
¼ cup chopped parsley (fresh or dry)
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Combine bread crumbs, cheese, parsley and seasonings. Melt butter; dip pieces of chicken into butter and then into crumb mixture. Place in a 9 by 13-inch pan or a jelly roll pan. Do not cover. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

APRICOT SALAD

2 packages orange Jello
1 cup boiling water
2½ cups apricot nectar
½ cup pineapple juice
1 No. 2½ can diced pineapple
2½ cups miniature marshmallows

Dissolve Jello in hot water; add juices. When it starts to set, fold in pineapple and marshmallows. Chill in bowl from which it will be served, or in a square pan. Prepare the following topping:

½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour, rounded
1 cup pineapple and apricot juice, mixed
1 beaten egg
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup whipping cream

Combine sugar and flour in a saucepan. Stir in juices. Cook until it begins to thicken and add beaten egg. Cook until thick and remove from heat. Add butter and chill. When cold, whip cream and fold into topping mixture. Spread over chilled Jello. Serves 20.

Grated American cheese may be sprinkled over the top for color.

GRANDMA'S DINNER ROLLS

1 cake yeast
1 cup cool, scalded milk
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup melted butter
3 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
5 cups sifted all-purpose flour

In a large bowl, mix together the yeast, cool, scalded milk and 1 tablespoon sugar. Add butter, eggs, salt, sugar and half of the flour. Beat thoroughly. Add remaining flour and beat throughly again. This is not a stiff dough. Cover tightly with foil or Saran wrap and refrigerate overnight.

About 3½ hours before serving, remove dough from refrigerator. Work with one-third of the dough at a time. Make either crescents or cinnamon rolls or both. If you don't wish to use all of the dough at once, store it in a tightly-covered container in the refrigerator. It will keep for about 2 weeks.

On a floured pastry cloth, roll out one-third of the dough into a circle about ¼-inch thick. Spread with softened butter, cut into pie-shaped wedges and roll up, starting at the wide end.

Crescents:

PLACE CRESCENTS on a greased cookie sheet, cover with a tea towel and let rise three hours until double in bulk. Bake 12 to 15 minutes at 380 degrees.

Cinnamon Rolls:

On a floured board or pastry cloth, roll out one-third of the dough into a rectangular shape ¼-inch thick. Spread with softened butter and sprinkle with a little brown sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. A few raisins or chopped walnuts may also be sprinkled over the dough, if desired.

Roll up dough as you would for a jelly roll and cut into 1-inch slices. Place on a greased cookie sheet, cover with a tea towel and let rise for three hours. Bake at 400 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes, or until golden.

OATMEAL DROP COOKIES

1 cup shortening (not butter or margarine)
¾ cup brown sugar
¾ cup white sugar
2 eggs
1¾ cup flour, sifted
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups quick-cooking oatmeal

Cream shortening and sugars together thoroughly. Beat in eggs.

Sift dry ingredients together and blend into batter. Add vanilla and oatmeal and beat well.

Drop batter onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen medium-size cookies.

For variety, 1 small package chocolate chips or ¾ cups raisins may be added to the batter.

Tip for Dieters

Here's a calorie-saving tip for diet-conscious people who love fried food. Brown meat or fowl in the broiler rather than in a pan of oil on the top of the range. Flavor will be just as good and the calories, of course, fewer.

Seasoning Meat

Meats should never be salted before broiling. Salt draws the juices from meat. The time for seasoning is when the food is brown — after about half the total cooking time.

Salad Buffet Is Picnic Menu For League of Women Voters

A salad buffet will be served to members of the local League of Women Voters today (Thursday) at their annual June picnic. Hostess for the 12:30 p.m. event is Mrs. Russell Gardner of 408 S. Bristol, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Gardner is a former president of the league.

Mrs. Gordon Monsen of Barrington, a past president of the Cook County Council of Leagues of Women Voters and a former member of the advisory board of the Illinois Youth Commission, will be speaker. She will tell about the Cook County Leagues' work in support of improvements in Family Court.

Among other guests will be prospective members of the LWV, which draws its members from six communities in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships. Persons interested in attending this or other LWV meetings may make arrangements to do so by calling Mrs. Robert Korte of Arlington Heights, membership chairman, at 392-1535.

MRS MONSEN will describe the LWV's many years of work to improve shelter care and detention facilities for juveniles in trouble in Cook County.

The County League work, which also included support for general improvements in correctional procedures, has led to statewide interest in juveniles and the courts. In 1963 the LWV supported General Assembly passage of a revised Juvenile Court Act and is currently studying operations of the Illinois Youth Commission.

Mrs. Ethan Janove of Hoffman Estates is chairman of the Illinois Youth Commission study for the local league. (S

St. Theresa Officers Are Installed

Installation of new officers was the first order of new business at the June 6 meeting of St. Theresa Council of Catholic Women of St. Theresa Church, Palatine. Rev. James Dolan, pastor of St. Theresa's and new spiritual moderator for the council, conducted the ceremony in which he cited duties and responsibilities of the following new officers:

President, Mrs. Don Adams, 437 S. Bennet; vice president, Mrs. Joseph Koenig, 538 Burno Drive; secretary, Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, 1897 W. Stuart; and treasurer. Mrs. Herbert Rohr, 269 N. Marion. All are residents of Palatine.

THE RETIRING President, Mrs. Victor Zielinski, 95 W. Emerson, was presented with a garden statue of St. Theresa. Smaller statues, which were designed and created by Mrs. Benedict Bombera, 330 N. Hale, were presented to the other retiring officers and committee chairmen.

Council members saw themselves in pictures when slides of some of the events of the past year were shown. (S

Christine Howes Goes East To Live After May Wedding

Skiing in the White Mountains of New Hampshire last winter brought about a romantic meeting which culminated in the May 7 wedding of Christine Lynn Howes of Arlington Heights and Lawrence Sutherland Wilkins of Belmont, Mass. The couple met while both were employed at the Appalachian Mountain Club headquarters in Gorham, N. H.

Christine Howes Goes 4-48 bold

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Howes, 945 N. Kaspar Ave., is a graduate of Arlington High School and attended the University of Illinois and Northwestern University.

THE GROOM'S parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Wilkins, who came from their Belmont home for the morning ceremony in the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights and reception and luncheon at Arlington Carousel.

White glads and mums decorated the altar for the 11:30 rites, performed by Dr. Amos Thornburg.

THE BRIDE WORE an empire gown of white peau de soie, fashioned simply with a scoop neckline, long sleeves and a floral motif of re-embroidered alencon lace enhancing the front from the top to the hemline of the bell-shaped skirt. Appliques of the lace were repeated on the chapel train and on the full-length mantilla veil which completed her attire.

The bride's bouquet was composed of white roses, and lilies of the valley.

HER THREE attendants, all gowned alike in floor-length willow green linen, were Linda Scott of Chicago as maid of honor and Bonnie Freeman of Arlington Heights and Sally Wilkins, the groom's sister, as bridesmaids.

Their gowns were styled with an empire bodice and A-line skirt, and the bell-shaped sleeves were embroidered with self-fabric daisies. They wore willow green linen bows in their hair and carried cascade arrangements of daisies.

Best man was Thomas Mostrom of Marlboro, Mass., and the two ushers who escorted the bridal attendants were Lowell McElroy of Belmont, Mass., and Christopher Moon of Gorham, N. H.

THERE WERE ALSO three junior ushers seating the guests, the bride's two brothers, Chip, 11, and Cary, 9, and her nephew, Timothy Smith, 13, of Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

For the ceremony and the luncheon for 75 guests, the bride's mother wore a sheath and coat ensemble of white lace with powder blue taffeta and had a white rose and lily of the valley corsage. Mrs. Wilkins wore a salmon colored linen sheath with a corsage of matching tearoses.

The newlyweds will spend the summer at Cape Cod, Mass., and in fall they will settle in Boston where the groom plans to teach school. He is a graduate of Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, and did graduate work at the University of Massachusetts. (Jenart

Bethel 103 Honors Retiring Guardian

Wednesday, June 8, was the last meeting of this term for Bethel 103, Job's Daughters, Arlington Heights. It was also the last night for Guardian Mrs. Mildred Heilig, 730 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

In observance of the occasion, on a red curtain on the stage were intertwined gold hearts reading, "Aunt Millie, Bethel 103." Mrs. Heilig was escorted through an archway of red roses as the girls sang, "Queen of our Hearts." As each officer and choir member presented her with a hanky and greeted her with an appropriate poem, Miss Sue Heilig, the honored queen and daughter of Mrs. Heilig, pinned the hanky to a large red heart.

Mrs. Heilig also received gifts of remembrance from Bonnie Birch, Marva Jean Huizenga and Sue Heilig, who served as honored queens during her term as guardian. Miss Heilig also presented her mother with the past bethel guardian's pin. Table decorations and favors in the dining room carried out the theme of red roses and gold hearts.

ANNUAL REPORTS of the honored queen, treasurer, and finance committee were given.

The following bethel guardian council members were installed for the coming term: Mrs. Lorina Stevens, guardian; Joseph Meisl, associate guardian; Mrs. Barbara Savino, guardian secretary; Mrs. Muriel Truelove, guardian treasurer; Mrs. Lois Ness, director of music; Mrs. Inez M. Sharp, director of Epochs; Roy Schaetzlein, promoter of finance; Mrs. Bernice Wallace, promoter of sociability; and Mrs. Mildred Olsen, custodian of paraphernalia.

Mrs. Heilig served as the installing officer, Mrs. Carol Schaetzlein as installing guide, and Mrs. Virginia Malmquist as installing secretary.

Miss Debbie Deehring, honored queen-elect, announced that installation of officers will be held Saturday, June 18, at 7:30 p.m., at the Arlington Heights Masonic Temple.

Wednesday, June 22, Bethel 103 will have a white elephant sale at the close of the regular meeting. (S

Tips on Proper Foot Care

Are You Killing Your Feet?

The human foot is a remarkable piece of construction — containing 26 bones connected by 107 ligaments and supported by 19 muscles. But this piece of art, which enables us to walk an estimated 65,000 miles in our lifetime, is the most abused part of our body.

While women are the greatest offenders (their high heels are known to cause bent toes, strained muscles, crushed arches, weakened ankles, etc.), all of us are guilty of mistreating our feet. We cram them into ill-fitting shoes, permit minor infections to go unattended and then complain, "My feet are killing me." We would be more precise if we said, "I'm killing my feet."

One of the most common irritations of the foot is the simple corn or callous — a mass of dead skin cells with a sensitive core that appears on the top of the toes. Corns are caused by excessive rubbing from either tight shoes or loose shoes.

IF YOU SUFFER from corns, don't attempt to treat them yourself. Bathroom surgery can lead to serious infection. The same holds true for drug store "corn removers." These preparations may contain harsh caustic agents which could cause tumors of the skin; particularly for those who have diabetes or circulatory disorders. The safest home treatment is a simple doughnut-shaped pad for hard corns or a piece of lamb's wool for soft corns. Although they will not remove the corn, they will lessen the pressure and pain. Once excessive rubbing is eliminated, the corn will disappear.

A more complicated condition of the feet is bunions. Bunions are heavy callouses which form on the first joint of the toe, especially the big toe. They occur when toes are cramped from pointed shoes or shoes that allow your feet to slide forward. There is no safe home treatment for them, and occasionally, they can be serious enough to warrant surgery.

Ingrown toenails also cause problems. This occurs when jagged spurs in the corners of the toes pierce the flesh and cause infection. To prevent this condition, trim your nails regularly and straight across.

MANY TIMES SORE feet acn be caused by poor circulation. If you have this trouble, stimulate blood flow by taking a brisk walk daily, dipping your feet alternately in hot and cold water, or elevating your legs periodically.

Since most foot problems are caused by footwear that doesn't fit properly, make sure your shoes are fitted carefully:

Have your feet measured each time you purchase a pair of shoes. Never buy them by size alone.

Make sure the tip of the shoe is at least one half inch longer than your longest toe.

Since your feet swell during the day, purchase shoes in the late afternoon. Your shoes should feel good when you try them on. They shouldn't have to be "broken in."

Purchase heels no higher than one and one half inch if you intend to wear them for long periods of time. (S

May Poles Decorate May Banquet Tables

May poles, flowers and favors decorated the tables in Long Grove Country Club for the recent May banquet and installation of officers for Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club. To further carry out the May theme, each guest was presented with a carnation corsage by Mrs. William Schumacher, banquet hostess. Chairman of the banquet was Mrs. Robert Holmes, who with her committee, was responsible for the decor.

Guests introduced by Mrs. Schumacher included Mrs. Gordon Beckley, Illinois State Junior Director; Mrs. Stephen Jurco, president of Arlington Heights Woman's Club; Mrs. Daniel Wallner, Seventh District president; and Mrs. Gordon Gullickson, Arlington Juniors advisor.

First place winner was Mrs. Charles Toot, with Mrs. John Whitehead, second. Mrs. Behrens also gave a synopsis of the state convention and Mrs. Beckley reminisced of her experiences as a member of Arlington Heights Juniors when the club was newly formed.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Wallner. Installed were: Mrs. Scott Ball, second vice president; Mrs. Leslie Graham, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Chadderdon, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Harsch, director; Mrs. Toot, ways and means; and Mrs. Byram Dickes, membership. The program was completed with a presentation of excerpts from 'Guys and Dolls' by the BOBs players.

In a candlelight service held May 28 in the Palatine home of the junior Alex Hensons, their daughter, Judyth Ann, became the bride of Keith E. Vansteenkiste, son of the Louis Vansteenkistes of Crystal Lake. The double ring service took place at 11 a.m. with Rev. Wilbur Childress officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white nylon taffeta gown fashioned with a sabrina neckline and an overlay bodice and skirt of nylon rose-designed lace with a bow at the empire waistline. Her illusion veil was caught to a seed pearl bow and she carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Her only jewelry was a gold and pearl necklace, a gift from the groom, and she carried her mother's white wedding bible.

ONLY ATTENDANT to the bride was Miss Patricia Goodman of Fox River Grove who wore an empire gown of blue and white with matching headpiece. She carried a cascade of pink carnations. Best man to the groom was Leon Trask, also of Fox River Grove.

Mrs. Henson chose a yellow silk chambray sheath embroidered with yellow rosebuds for the wedding and reception, and Mrs. Vansteenkiste chose a light blue silk crepe. Both had corsages of white carnations tied with ribbons to match their ensembles.

At 2 p.m., the reception was held in McHenry Country Club, before the couple left for a weekend trip to the Wisconsin Dells. The newlyweds will take a belated wedding trip to Arizona in June, after which they will live in Crystal Lake.

The new Mrs. Vansteenkiste is a graduate of Palatine High School and until her marriage was a secretary for A. B. Dick Co. The groom is a graduate of Crystal Lake High School and is with Wauconda Tool and Eng.

Bread, Flour Enrichment Aids in Deficiency Fight

The enrichment of bread and flour with vitamins and iron, which formally started in this country 25 years ago, is regarded by many as one of the major public health achievements of recent times, the Nutrition Foundation reports.

In these 25 years, the vitamin deficiency diseases which crippled and killed many Americans before 1941 have virtually disappeared. Rising standards of living, better education and wider availability of wholesome foods have played a part in eliminating the vitamin deficiency diseases, particularly beriberi and pellagra, which plagued the nation before World War II. Enrichment of bread and flour is credited by many as a major factor in this achievement.

THIRTY YEARS ago studies revealed that the American people were in shocking nutritional condition. It was found that more than one-third of the population had poor diets. The most serious nutritional problems were due to shortages of the B vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, and shortages of iron.

These vitamins and iron, which is necessary to prevent one type of anemia, are present in the original wheat from which flour is made. The milling process necessary to produce the flour from which white bread is made removes most of the three B vitamins and iron along with the bran — the dark outer covering of the wheat berry.

People in this country prefer white break to dark bread — now as they did a quarter of a century ago. Then they were not getting in bread enough B vitamins and iron. This was coupled with the fact that many people also lacked the leafy vegetables and meat that might have provided a properly balanced diet.

A NUMBER OF medical and scientific organizations and federal, were responsible for the major effort necessary to gain acceptance of the addition of B vitamins and iron to white bread and flour. Flour millers and bakers were active, also.

Bread and flour enrichment could not be accomplished at all until drug companies were able to manufacture the essential vitamins in large quantities at low cost.

All the elements — the scientific knowledge, the industrial know-how — were favorable for the introduction of vitamin and iron enrichment of bread and flour shortly after the start of World War II. During the war, War Order No. 1 established enrichment. Now most states have laws regulating it.

THE ORIGINAL decision to push for bread enrichment was based on practical considerations. People preferred white bread. It was an inexpensive element of most diets. The vitamins and iron were put into bread and flour because there they would do the most good for the most people.

Today in this country, enrichment has succeeded so well that medical students have difficulty finding cases of the dread B vitamin deficiency diseases that killed and crippled so many a few years ago.

Other countries are turning to enrichment. Cereal foods other than wheat flour and bread are being enriched. As scientific information warrants, enrichment programs may change in the future with new nutrients being added to widely-used foods. (S

CHARTER MEMBERS of Arlington Heights Nurses Club, Mrs. Lester McAuliffe and Mrs. Charles Bloecker, were among the honored guests June 2 when the club lunched at Long Grove Country Club. At the luncheon, the club presented a scholarship to Cathleen Krueger of Arlington Heights.

Fumes of Cleaning Agents Poisonous

It's common knowledge that many household cleaning agents are poisonous if swallowed. But did you know that some also contain toxic fumes which can be just as disastrous?

Such cleaning agents are especially dangerous because their fumes are invisible and frequently odorless. And you don't necessarily have to be exposed to a strong concentration to suffer ill effects, for tests show that repeated short exposures to small concentrations can be just as disastrous.

How can you protect against the danger of poisonous fumes?

Read — and heed — warning labels on all cleaning agents before using them. Those with which you should be especially careful are:

Carbon tetrachloride — Since this chemical is not flammable, it is often used in paints, rubber cement, spot removers. etc. If inhaled, however, its fumes can cause severe coughing, nausea, headache, dizziness and possibly even death.

Benzene — though benzene gives off a "pleasant" odor, it is one of the most dangerous of household chemicals. Commonly used in paints, varnish stains and adhesive cement, it takes less than a tenth of an ounce of this chemical in a 10x10x10 foot non-ventilated room to produce ill effects.

Turpentine — A highly flammable solution, this cleaning agent is used primarily for thinning paint and cleaning brushes. The potential danger of turpentine depends on its chemical composition and how long and how carefully it is stored. But, even if the concentration of its fumes are very small, repeated exposure could affect your kidneys. So when working with turpentine, use it outside or in a well-ventilated workroom. Above all, don't let brushes soak in it overnight in an open jar.

Methanol — Another inflammable chemical, this cleaning agent is used for removing floor wax, grease and thinning paints. If you should work with methanol products, take periodic "breaks" to get fresh air. For this chemical's fumes, like those of carbon tetrachloride, can cause severe symptoms of coughing, hard breathing, mental confusion and loss of balance.

Alumnae Soiree

Members of Sigma Kappa Evening Alumnae group, along with their husbands, will conclude their first year by attending the "Sigma Kappa Soiree," a progressive dinner, Saturday, June 18. "Excellent French cuisine, fine wines, great company, and good fun are planned to provide everyone with a fine evening," commented the president, Mrs. Bruce Isaacson.

Regular meetings of the group will be resumed in the fall.

Drug Helps Treat Lead Poison Victim

A derivative of penicillin has been found useful in treating child victims of lead poisoning.

Dr. Joseph Greengard, research physician and director of the pediatric section of Hektoen Institute for Medical Research of Cook County Hospital, reports success in treating lead poisoning cases with penicillamine.

This derivative of penicillin was developed recently to treat Wilson's disease, an inherited defect which causes copper to be deposited in various organs of the body.

DR. GREENGARD said the penicillamine combines chemically with metals such as lead and copper, allowing them to be eliminated via the kidneys.

"The drug has an advantage over previously used medications as it is apparently less toxic in itself and may be taken by mouth as well as by injection," said Dr. Greengard.

Most lead poisoning cases, he said, occur after a child has eaten lead-containing paint or plaster. Such poisoning often causes retardation, blindness and death.

DR. GREENGARD stressed, however, that while the medication will effectively remove lead from the body, no drug can alleviate any brain damage done by lead poisoning.

The hospital gets about 90 children a year suffering from lead poisoning, and about 30 per cent show evidence of brain involvement. (S

Denver U. Classmates Here For Trever-Miller Wedding

College friends from Denver University gathered in Arlington Heights on May 21 for the wedding of Janet Elaine Trever of this village and David C. Miller of Salina, Kan. The couple met as sophomores at Denver U. and their marriage brought friends from all over the country who had attended school together.

Also in the wedding party was a friend of the groom from Officers Training School, Medina Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, where the two had just been graduated as Second Lieutenants three days before the wedding.

THE CEREMONY was performed by Dr. Amos Thornburg in the First Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, at 2 in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of the Arthur N. Trevers of 714 S. Dunton. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Miller, came from Salina the day before the nuptials for the weekend of festivities.

In the wedding party were Patricia Graham of Denver, a Kappa Delta sorority sister of the bride, who served as maid of honor, and five bridesmaids, Janean Miller, the groom's sister; Wendy Zeigler of Glen Ellyn, the bride's cousin; Deborah Cowan of Salida, Colo., Hanes Burkart of Rockville, Md., and Mrs. Taylor Trautman of Columbus, Ind. Miss Graham had attended MacMurray College with the bride, both as freshmen, before they transferred to Denver.

Miss Cowan, Miss Burkart and Mrs. Trautman also were friends at Denver U., and Mrs. Trautman was affiliated with Kappa Delta with the bride.

THE SIX GIRLS were gowned alike in floor-length lavender linen dresses, empire styled with scoop neckline and a floating panel falling from the back waistline. They carried purple iris in a cascade arrangement.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory taffeta and white chantilly lace gown with a watteau train. The lace sheath dress, with scoop neckline and long sleeves, was complemented by the taffeta train, and the gown was topped by a 3-tiered ivory illusion veil held in place by a silk cabbage rose.

As "something old" the bride wore a diamond pendant which had belonged to her grandmother, the late Mrs. Arthur F. Trever. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses with lilies of the valley.

MICHAEL ROGERS, a boyhood friend of the groom, came from Kansas City, Kan., to serve as best man. Seating the guests were Andrew Oltyan of Roselle, who arrived from Medina with the groom after their graduation; Chris Daugherty of St. Louis, a Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity brother of the groom; Taylor Trautman of Columbus, Inc., and Craig Roberts of Western Springs, a cousin of the bride.

Witnessing the double ring rites, the bride's mother wore a spring green jacket dress with a matching green cymbidium corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a soft gold sheath dress with a corsage of matching cymbidiums.

THE COUPLE was feted at an afternoon reception at Mount Prospect Country Club and then left for a western honeymoon. They traveled through Salina where the groom's parents hosted a reception for them and then to Denver to visit other friends.

Finally the newlyweds returned to the Colorado mountains, setting of their first meeting, to spend a week camping before going on to Big Spring, Texas, where the groom will enter pilot training at Webb Field.

They are living at 1500A Sycamore, Big Spring, during his year's flight training.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Miller received their degrees from Denver U. in June '65, and during the past year the bride was a social studies teacher at Grant Junior College in Denver. She is a graduate of Arlington High School. (S

Wedding Reception Held Where Couple First Met

A Mount Prospect couple who met at a young adults' dinner and theater party at Old Orchard Country Club appropriately chose the club for the reception which followed their 11:30 a.m. nuptials on May 7. Returning there this time as man and wife were the former Barbara Ann Bader, daughter of the Elmer Baders of 108 S. Edward St., and Howard V. Bychowski, son of the John Bychowskis of 303 N. Dale.

They repeated their marriage vows in St. Raymond Catholic Church, Mount Prospect, before Father Vincent Bataille, a close friend of the bride's family. Father Bataille was ordained last June, and this was the first wedding at which he officiated. His home is Marmion Abbey in Aurora.

During the Mass, the children's choir of the church sang appropriately, directed by Mrs. Myron Weigle.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Patricia Bader, was her maid of honor, and the groom's brother, Robert Bychowski, was best man. Also in the wedding party were Carol Baumann of Iowa City, Mrs. Gerald Cole of Rolling Meadows and Mrs. Roger Price of Palatine as bridesmaids, and the groom's brothers, Thomas and Jerome Bychowski, and the bride's brother, Richard Bader, as ushers.

The girls all wore white organza over blue taffeta dresses, the bodice of white embroidery on a blue background. A blue satin sash accented the slim waistline, the blue satin repeated in a bow headpiece to hold their illusion veiling in place.

They carried white and blue-tinted carnations in a cascade arrangement.

THE BRIDE chose a traditional white organza gown with a long-sleeved bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace. A matching motif on the bell skirt featured a spray of lace flowers delicately ending in a rosebud. The dress had a chapel train and was topped with a 3-tiered illusion veil held by an organza bow headpiece.

The reception at Old Orchard Country Club included a sit-down luncheon for 200 guests. Receiving them, the bride's mother was attired in a copen blue silk chiffon dress with a lace bodice, a matching pillbox hat and accessories and an ivory cymbidium corsage.

Mrs. Bychowski wore a 2-piece gold crepe dress with lace bodice, a petaled hat in gold and beige, beige accessories and a yellow cymbidium corsage.

THE NEWLYWEDS drove to Holland, Mich., for a week's honeymoon amid the annual tulip festival and are now at home in Mount Prospect.

The bride, an Arlington High School graduate, is employed by International Minerals & Chemical Corp., Skokie. The groom attended Wild Rose High School, Waupaca, Wis., and is working for Z-Frank, Inc., in Chicago. (Jenart (s

Put Outdoor Gear In Storage House

If you have a busy family that loves to be outdoors and which leaves a clutter of toys, games and sports gear all over the lawn and patio, then listen to this solution.

At one end of your patio, design a small enclosed structure about seven feet high with a slightly sloping roof that drains rainwater away from the patio. Frame the structure in easy-to-handle Douglas fir or other western softwood. You will find that 2x4s will be ample size for the framework.

The structure probably should be over three feet deep and you may wish to have it long enough to run along one edge of your wood patio. Side the small building with narrow widths of western red cedar tongue-and-groove boards for the best appearance and performance.

You can install shelves for toys and racks for garden tools and sports gear. It is amazing how clean your yard will become when you provide an easy, handy, nearby storage house. Paint the structure the same shade as your home, unless you desire some other brighter color for contrast. (S

More Spent On Tobacco Than Health

Although Americans spent more in 1964 for tobacco and cosmetics than for the doctor, they did increase their over-all health spending some 7.8 per cent over the previous year.

That's the word from the U.S. Department of Commerce, which notes that the over-all health bill came to some $25.2 billion in 1964. Hospitals received the largest share—30 cents of every dollar. Then came the doctor, who received 27 cents of the health care dollar. The remainder was divided as follows: 17 cents for dugs, 10 cents for dentists, 7 cents for health insurance, 4 cents for appliances and 5 cents for miscellaneous expenses.

Physicians' services totaled $6.8 billion—compared to $7 billion spent on personal items such as cosmetics, haircuts and toiletries. (SD

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

Who Says Men Are Stronger?

As of last July, there were about 18.2 million men and women in the U.S. aged 65 and over, and women outnumbered the "stronger" sex by about 2.3 million, according to statisticians at the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

By 1975, the experts predict, women are expected to outnumber men by 3.3 million, and a decade later by almost 4.5 million.

There are now 129 women for every 100 men aged 65 and over, and by 1985 the ratio may be 143 to 100.

WHY DO women live longer than men? Is it because they smoke less, visit their doctors more frequently, have more effective hormonal systems, allow their emotions freer play? Or is it just that the female of the species is essentially stronger?

While there is no generally accepted explanation, it is felt by many experts that the strains of earning a living, of being under constant pressure may take years off a man's life.

Junior-Size Plumbing Gains In Popularity

Junior-size plumbing fixtures have been available for many years, but they've never enjoyed much popularity. Now, they are coming into their own, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. You can get "juvenile" lavatories, water closets and tubs to furnish complete bathrooms.

The theory is that youngsters learn important habits of cleanliness, sanitation and order when they have their own bathrooms, and they carry these habits with them into later life.

Pediatricians and sociologists claim that a child should be washing his own hands by the time he's two years old. One secret for encouraging this habit is to make it easy to do—hence the need for a junior-size lavatory where he can easily reach the bowl and the soap.(S

Protect Your Eyes With Sunglasses

"For complete eye protection while on vacation, wear sunglasses with shatter-resistant lenses and safety frames," advises the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The sight-saving organization offers the following eye safety hints:

SUNBATHERS should never look directly at the sun while wearing sunglasses. Their tinted lenses provide relief from the glare but not protection from the dangerous infra-red rays that can penetrate the dark glass and damage the retina of the eye.

Boatmen and anglers should realize that the glare of the sun's reflection in water can transmit enough ultra-violet light to harm the eye. This could lead to a loss of vision so gradual that the victim might not be aware of what was happening until too late. Sunglasses will reduce the glare.

Sunglasses should be removed before driving at dusk. Tinted glasses which cut down glare in daylight reduce visibility after sundown. Road signs and traffic light needed by the driver to avoid accident may be obscured.

FISHERMEN should include protective glasses with case hardened or plastic lenses and safety frames in the angling kit. They provide a protective shield against needle-sharp hooks, barbed fish lures and heavy metal sinkers, which are a real threat to eyesight.

Free information on eye safety and health can be obtained by writing to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc., Box 426, New York, N. Y. 10019. (S

Entertainment Sink Offers Many Extras

The popularity of the entertainment sink is growing by leaps and bounds, right along with the continuing popularity of the family or recreation room. The newest entertainment sinks come with a large variety of built-in or optional equipment, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

You can get them with ledges containing wells for bottles, ice buckets or soap drawers. Some come with corner gooseneck faucets or glass-filler faucets for installation in tight places. You can get them with blenders and soap and lotion dispensers. Extra ledges to widen the basic sink, for convenience and a luxury look, also are available.

Other items growing in popularity for installation at the entertainment or kitchen sink include hot water or ice water dispensers and ice-making machines. (SD

For Easy Shine

Here's a way to make cleaning copper bottom pans easier.

Use a spray-on copper cleaner or apply liquid or cream cleaner with a pad of folded paper towels. When it's time to wipe off the cleaner, use more throw-away paper towel pads. With disposable paper towels, there's no cloth or sponge to clean.

Bachelors Unhappier Than Single Girls

Psychiatry now documents what women have always known intuitively: A bachelor's lot is not a happy one.

A study by psychiatrist Genevieve Knupfer and associates of the Mental Research Institute at Berkeley, Calif., shows that the single man is more likely to be dissatisfied and out-of-step with the world around him than his married brother. The bachelor is nearly three times as likely to report that he is unhappy as the single girl, and four times as likely to dislik[illegible] his job.

More [illegible] half the single men, according to the study, thought their parents' marriage had not been "too happy." Bachelors, more than other adults, were unsure of whether their parents had loved them, and had resented their parents' authority over them.

SINGLE WOMEN, on the other hand, enjoyed the happiest childhood — happier than persons who married and than men who remained single.

The researchers conclude that "more single men are maladjusted than single women," largely because of cultural factors. The study notes that since most women are eager to get married, those men who escape are more likely to be rejects.

The team notes, "because of the greater freedom of choice men have in the marriage market it seems likely that those who are either unable or unwilling to get married were more psychologically impaired to begin with."

As for the single women, Dr. Knupfer speculates that because many men want to feel superior to their wives, the women with strong independent personalities and other gifted traits may be bypassed. (S

Urge TB Tests For Infants

All children between the ages of six months and one year should be tested for tuberculosis, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American College of Chest Physicians recommended recently.

The tests, the experts urged, should be given, when possible, before the child has been vaccinated against measles or small pox.

Noting that TB still strikes children quite often, the joint statement advised that the TB test be repeated every year up to four years of age, and thereafter every two years, "depending on the risk of exposure of the child." (S

Bride Wears Mantilla She Bought on European Tour

A Brussels lace mantilla was the focal point of Cynthia Anne Batts' wedding attire as she became the bride of Timothy O'Gorman June 3 in South Church Community Baptist, Mount Prospect. She had purchased the mantilla while on a European tour last summer.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe W. Batts, 416 S. NaWaTa, Mount Prospect, chose a simply tailored wedding gown of peau de soie, enhanced sleeves and a flat bow at the empire waistline. The delicately petterned mantilla flowed over a peau de soie train attached at the back waistline of the dress.

The bride's bouquet was fashioned of Amazon lilies and ivy.

MRS. TIMOTHY O'GORMAN

SHE AND THE groom, son of the Kenneth O'Gormans of 534 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, repeated their vows before Rev. Edwin I. Stevens at 8 o'clock in the evening. The double ring rites took place by candlelight.

Miss Ellen Hebert of Indianapolis, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing an aqua cotton peau dress, floor-length, with aqua satin trim. Her bouquet was a crescent of carnations, cornflowers, statice and ivy.

FOUR BRIDESMAIDS preceded her down the aisle, also gowned in aqua. They were Kathleen O'Gorman, the groom's sister; Bonnie Stout of Champaign, Donna Walker of Santa Ana, Calif., and Mrs. Thomas Beck of Midland, Mich.

Miss Stout and Miss Walker are Pi Beta Phi sorority sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Beck is the former Barbara Nelson of Mount Prospect.

The groom's brother, Kenneth O'Gorman Jr. of College Park, Ga., was his best man, and seating the guests were Richard Batts, the bride's brother; Gary Erwin and Shane Gorman of Arlington Heights and Bernard Fick of Omaha.

A BLUE CREPE dress with an orchid corsage pinned to the shoulder was the ensemble worn by the bride's mother, while Mrs. O'Gorman wore a pale green silk dress with a pink orchid corsage.

Two hundred guests greeted the newlyweds later at an Old Orchard Country Club reception, and the couple then left for a honeymoon at Eagle River, Wis.

They are both graduates of DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind. The bride, who attended Prospect High School, received her degree from DePauw just five days before her wedding. The groom attended Arlington High School before going to DePauw, where he was graduated last February. He is now working in the sales department of Metal-Cal Co.
